PARTICIPATION

One possibility for finding oneself on campus this year was through participation in one or more of Westminster High School's numerous clubs and activities. Students were offered a wide range of opportunities for involvement: everything from sock-hops to serving on the Academic Decathlon Team, from athletics to playing in the band. The purpose for WHS's wide variety was to give students diversity in experiences, and the chance to discover new extracurricular interests, personal ambitions and friendships. Participation, a long-time tradition at Westminster, increased the value of our high school education by teaching us to recognize our own talents and needs for involvement.

NA-NALFE

FRIENDSHIP

Throughout the year we put great effort into building and strengthening established relationships. Through our friends, both peers and adults, we learned to face and overcome difficult moments, and to realize where our own strengths lie. Friends helped us to take on new responsibilities and encouraged us to share our lives with them. Through our devotion to friends, we broadened our interests and opened our lives to new possibilities.

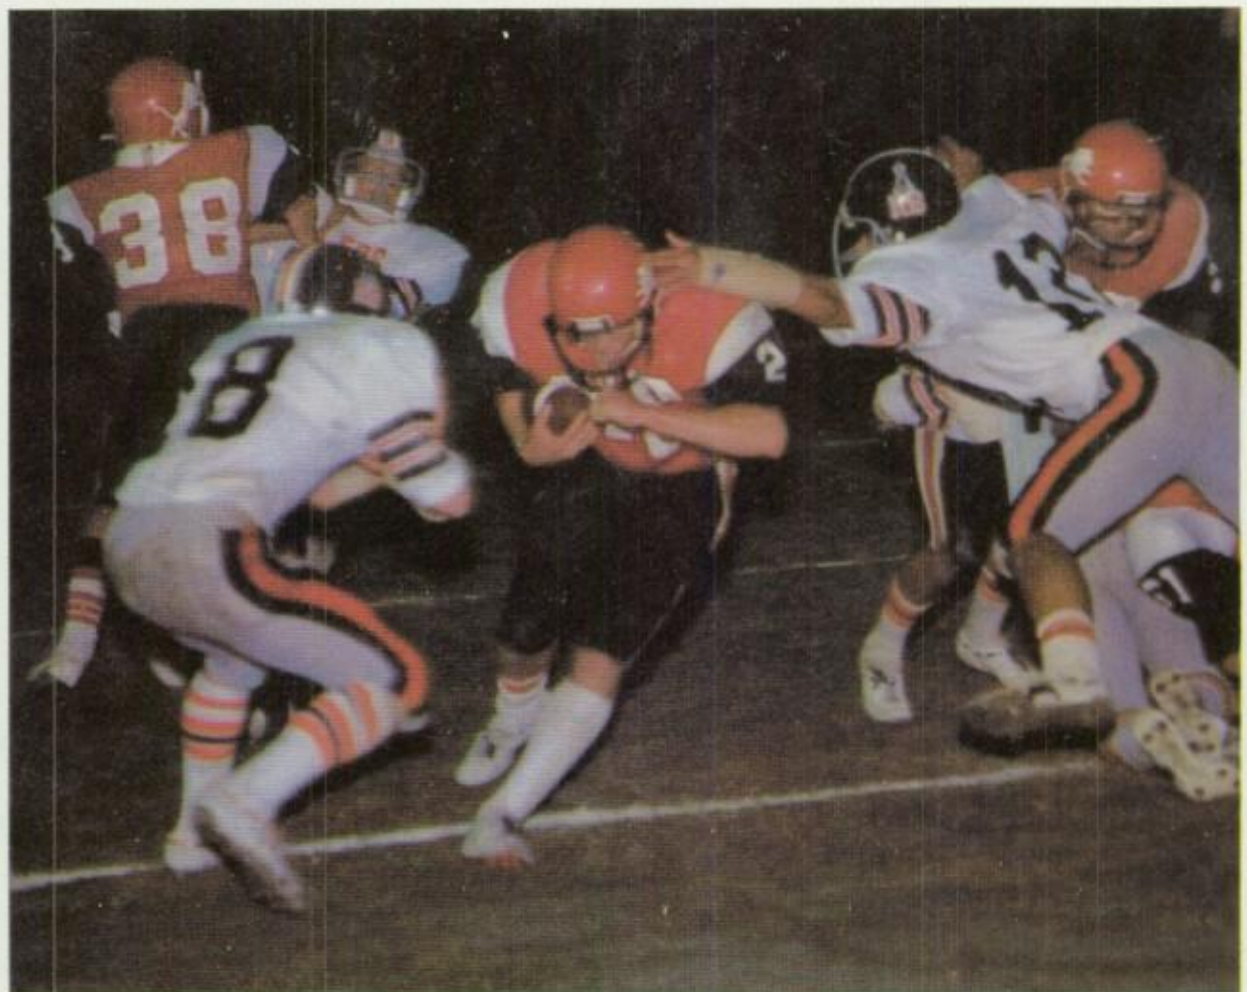

PHYSICAL EFFORT

It may have been through being chosen to play on the team, managing to “hang in there” all the way to the finish line, or allowing someone else the glory of scoring the final goal. But whatever the moment, WHS students discovered themselves, both physically and mentally, through sports and conditioning activities. Team and individual sports, PE classes, and the opportunity for personal training provided all students with the chance to compete, to develop abilities, endurance, perseverance, and habits which will sustain us in many future pursuits.

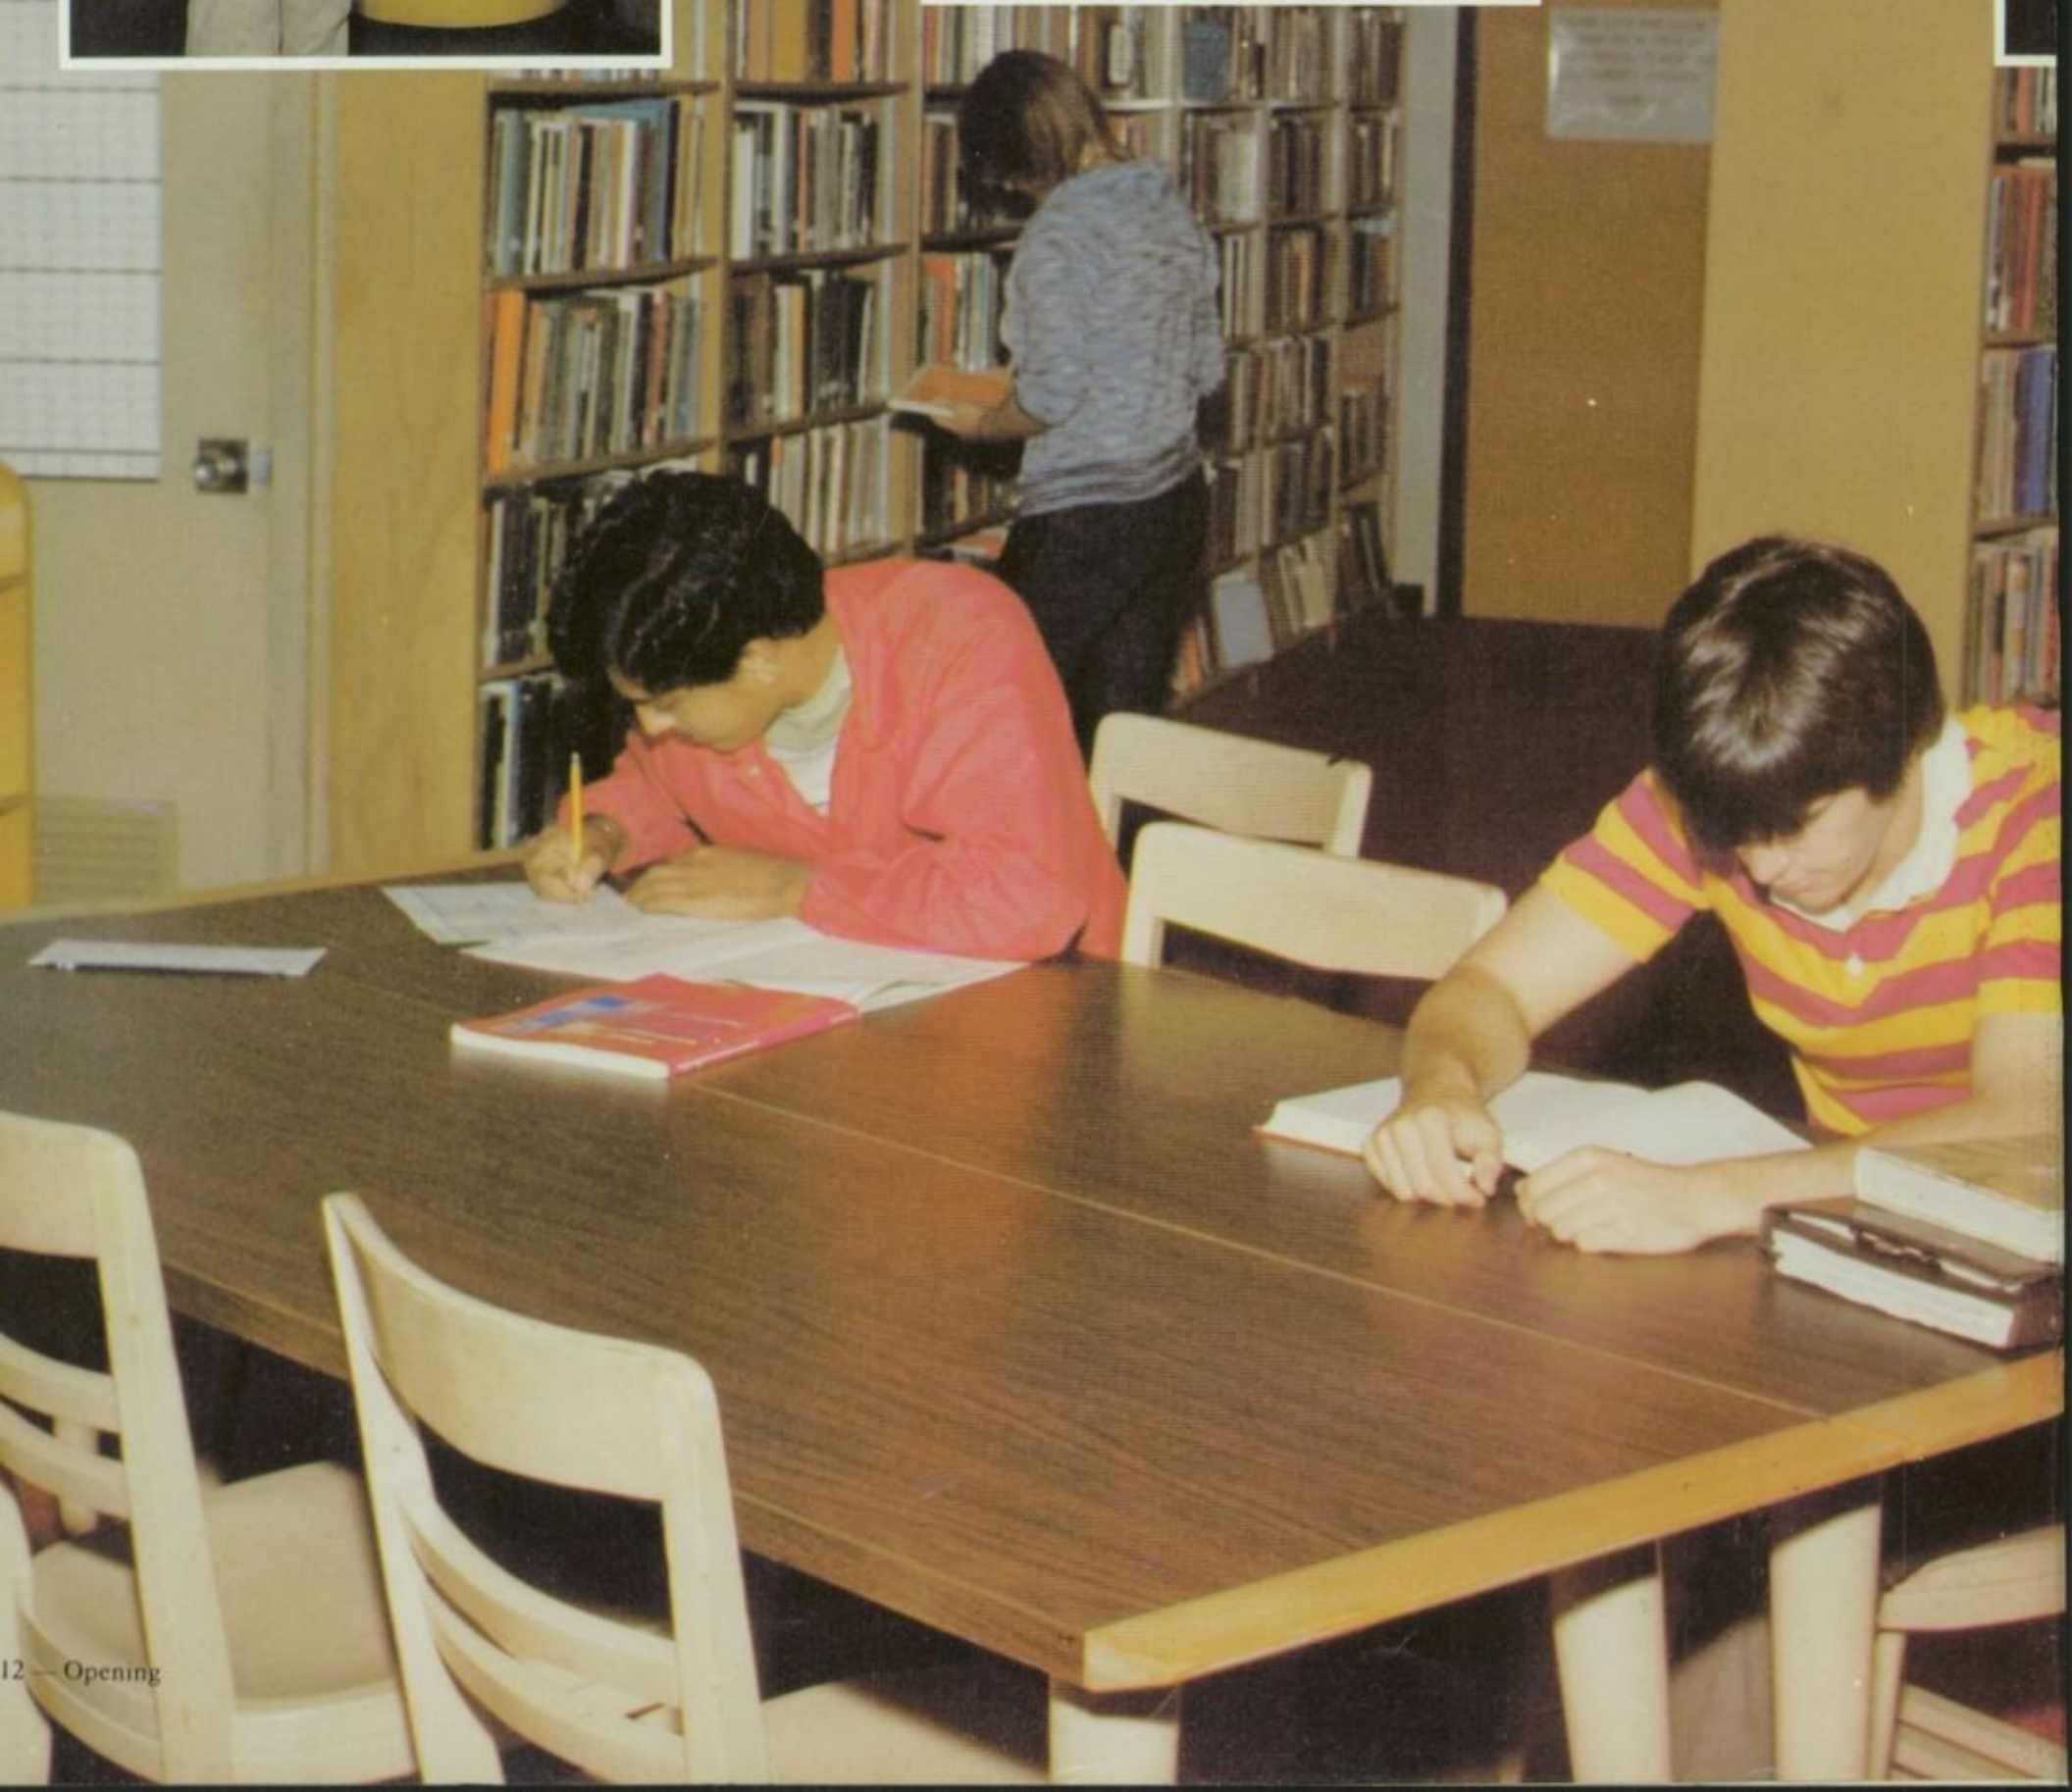

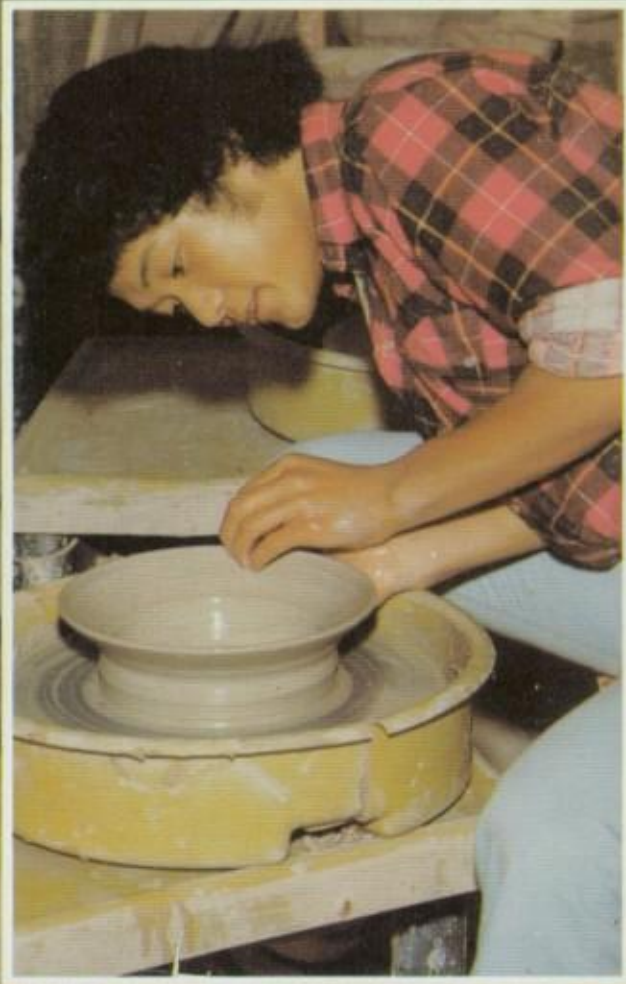

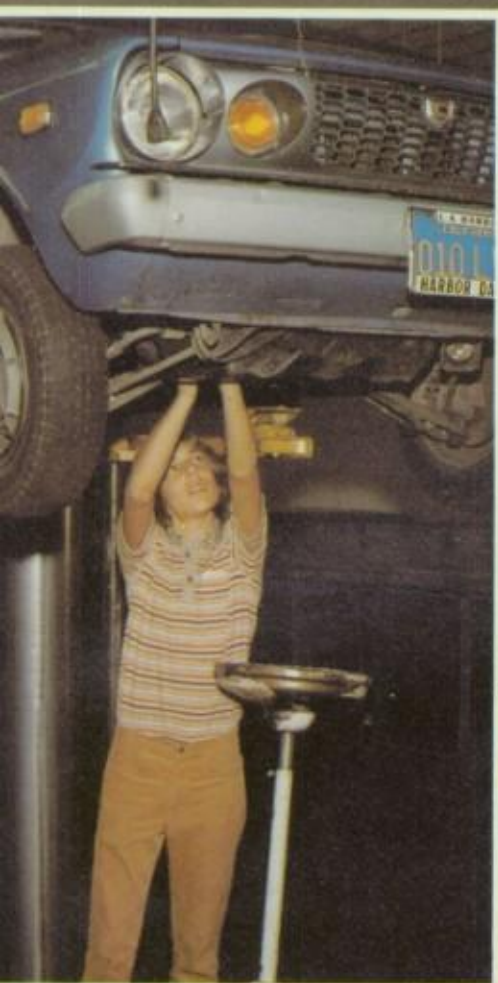

LEARNING

LOVING

To most, education was an obligation that students at Westminster chose to accept as they progressed through high school. Individuals were motivated through interesting courses and subject matter — and through awareness that their future would depend largely on self-motivation. Many teachers and counselors established an atmosphere in which learning became an enjoyable experience and a coveted goal. We found, within ourselves, a desire for learning and discovering new interests.

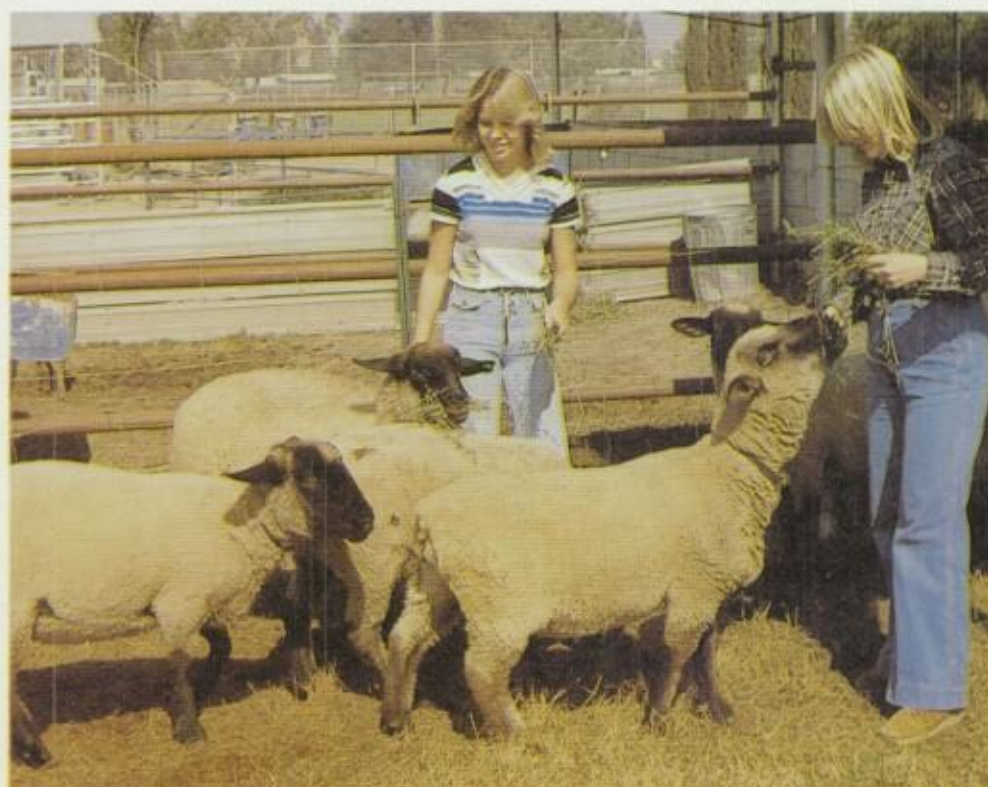

Danny, its been nice knowing you. Hope we can be friends for always. Good luck in future years.

Love,
Becky N. Ledesma. 6-9-78

EXPECTATION'S

The basic goal of a school is probably described best as the preparation of students for the outside world, the world beyond the comforts of familiar people and circumstances. Westminster provided us with curriculum required for high school graduation, but also gave us something more: a chance to decide what we could do best in life. Special programs were offered to help students determine career directions that would suit individual interests and needs. The Career Guidance Center, Work Experience Office, Job Placement Center, counselors, homeroom advisors and informative representatives from various colleges offered all students the opportunity to make their own, highly personalized graduation plans.

PARTICIPATION

Finding Classes and Meeting People Highlighted the First Day

September 12, 1977, marked the eighteenth time that Westminster High School had welcomed scholars back to classes.

Seniors, Juniors, and Sophomores returned to find that the lockers no longer had locks on them.

There was a new twist added to the schedule. Snack, which had been a social period for students in the past, had been replaced with homeroom.

For the Freshman, it was a day to become acquainted with the school, teachers, and new programs constructed to help them achieve competency requirements by June, 1981.

My first day of school I was sorta scared, and afraid of getting run into while dodging people in the halls.

Debbie Butera, Freshman

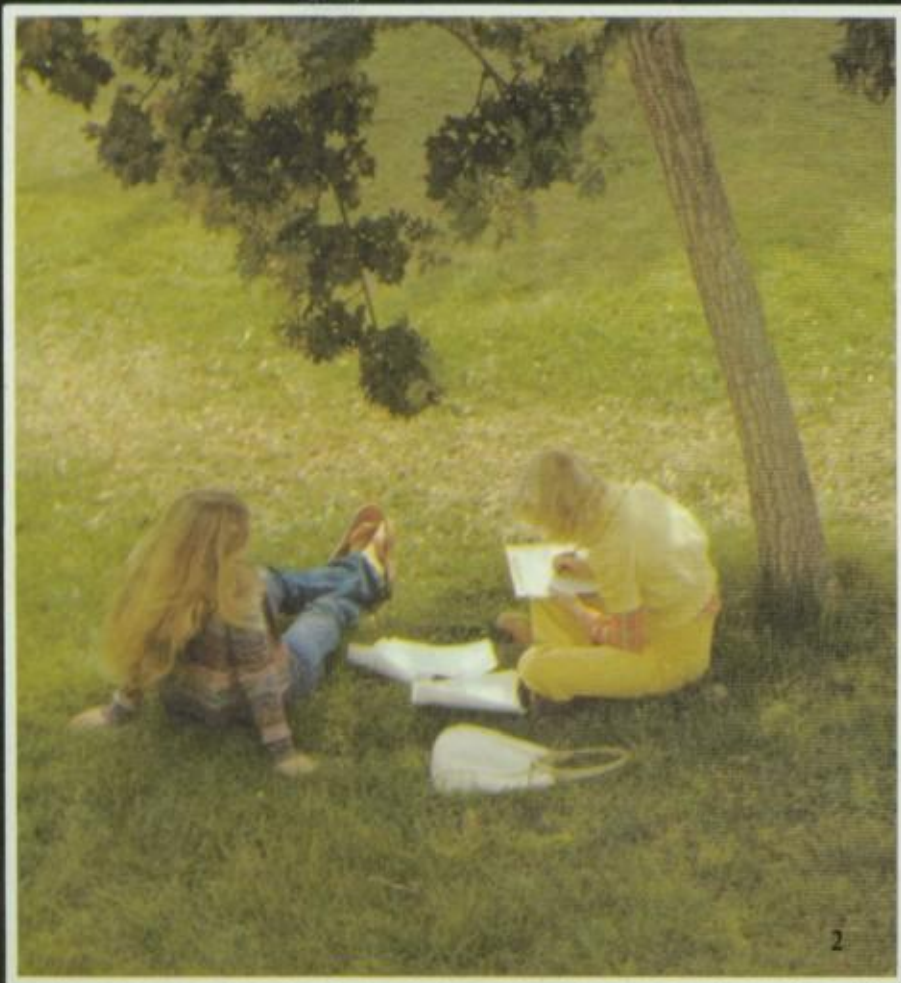

A new teacher-advisor program designed to give students someone on campus they could talk to was underway.

House of Lords renewed their relationship with the students by giving out candy.

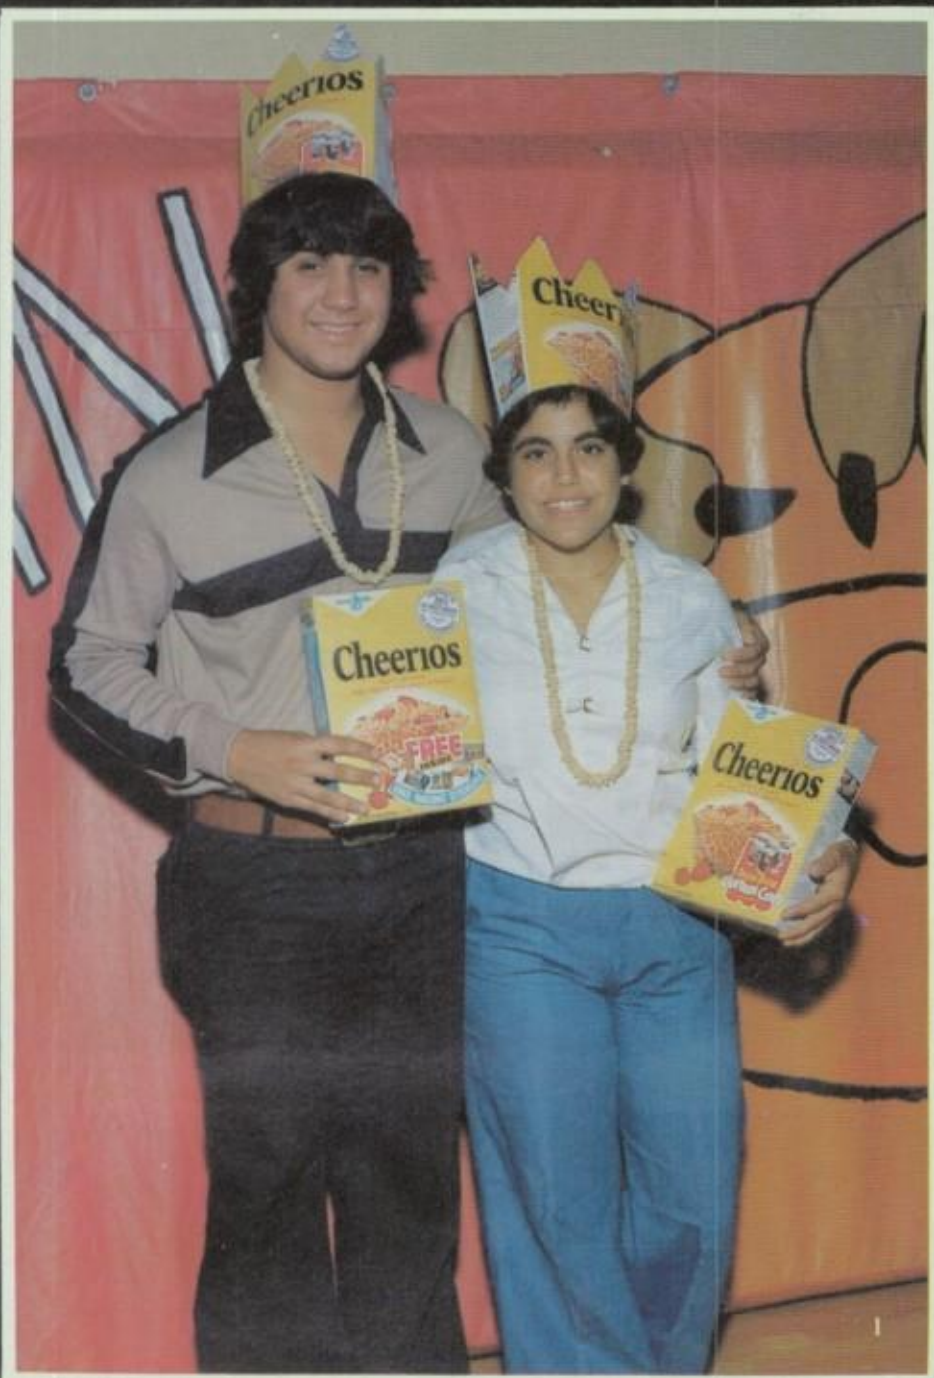

There was yet another, not so obvious change. Grades were to be given out on a semester basis, instead of at the quarter as had been done in the past.

As the day wore on, old friendships were renewed and new ones begun. A new year was underway.

P. 16. 1) Lunch on the first day is a time to renew old friendships without worrying about interrupting teachers. 2) Along with the first day of school, came the return of homework. These students are taking an opportunity to study on the lawn in Buckingham Square. 3) One of the biggest problems for the Freshman is finding their classes. Here three Freshmen get assistance in finding their classrooms.

Cheerio Dancers Got Down to the Tunes of "Liberty Four"

The Cheerio Dance, which was held on September 16, gave returning students a chance to renew old friendships and to get back into the swing of school routines. It also provided Freshmen with the opportunity to meet new people and to attend their first high school dance.

Lions' League, which sponsored the dance, also sponsored a Cheerio Breakfast that morning. Students who attended the breakfast "started the day off right" with a bowl of Cheerios.

I was shocked to be Senior Friendliest, but very happy — and I'll never forget it or the Cheerio Dance.

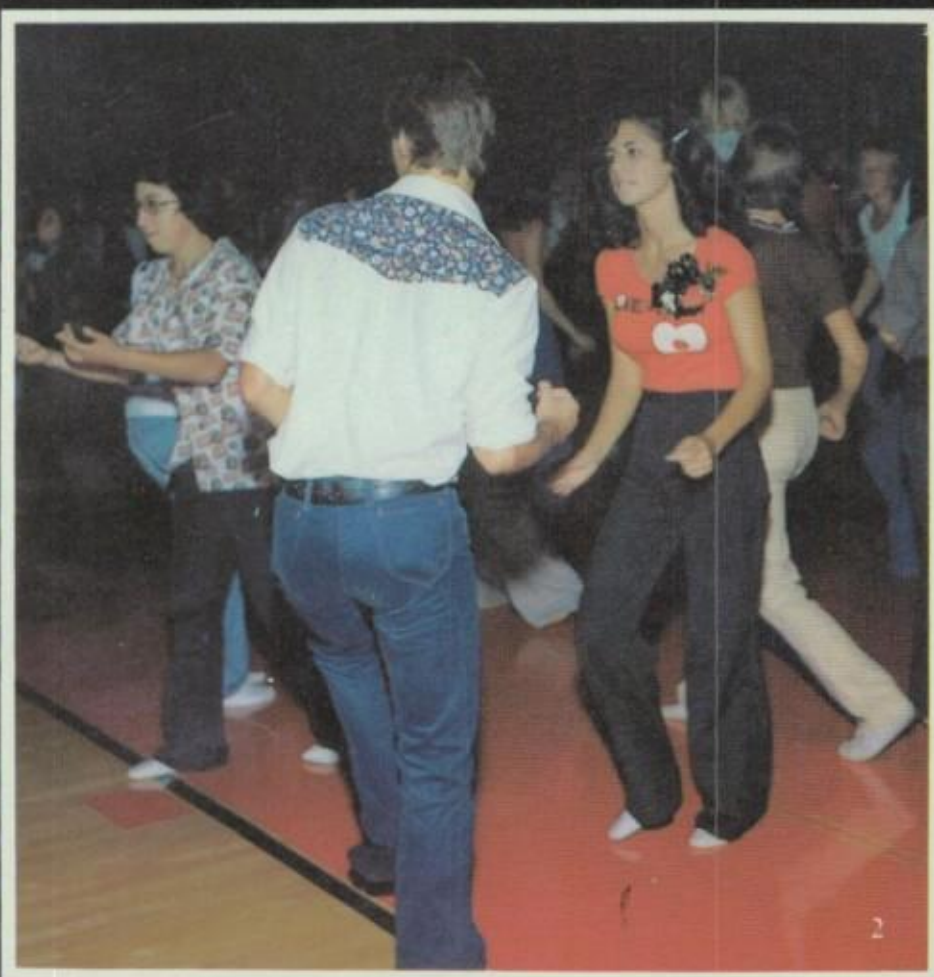

— Jim McShane, Senior Friendliest

Early in the first week nominations were taken in the home-rooms for the Friendliest Freshmen and Seniors. These nominees were voted on by the students who attended the dance, and the winners were crowned during the evening. Named Senior Friendliest were Jim McShane and Mary Ann Dibs. The Friendliest Freshmen were Jeff Compton and Lori Hallett.

Students got their dancing back into shape to the sounds of "Liberty Four" which provided a wide variety of music.

The Cheerio Dance followed our first football game which was against Anaheim. The Lions were victorious with a final score of 29-7.

1) Voted Senior Friendliest were Jim McShane and Mary Ann Dibs. 2) Students rocked out to the music of "Liberty Four." 3) Jeff Compton and Lori Hallett were crowned Freshman Friendliest.

Sock Hops Provided W.H.S. Students With an

Sock hops, which were held after many of the year's home football games, gave students a chance to socialize and dance with that favorite girl or guy.

The Seniors sponsored a sock hop on September 30, following the football game against Millikan. Students who attended the dance moved to the sounds of the band "Live Wire."

Sock hops had excellent attendance and showed increased student enthusiasm in school activities.

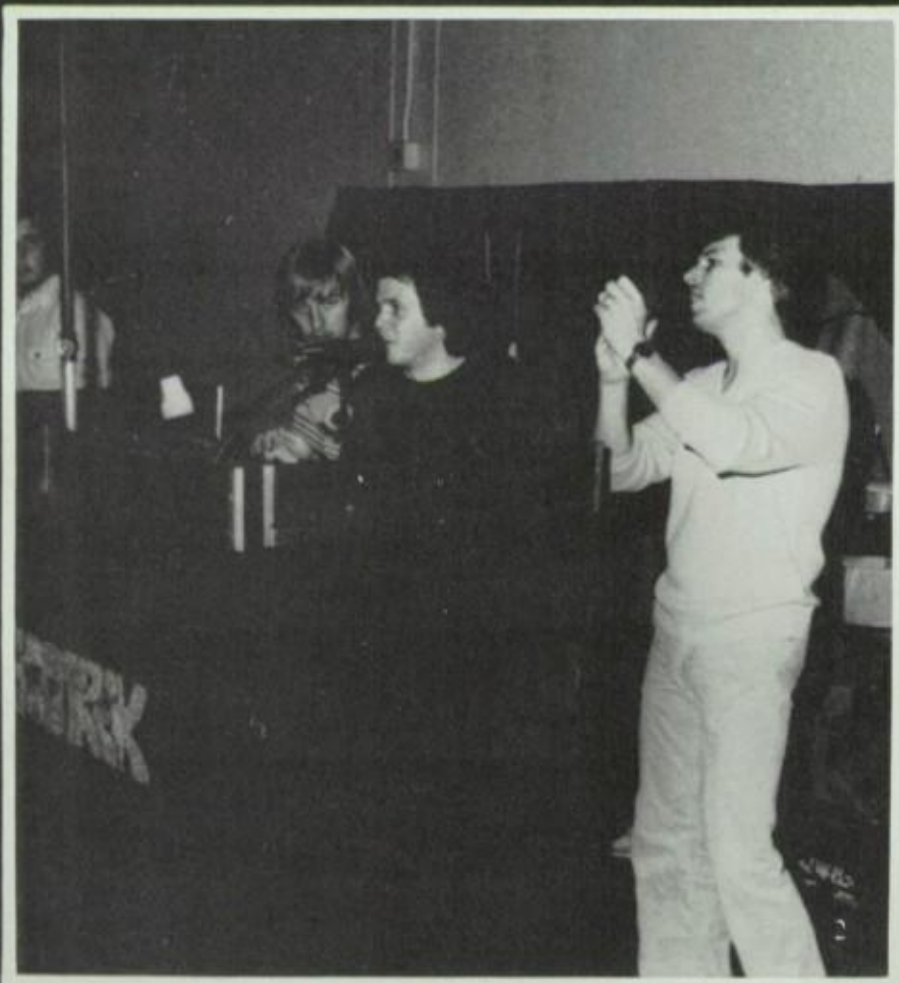

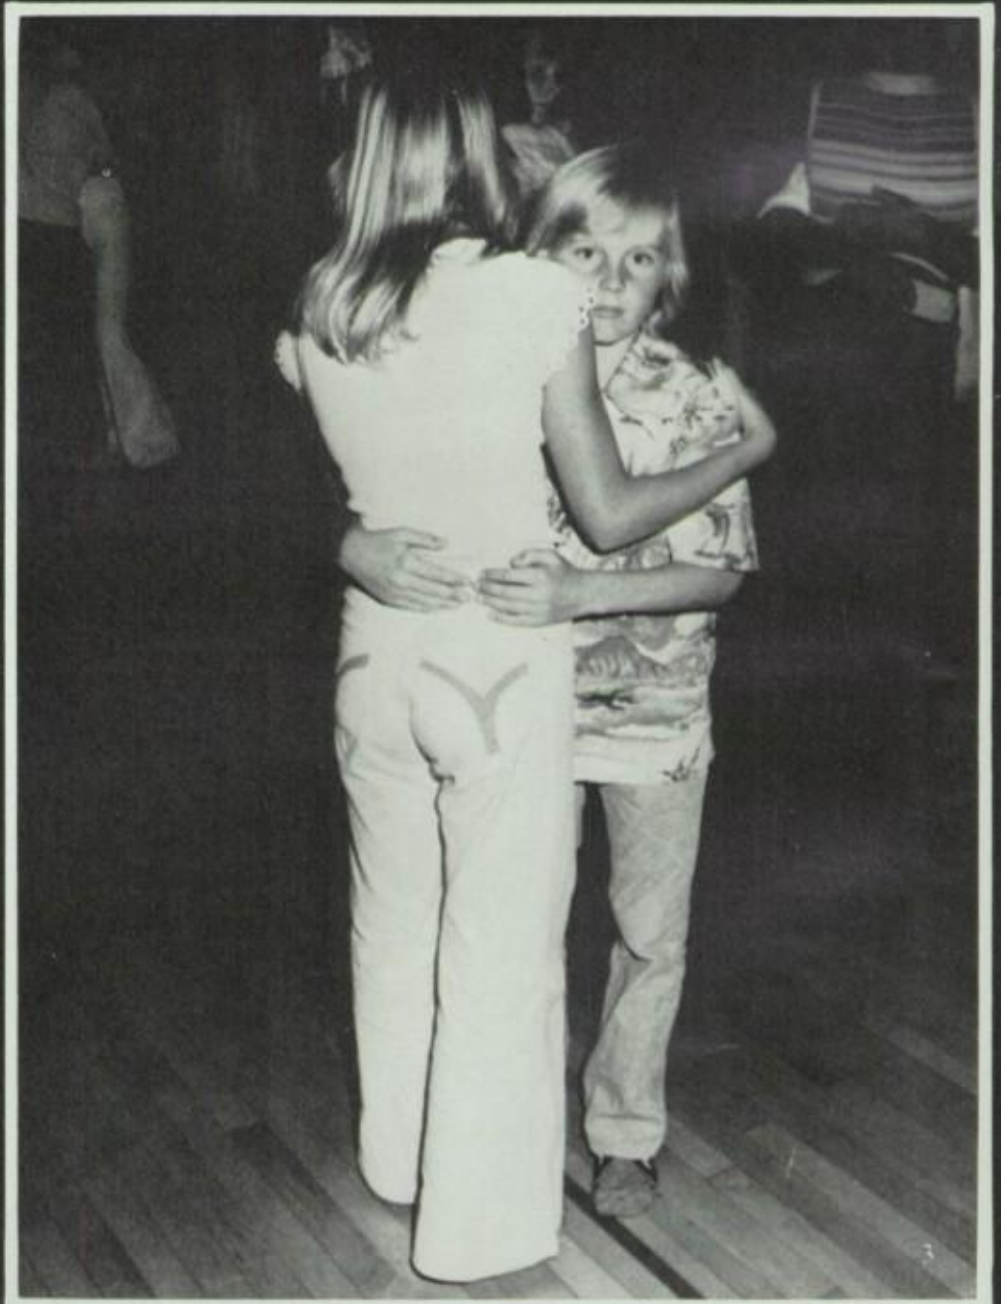

— Dave Sparks, House of Lords

"Disco 1" provided the music at the sock hop held October 28. This dance was held by the Junior Class to celebrate the Lion victory over Marina.

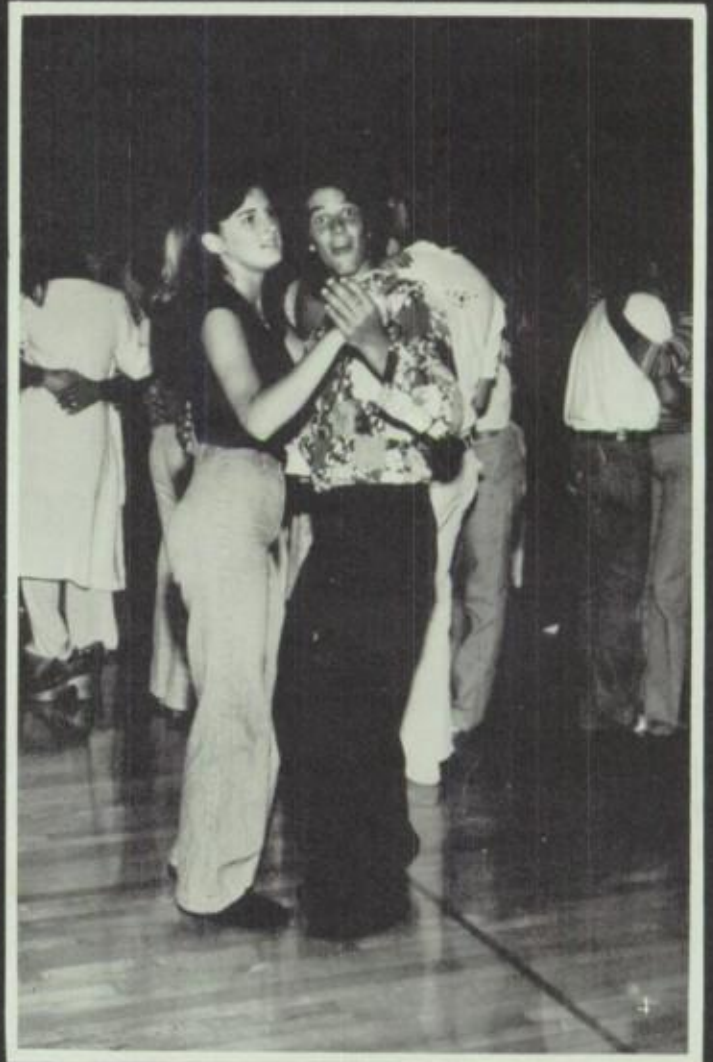

The Fountain Valley game preceded the sock hop on November 10. The music was provided by "Discotrek" and this dance was sponsored by the Sophomores.

Each of these after game get-togethers provided opportunities for WHS students to release tension and promote school spirit.

P. 18. 1) Bob Togonon draws the attention of other students as he demonstrates his acrobatic ability on the dance floor. 2) "Discotrek" played a wide variety of popular tunes at the Sophomore-sponsored sock hop. 3) This freshman couple slow dances to the music of "Live Wire." P. 19. 1) These members of "Disco 1" play the hit by Rita Coolidge, "We're All Alone." 2) Since students came directly to the sock hops from the football games, a wide variety of coats, clothes and shoes could be found piled high in the gym foyer. 3) The sock hops attracted large crowds of WHS students. 4) Sam Tricoli is surprised by the camera as he dances with Val Barbati.

Seniors Were Treated to a Fun-Filled Evening of Dancing

The Senior Luau took place on October 15, and Senior students enjoyed an evening of eating Hawaiian food, watching Hawaiian dancers and dancing themselves.

The Seniors feasted on a buffet of various Hawaiian foods which they ate at low tables while sitting on straw mats.

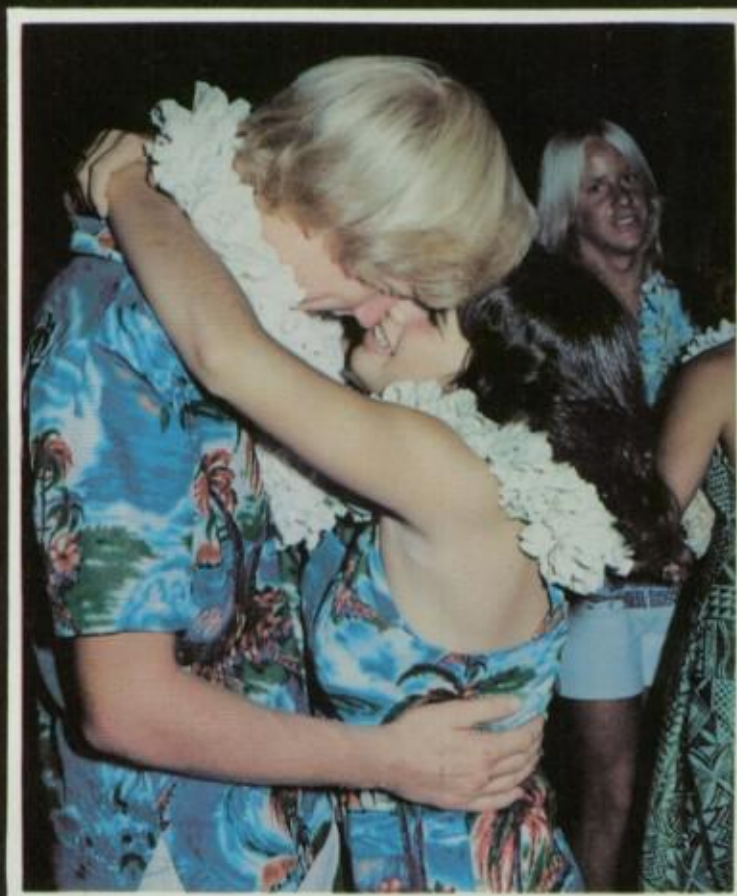

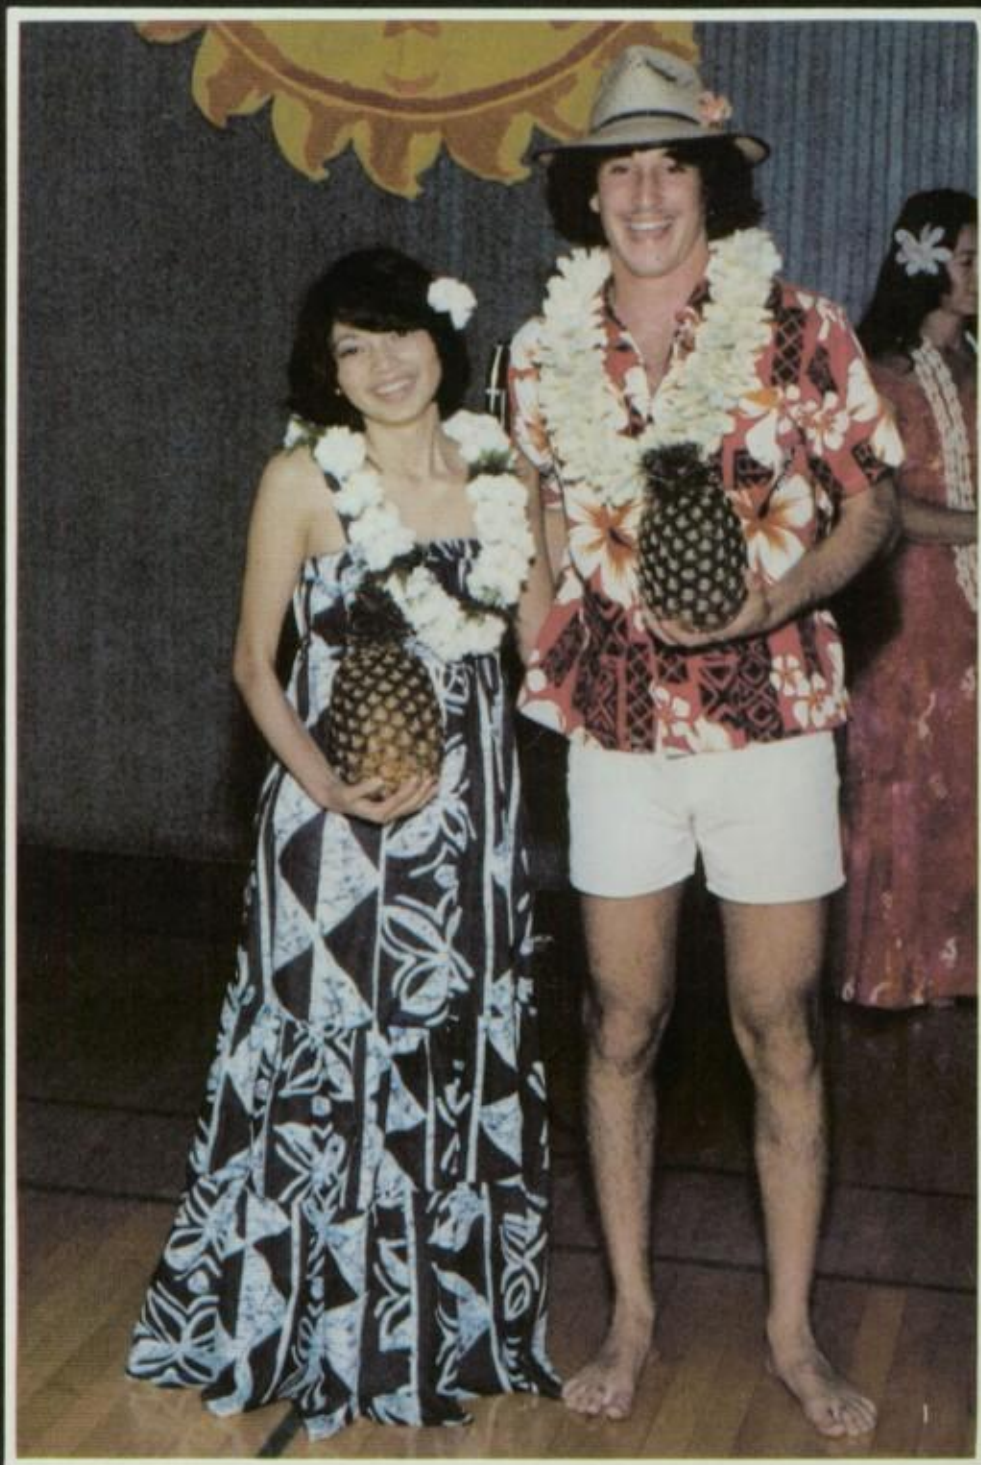

The Senior Luau was a lot of fun for all of the Seniors who came. Many people put in hours of hard work to make it successful, and I think it was worth it.

— Dawn Toyoma, Senior Luau Queen

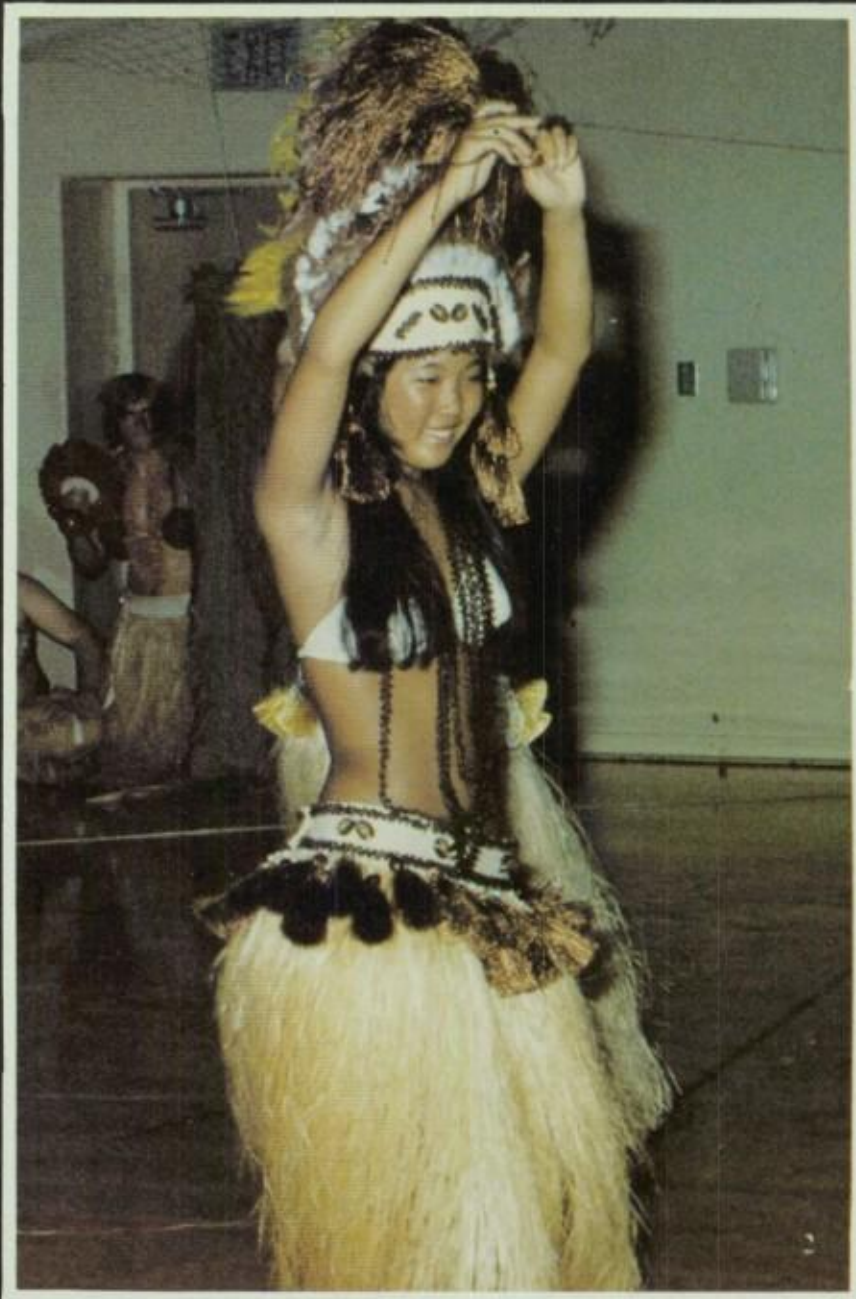

Professional Hawaiian dancers provided excellent entertainment that held everyone's attention. These dancers were joined part way through the show by some male members of the Senior Class who thought they could be just as entertaining.

After the show everyone danced to the music of the band "Live Wire" and took the opportunity to mingle with their fellow students.

The Junior Class Took First Place in the Homecoming Week started on Monday with the traditional decorating of Buckingham Square by the Senior class. The Junior, Sophomore and Freshman classes also decorated the square on the following days to the theme of "Queen's Jubilee." The Junior Class decorations took first place; the Seniors earned second place, the Freshman third, and the Sophomores fourth.

I will always appreciate and remember my friends for helping me make Homecoming a beautiful memory of my Senior year.

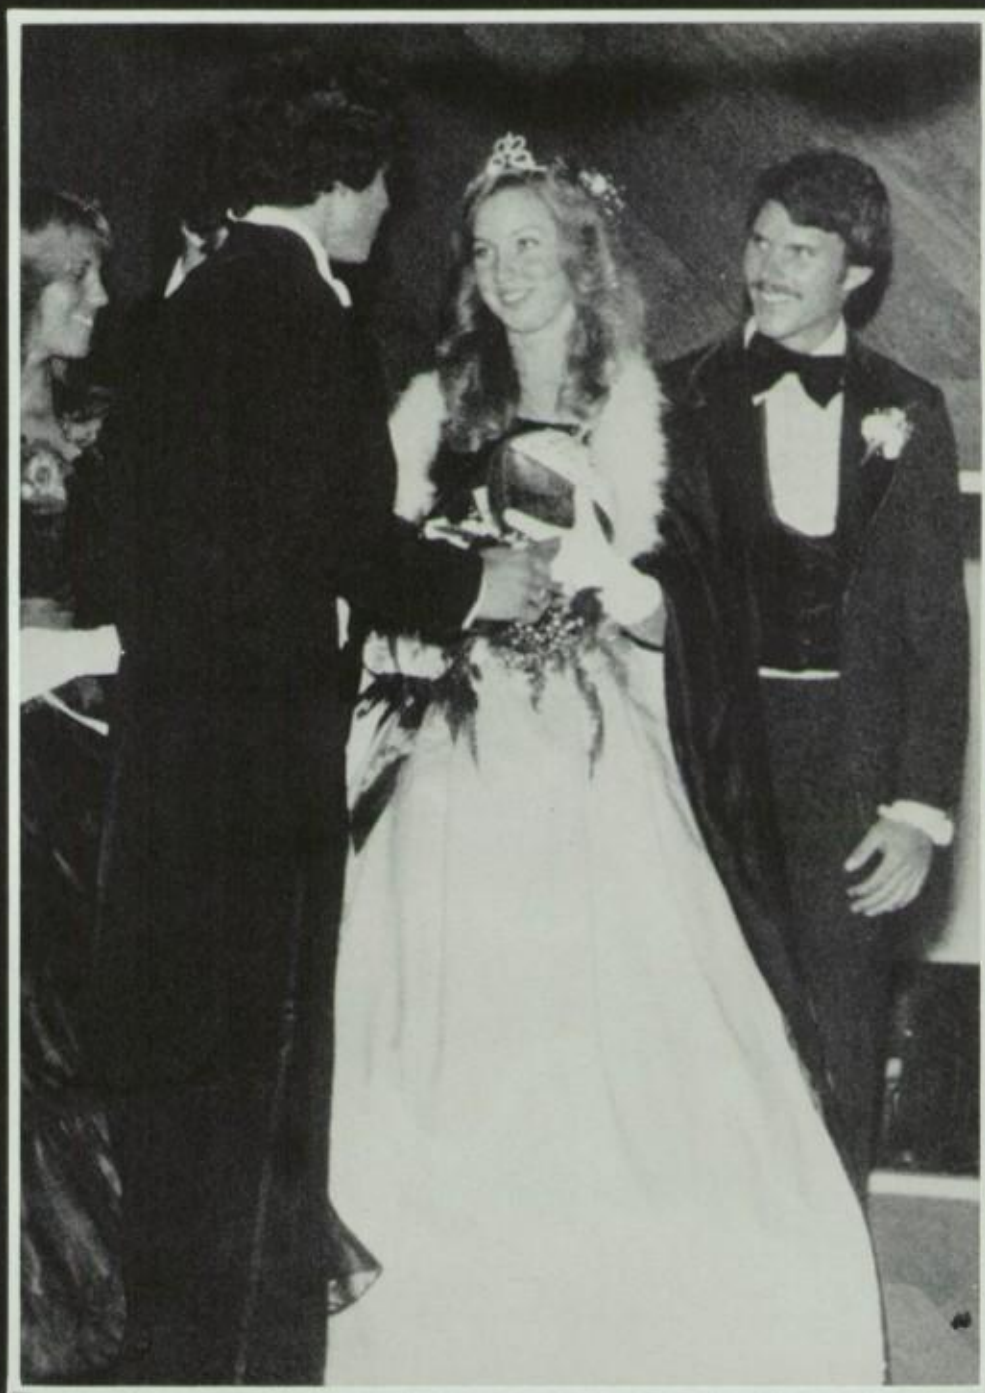

— Lorie Compton, Homecoming Princess

On Wednesday morning members of House of Lords kidnapped the five girls on the Homecoming Court and dressed them up in humorous clothes. Then the girls were taken out to breakfast at Spires and to school still wearing their "beautiful" clothes.

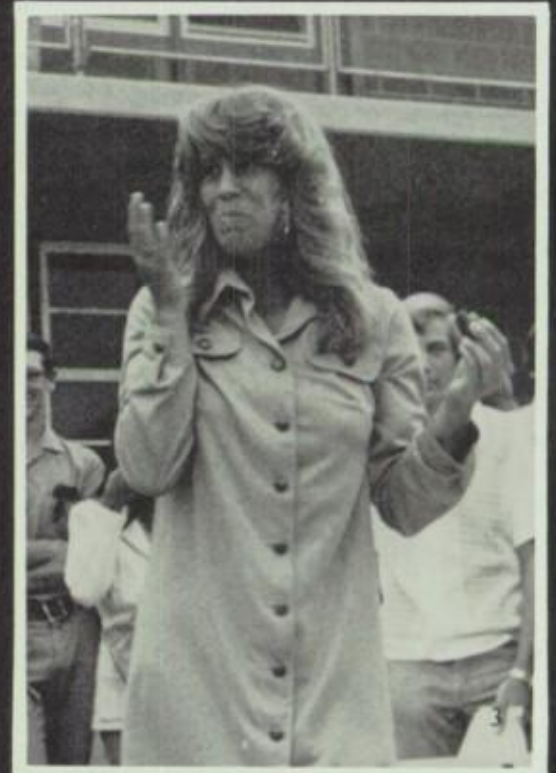

On October 20, teachers were treated to a tea given by the House of Lords. In line with the theme of the 1977 Homecoming, the teachers were served tea and crumpets, an English treat.

Homecoming Week came to a dramatic finish on Friday night, October 21, when Debbie Stoll was crowned WHS Homecoming Queen.

Traditional Decorating of Buckingham Square

The 1977 Homecoming Queen Debbie Stoll Was Crowned

Homecoming night began for the members of the Homecoming Court when they were escorted into the stadium by their fathers. The candidates and their fathers were seated near the fifty-yard line to watch the pre-game festivities and the first half of the football game.

Although Homecoming is over, it has left me with many memories of my family and friends that I will cherish always.

— Debbie Stoll, Homecoming Queen

A few minutes before half-time the five girls were escorted by their fathers to the parade MG's. At the beginning of the half-time show the girls were driven around the track and then led onto the field where they awaited the announcement of the 1977 Homecoming queen.

Finally the moment came, and Debbie Stoll was announced the 1977 Homecoming Queen. Debbie was crowned by ASB President Jeff Snyder, then driven around the track while the marching band played "God Save the Queen."

Burt Reynolds and Star Wars Characters Appeared

Pep rallies, through the combined efforts of House of Lords, Pepsters, band and other involved students, helped increase school spirit during the football season.

The highlight of the season occurred at the rally before the Fountain Valley game. This spirit-raising event began with a pep parade which went through the school and out to the stadium. All through the week there had been announcements that a special guest would appear at the pep rally. This guest, none other than Burt Reynolds, arrived in the stadium in a Westminster police car.

The most fun I had this year was planning and working with people on the Pep rallies. They really brought out the creativity in people, and all who participated had a blast.

— Bob Mueller, House of Lords

Another memorable pep rally was staged to the theme of Star Wars. This rally included appearances by the Cheerleaders of the Future and a duel between our own Luke Skywalker (Mr. Ramos), the evil Darth Vader (Jim Jewell), an Imperial Stormtrooper (Noel Jewell), and Chewbacca (Bob Mueller). Artoo-Detoo also made an appearance.

"Fantastic Fantasies" was the theme for the Sophomore-sponsored Peasants' Prom. The girls-ask-guy masquerade dance was held in the student cafeteria on November 5.

Costume-clad couples rocked out to the music of the band "Tydewalk" which played a little something for everyone. Besides dancing, couples could obtain a "marriage license" in an adjacent room where ceremonies were taking place. Steve Grodt acted as the minister.

The Peasants' Prom was a lot of people, a lot dancing, and a lot of fun.

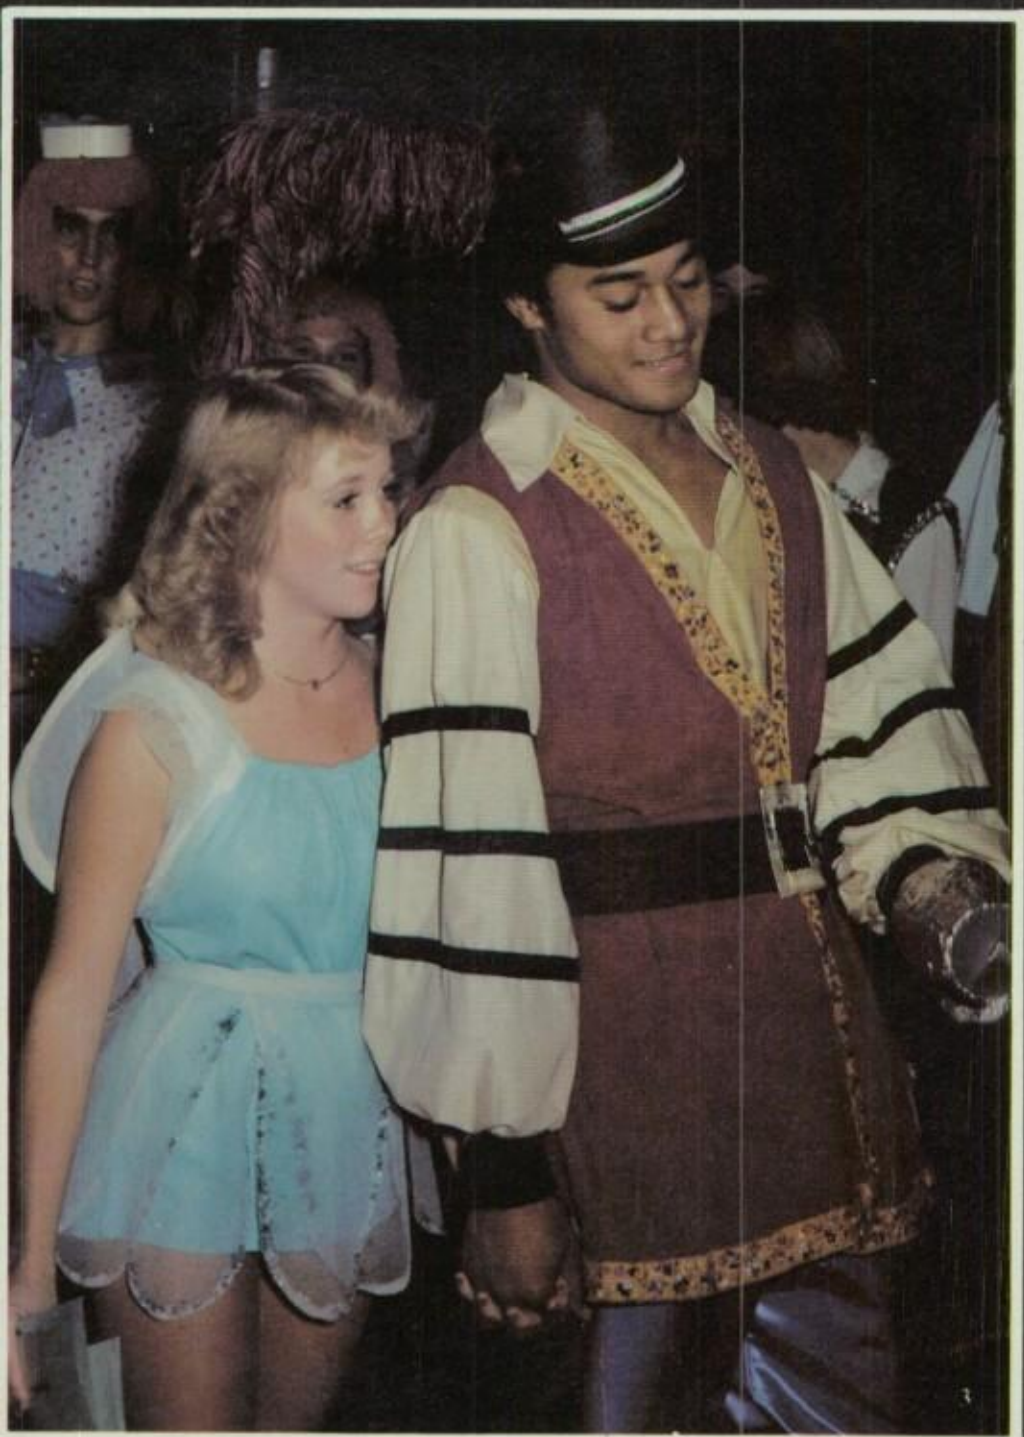

— Eileen Fertig, House of Lords

First place in the costume contest went to "Kiss" which consisted of six individuals dressed in the image of the popular singing group. Scott Brock and Melissa Douglas — dressed as Robin Hood and Maid Marion — captured second place. Third place went to Tracey Perkins and Danny Pau who were attired as Tinkerbell and Captain Hook.

P. 28. 1) Lorie Compton and Clyde Gamboa look happily into each other's eyes as "Reverend Grodt" pronounces them man and wife. 2) The members of "Kiss" — Rob Hardin, Mendy Hyepock, Glenn Coates, Shelly Williams, Scott West and Brad Fierce — strike a pose for the camera after taking first place in the costume contest. 3) This couple anxiously awaits the band's return from its break, so they can get back out on the dance floor before the vampires strike. P. 29. 1) These clowns, Paula Balcom, Aaron Miller, Rusty Rohde and Dorene Juedes, stop for a picture before going off to get married. 2) Raggedy Ann and Andy take a few minutes to catch their breath after dancing to the music of "Tydewalk." 3) Tracy Perkins as Tinkerbell and Danny Pau as Captain Hook, third place winners in the costume contest, wait for the band to resume playing after the awards were given out. 4) This harem girl waits for her sheik to finish talking, so they can go dance.

"The American Dame" Showed Changes in the

"The American Dame," the 1977 fall play was presented under the direction of Ms. Rosemary Stevens, drama teacher, on December 9 and 10. A tribute to the progress of women through the ages, "The American Dame" covered the time span from Adam and Eve to the present.

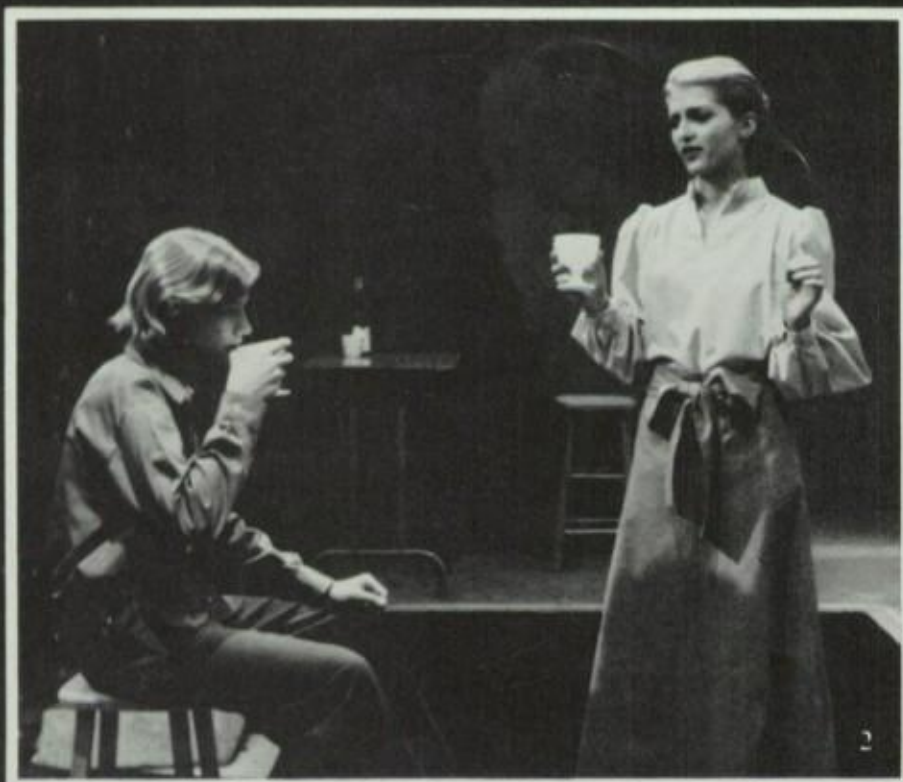

"The American Dame" was partially composed of segments from other plays. One scene was taken from Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" and another is taken from Ibsen's "A Doll's House."

Working on the "Dame" was a trip! The play gave all of the actors a chance to be as versatile as they could be by changing character at the drop of the hat. It was a real happening! Even though the play is over, it will live on in all the actors' and audience's hearts! Thanks for making it what it was!

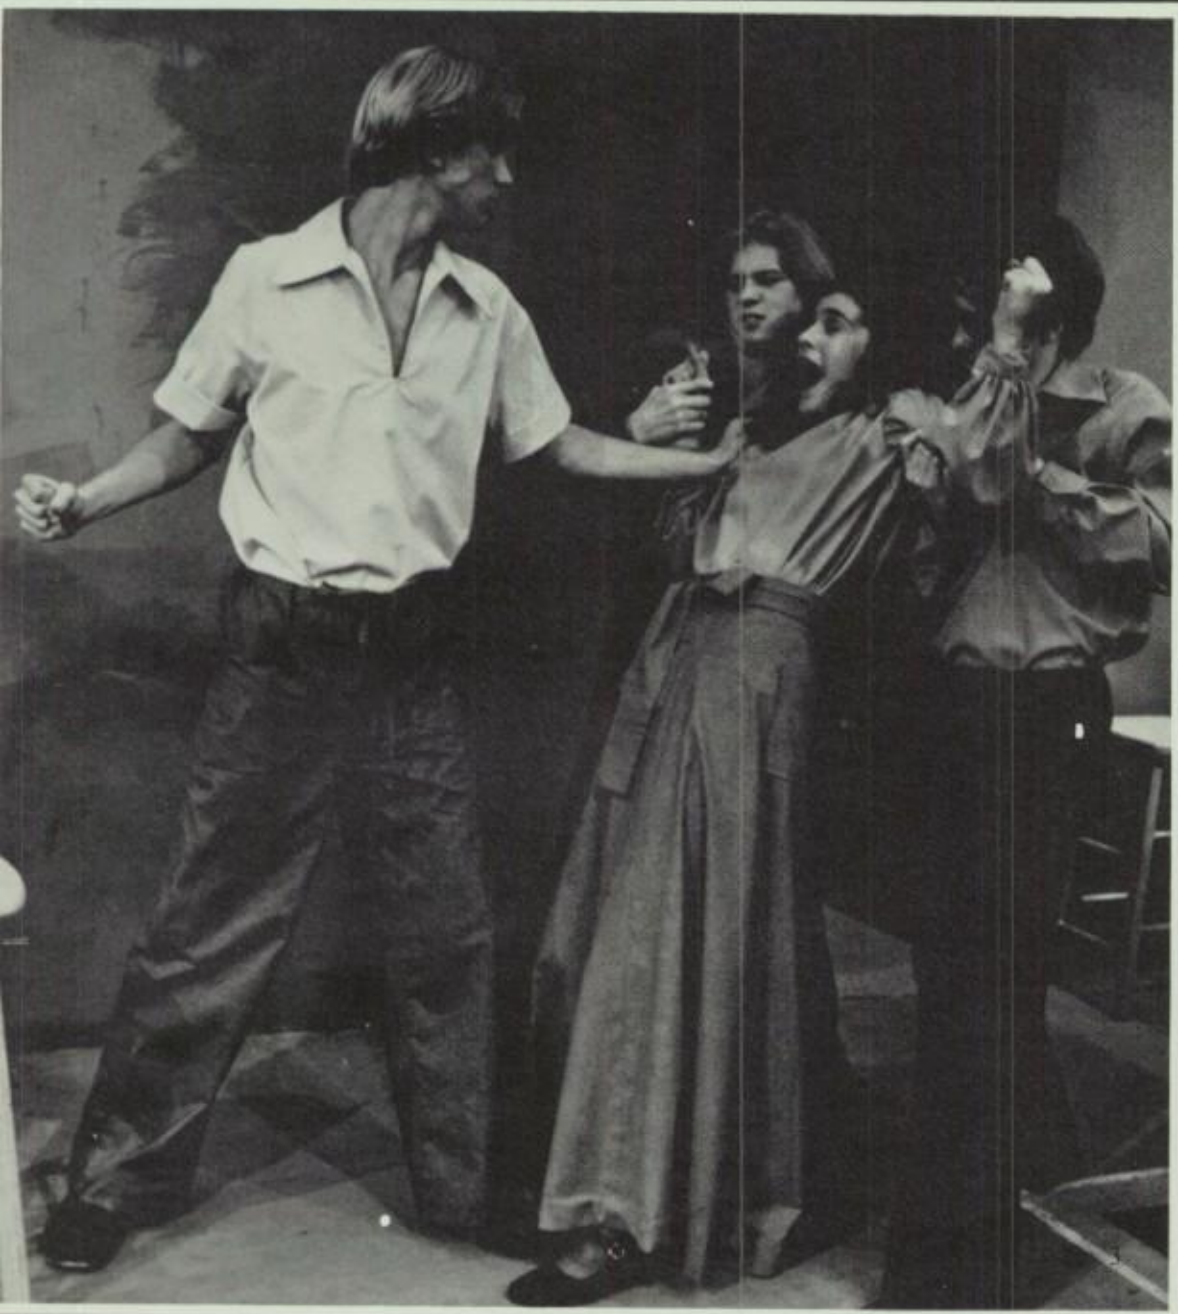

— Greg Griffin, Thespian

Other scenes included the letters written by John and Abigail Adams to each other during the Revolutionary War. Another scene dealt with a husband that finds out that his wife, whom he thought was completely dependent on him, had made a fortune in her secret real estate deals.

P. 30. 1) The entire cast pays a tribute to the role of women during World War I. 2) Cookie (Patty Griffin) and her husband (Mike Furst) discuss her activities in real estate. 3) In a scene from "The Taming of the Shrew" husband and wife, played by Mike Furst and Deanna James, kiss after she gives a speech on how a wife should be loyal to her husband. P. 32. 1) The entire cast of "The American Dame" take time from their rehearsal to pose for the camera. 2) At the close of the play Verna Seal and John McIntosh tell how much women have changed through history. 3) This scene showed how outspoken women were taken care of, 4) An Indian chief (Mike Furst) is carried by his squaws (Mary Thompson and Deanna James.)

Cal State Fullerton Provided the Setting for the

"A Christmas Carol," the 1977 Christmas Formal, which was held on December 17, started off Christmas vacation with an evening to remember.

The Student Center at Cal State Fullerton provided the setting for the formal. The Center was decorated in the spirit of Christmas with a Christmas tree and other decorations prepared by members of House of Lords.

Being on the committee for the Christmas Formal, I knew it would be great. The rain made it a little bit uncomfortable, but at least everyone had an excuse to cuddle up!

— Leslie Cye, House of Lords

Couples danced to the music of the band "Marbles" which played a good variety of songs. Highlighting the Christmas Formal was the crowning of the 1977 Christmas King, Mark Woodhouse.

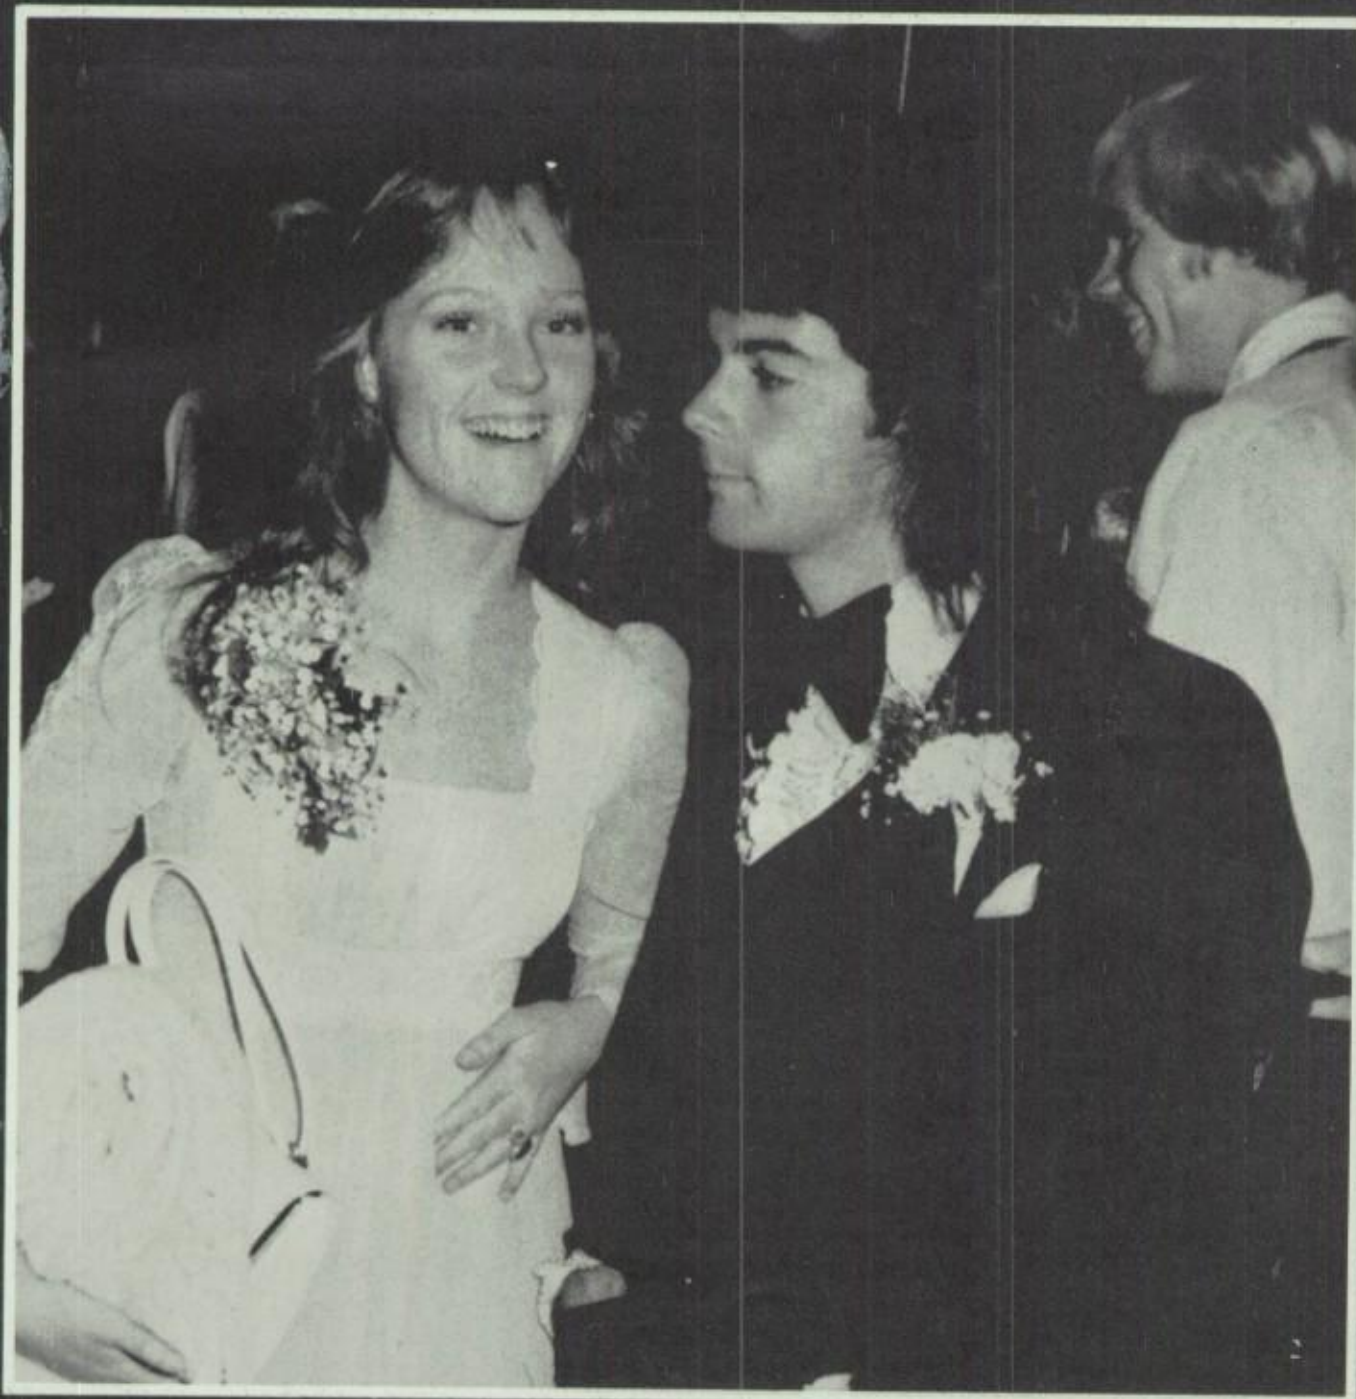

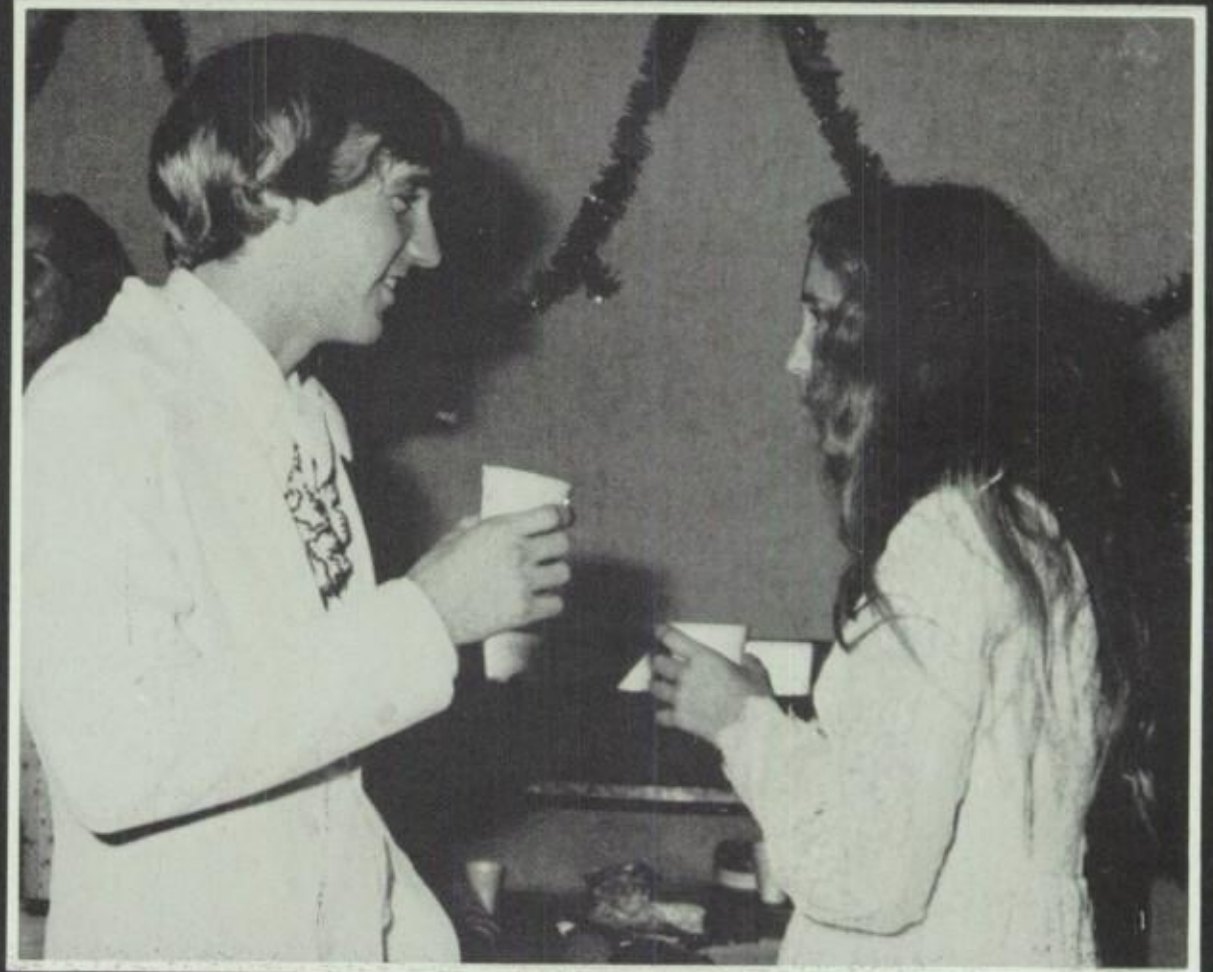

The 1977 Christmas Court consisted of Alan Gordon, Clyde Gamboa, Sam Tricoli and Sean Williamson.

Even the rain which fell quite heavily throughout the evening was not enough to dampen the festive spirits of the couples which attended the formal.

P. 32, 1) Jeff Dodd and Lesa Zaleski, along with the many other couples who attended the Christmas Formal, dance to the sounds of "Marbles." 2) Dawn Toyoma and Steve McCrary rest during the band's break. 3) Christmas King, Mark Woodhouse, and his date, Tami Michaels, dance together to celebrate his coronation. P. 33, 1) David Sparks and Camille Friend enjoy the refreshments provided by House of Lords. 2) This couple seems to be enjoying the Christmas spirit at the formal. 3) House of Lords member, Leslie Cye, prepares to announce the 1977 Christmas King.

Coronation Queen Melissa Douglas Was Crowned Along

The crowning of the Coronation King and Queen took place during the halftime of the basketball game against Huntington Beach on January 13. This was the first year that there was a Coronation King; in past years there has only been a Queen. The change in tradition was partially due to Title IX of the education law which requires equal opportunities for both sexes.

Coronation Court was one of the biggest events of the year because of the addition of Coronation King. The excellent job done by the committee made it very exciting.

After the basketball game the House of Lords held a reception in the faculty cafeteria. The theme of the reception was "King's and Queen's Glory." At this reception the Coronation King, Ray Foster, received a basketball signed by the Varsity Pepsters; the Coronation Queen, Melissa Douglas, received a basketball signed by the members of the Varsity Basketball team.

Cupid Couple Mandie Newhouse and Larry Parker

The Valentines' Dance, "My Heart Belongs to You," was held at the Costa Mesa Country Club on February 4. The dance, which was sponsored by Lions' League, was a semi-formal girl-ask-guy dance. The music for the evening was provided by "August," and refreshments were served in an adjoining room in which there were tables where couples could socialize and rest awhile. The rooms were decorated in the spirit of Valentine's Day by the Lions' League members.

The girls put a lot of hard work into the dance and the final result was well worth it.
— Patty Bachiocchi, Lions' League Pres.

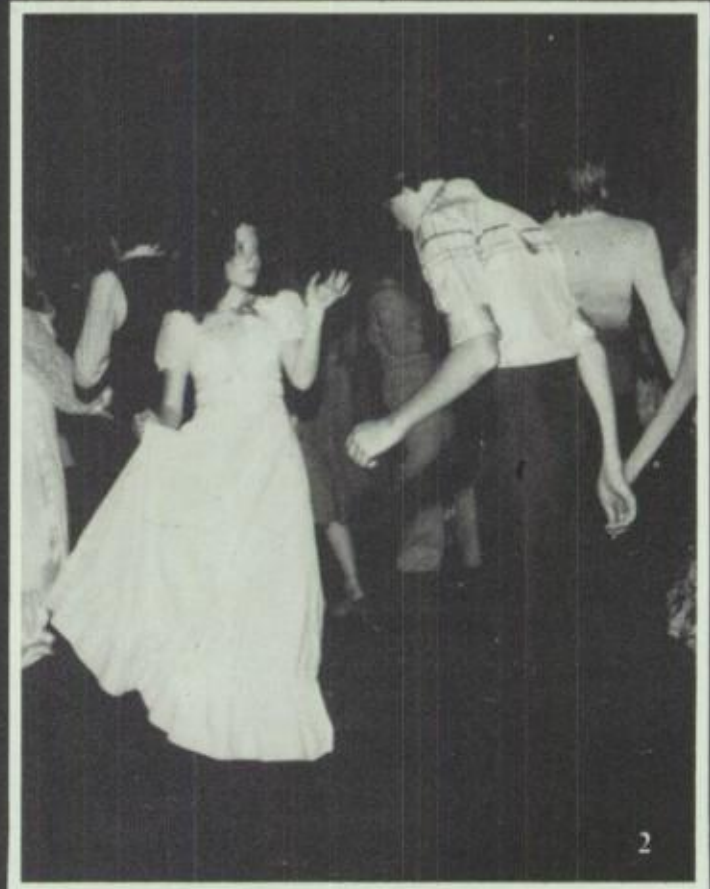

Mandie Newhouse and Larry Parker were announced as the Cupid Couple during the dance. Mandie and Larry had been chosen for the title from five couples who were nominated in the homerooms. The final voting took place at the dance. The couples which were nominated for Cupid Couple were Lorrie Compton and Clyde Gamboa, Roni Villarreal and Mitch Siemens, Melissa Douglas and Scott Brock, and Judean Karimoto and Gary Schultz.

P. 37. 1) The dance provided a good time to get together with friends. 2) Couples danced to the music of the band "August." 3) The Valentines' Dance proved to be a happy success with a great turnout. 4) Linda Hallett and Tom Brayley pause for a moment before going in to the dance. 5) These girls seem to have lost their partners.

W.H.S. Relived the Spirit of the 50's

WHS students relived the past during the week of February 27 through March 3 when they participated in 50's Week activities which were sponsored by the House of Lords. Students and faculty alike dressed up to set the atmosphere for the week. Among the activities which took place, despite constant rainfall, were a class competition egg toss, which was won by Sophomores Steve Grodt and Brian Walker; a root-beer chug-a-lug, won by Senior Kevin Heggstrom; a hula hoop contest, which Junior Ed Justin won; a jacks contest, won by senior Jeff Snyder; and a paddleball contest, which was won by Sophomore Abel Ceballos. A Lavern and Shirley look-a-like contest was also held; Suzy Hithe and Gina Gianatassio took the prize.

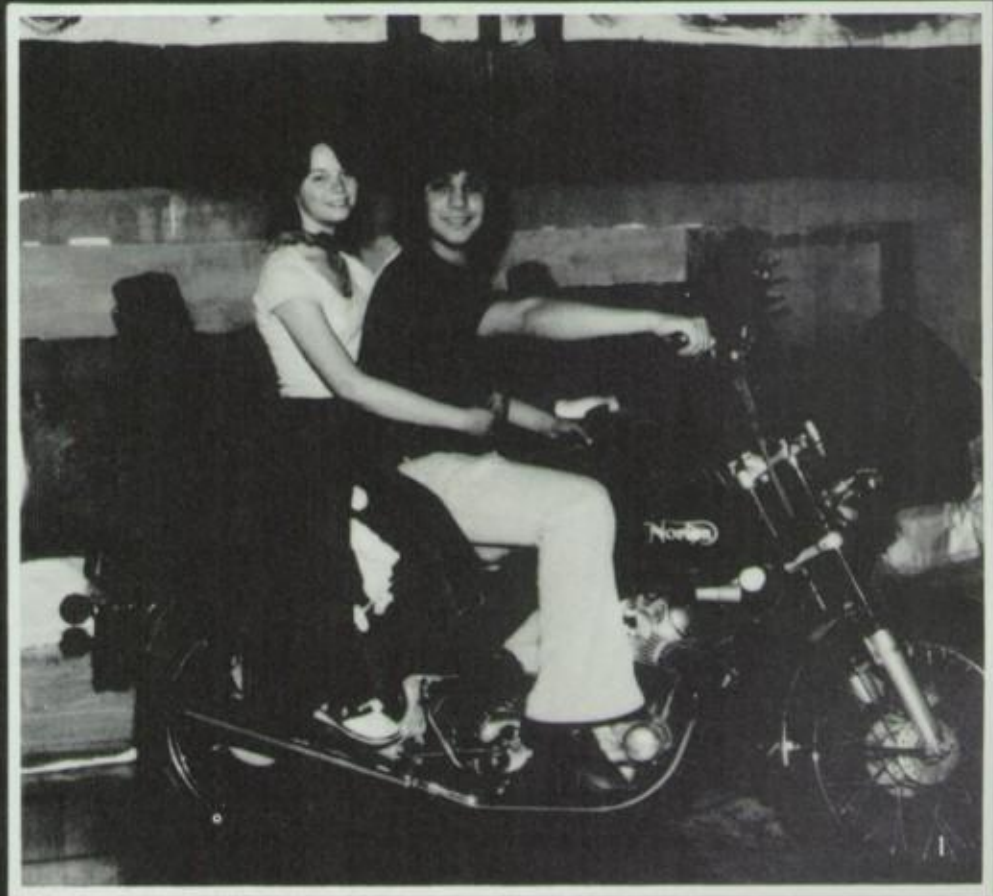

We had such a fantastic week planned, but all our ideas were washed away with the rain.

— Bob Mueller, House of Lords

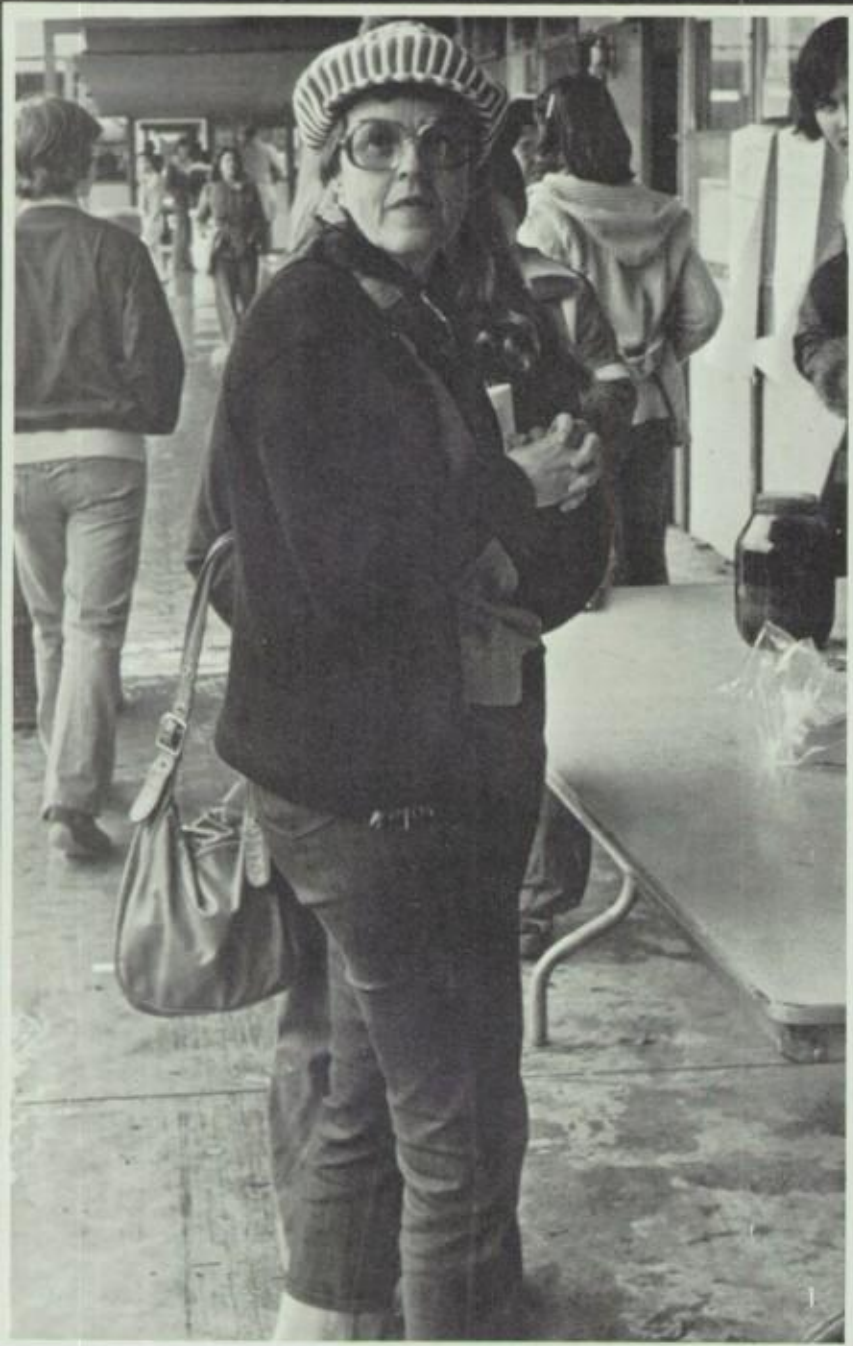

The Freshman Class took first in the student dress up contest. In the faculty dress up contest there was a tie for first place between the Home Economics Department and the classified staff of the Administration building which both had 100% participation.

The climax of 50's Week was the 50's dance, which was held on Friday, March 3. The dance gave WHS students the chance to test their knowledge of the Twist, Jitterbug and the Bunny Hop as they danced to the music of "Mag Wheels and Lug Nuts." Jim McShane and Glenda Boan were announced as Fonzie and Pinky at the dance.

P. 38, 1) Fonzie and Pinky, Jim McShane and Glenda Boan, made an appearance at the dance. 2) These faculty members seem to be reminiscing about their high school days. 3) House of Lords members, Tracey Chess and Abel Ceballos, sell pickles during lunch. P. 39, 1) Miss Atwood showed her school spirit by dressing up 50's style. 2) "Mag Wheels and Lug Nuts" provided the music for the students to dance to. 3) Chug-a-lug contenders drink to the finish. 4) Faculty members dance in the hallway away from the pouring rain. 5) Clothes and dances in the spirit of the 50's were seen at the 50's dance.

The Jazzy Gingerbreads Took the Top Prizes at the

The fourth annual Foxy Frolics was presented in the WHS gym on April 14 and 15 to the theme "Once Upon A Time." The groups which participated in Foxy Frolics were each made up 8-12 students. Each group created an original dance routine inspired by the theme, "Once Upon A Time."

The groups that participated in the 1978 Foxy Frolics were named The Porketts, The Cracked Nuts, Dumbo the Circus Elephants, Aladdin's Genies, The Whiz, Mary Poppins and the Chimney Sweeps, Rockin' Raggedies, The Fantasy Soldierettes, Gordon's Flashers, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs and the Jazzy Gingerbreads.

Foxy Frolics was an experience I'll never forget. All the practicing helped bring everyone closer.

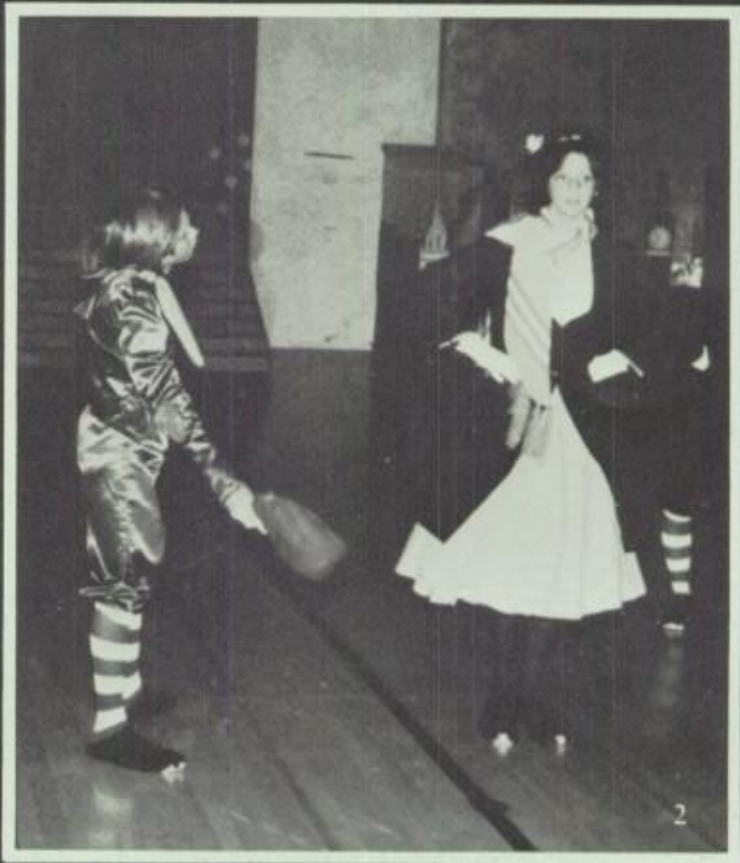

— Leslie Cye, Student Director

On Friday night the groups were judged for Best Props, Best Costume and Daddy's Favorite which was voted on by the men in the audience. On Saturday night the judging took place for first, second and third places. An award for sportsmanship was also given out.

P. 40, 1) The Jazzy Gingerbreads performed a routine which delighted both the judges and the audience. 2) Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs took second place. 3) An excellent performance was given by the Fantasy Soldierettes. W.H.S. Students Were Honored Throughout the Year

In the following pages, there was limited room to recognize some of the many students who received honors this year. Since many awards were not given out until the end of the year, these winners could not be included on these pages: the Prom King and Queen, scholarship winners, and the winners of honors which were given out in individual classes, clubs and sports teams.

It is important to remember that honors, whether or not they are published in the yearbook or elsewhere, are all important and the recipients should feel proud of their achievements; they deserve to be admired by their fellow students.

P. 42. 1) It is important to strive for excellence in everything you do whether it be math and science or drafting and cooking. 2) Teachers who take a personal interest in their students play a large part in the accomplishments of those students. 3) It takes a lot of hard work to attain academic excellence. 4) It is important for students to be proud of any honors they receive.

Friendliest Seniors, Mary Ann Dibs and Jim McShane

Friendliest Freshmen, Lori Hallett and Jeff Compton

WHS's Friendliest Freshmen and Friendliest Seniors were selected from students who were nominated early in the first week of school by the student body. Final voting took place at the Cheerio Dance where Lori Hallett and Jeff Compton were crowned as Friendliest Freshmen and Mary Ann Dibs and Jim McShane were crowned as Friendliest Seniors.

Friendliest Freshman Lori Hallett was an active member of Lions' League, and she participated in G.A.A. Friendliest Freshman Jeff Compton participated on the football and track teams. Jeff was also involved in Interact.

Friendliest Senior Mary Ann Dibs served as school mascot during both her junior and senior years, and she was the pep representative in House of Lords her senior year. Mary Ann was also an active member of Interact. Friendliest senior Jim McShane was a member of House of Lords, and he too was very active in Interact.

The Senior Luau King and Queen were nominated by seniors at one of the class meetings; the final voting took place at the Senior Luau. Keith Lazarow and Dawn Toyoma were announced as the Luau King and Queen at the Senior Luau.

Luau Queen Dawn Toyoma was Senior Class treasurer, a member of Lions' League and Ski Club, and she was in C.S.F. King Keith Lazarow was a member of the football, basketball and baseball teams during his freshman and sophomore years. He was also on the basketball team during his junior year.

The Crowning of the 1977 Homecoming Queen, Debbie

The highlight of the fall season, Homecoming, was looked forward to by WHS students. The original twelve nominees were selected by the members of the varsity sports teams, and then the student body narrowed the court down to five girls: Lorie Compton, Debbie Grady, Robbi Metzler, Vicki Payton and Debbie Stoll. The student body voted again, and the 1977 Homecoming Queen — Debbie Stoll — was announced at the football game on October 21, during halftime.

Homecoming Queen Debbie Stoll was a very involved member of the Westminster student body. Among the activities she was active in were Lions' League, Varsity Yell, Medea and Ski Club.

Princess Lorie Compton participated in gymnastics, Lions' League, Interact, Varsity Club, CSF and Medea. She also was an Apple Core Girl, and, in her junior year, she was a Song Girl. Princess Debbie Grady was a Flag Girl in both her junior and senior year. Princess Robbi Metzler was also a Flag Girl for two years and a member of the badminton team. Princess Vicki Payton was on the Varsity Tennis team.

The 1977 Christmas King Mark Woodhouse Was

The Christmas Formal, "A Christmas Carol," provided the setting for the crowning of the 1977 Christmas King, Mark Woodhouse.

The student body originally nominated thirteen candidates for Christmas King; then they voted a second time narrowing the court to five candidates: Clyde Gamboa, who participated on the football and baseball teams and was also a member of Interact; Alan Gordon, a member of the football team; Sam Tricoli, who was active on the football and soccer teams; Sean Williamson, a member of the football and track teams; and Mark Woodhouse, who was a member of the Choraleers, the football team, and the baseball team. Once again the W.H.S. students voted and Mark Woodhouse was announced the 1977 Christmas King at the Christmas Formal which was held at Cal State Fullerton on December 17.

Each of the members of the Christmas Court received a plaque commemorating their selection to the Court. Mark Woodhouse, the Christmas King, was given a plaque in honor of his selection as King.

The 1977 Coronation King and Queen, Ray Foster and

A new tradition was started at the 1978 Coronation crowning when not only a Coronation Queen was crowned, but also a Coronation King. Ten girls and ten boys were originally nominated by the members of the varsity winter sports teams. Then five girls and five boys were chosen from these twenty students by the student body. The student body then elected the 1978 Coronation King and Queen from this slate. The winners, Ray Foster and Melissa Douglas were announced during the halftime of the basketball game on January 13.

Members of the Queen's court were Melinda McGrew a member of the tennis and track teams, Leigh Murry who was a Junior Varsity Yell Leader and a member of drill team, Gloria Ramil a member of the varsity volleyball team, and Roni Villareal who was the captain of the Varsity Flag Squad. Members of the King's court were Jim McShane, a member of the swimming and water polo team and who was also a member of House of Lords; Lance Osborne, who participated on the football team; Mitch Siemens, who was a member of the football and basketball teams; and Bob Togonon, who competed on the gymnastic team.

Coronation Queen Melissa Douglas was a drill team leader and a member of the House of Lords. Coronation King Ray Foster was a member of the varsity basketball team.

Seniors Laurie Richardson and Dave Sparks Were

The title of Student of the Year went to two students who provided service to the school along with participating in activities and achieving success academically. The Students of the Year were chosen from the Students of the Month, an honor given on the basis of contribution to the school. Each Student of the Month submitted a resume stating what his or her achievements were and what he or she was involved in while attending WHS. A selection committee reviewed each resume and voted for those who most deserved to be named Students of the Year. The winners and Students of the Year for 1978 were Laurie Richardson and Dave Sparks.

Laurie Richardson was a Flag Girl during her Senior year and she topped off four years of membership on the yearbook staff by serving as Editor-In-Chief. Laurie was involved in Senior Class and in track; in her junior year she was selected to be an Honor Guard for the 1977 graduation ceremonies. Academically she attained the honor of Sealbearer. Laurie's plans after high school include pursuing her interests in art and liberal arts at UCSB.

Announced as the 1978 Students of the Year

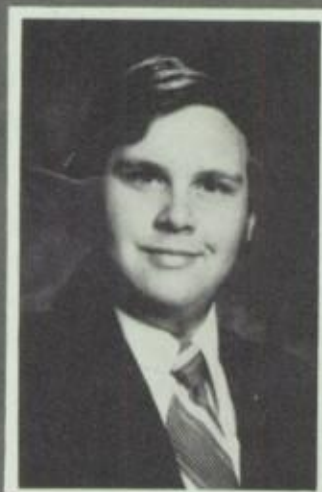

Student of the Year Dave Sparks was a member of the House of Lords which he participated in as Chancellor during his Senior year. As Chancellor, Dave spent many hours helping with the planning and preparations for many school activities. Dave was also very involved in the Senior Class and he was responsible for the organization of many of the activities which the Senior Class was involved in. Dave's contribution of many hours of dedicated work proved a great asset to WHS. Dave was also a member of CSF. Following his graduation from high school Dave plans to attend college where he will pursue his interests in business and law.

The Students of the Month were announced each month during homeroom. The Students of the Year, which were selected in February, were not announced until the Royal Banquet. Laurie Richardson and Dave Sparks each received a Leo to commemorate their selection as Students of the Year.

W.H.S. Students Earned the Title of Valedictorian

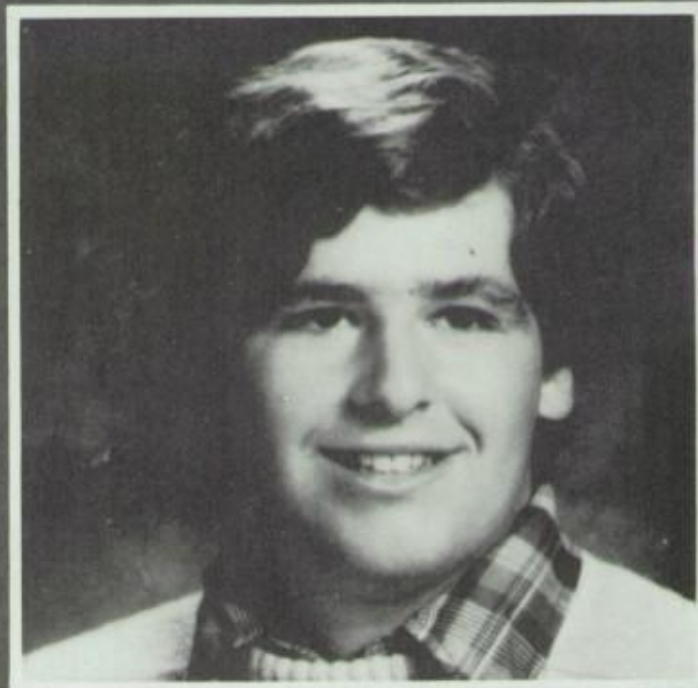

The Valedictorians of 1978 were students who maintained a 4.0 grade point average throughout their four years of high school. These students were Christopher Blum, Kevin McPartlan, Laurie O'Hara and Dave Pople.

Christopher Blum was a member of the WHS basketball team in his freshman, sophomore and junior years. He was also a member of CSF throughout his four years of high school, and he received the distinction of Sealbearer for his outstanding academic achievement.

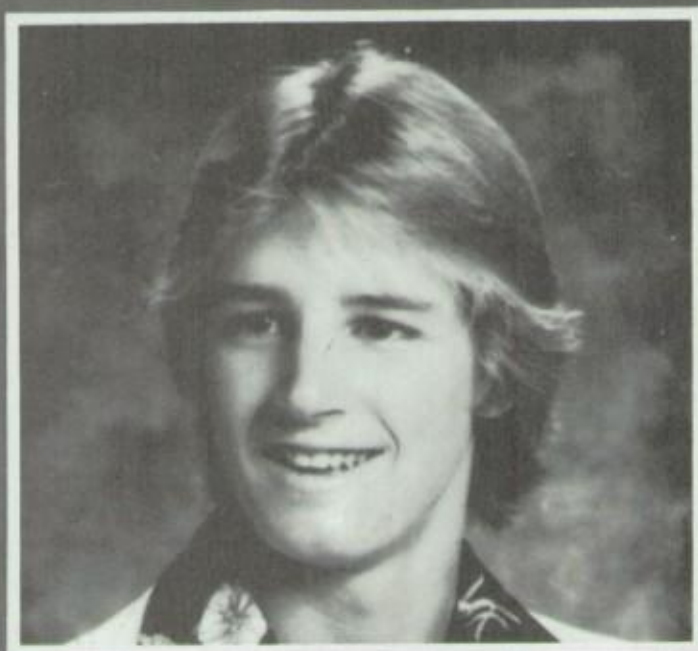

A very active WHS student, Kevin McPartlan, was a member of the WHS Tennis Team during his last three years of high school. Theatre was another activity in which he participated. Academically, Kevin received many awards which included participating on the Academic Decathlon Team, going to the Kiwanis Scholar Bowl, and being named both a National Merit Finalist and the Outstanding Junior Student. Kevin was also in CSF and became a Sealbearer.

Another active student, Laurie O'Hara, participated in House of Lords, CSF, Orchestra, Drill Team, the Pan-American Club and the Speech and Debate Club. She was also the vice-president of her freshman class and was nominated to the Royal Banquet in the area of English in her freshman, sophomore, junior and senior years. Laurie served as a Football and Track Stat all four years. Laurie was also recognized as a Sealbearer.

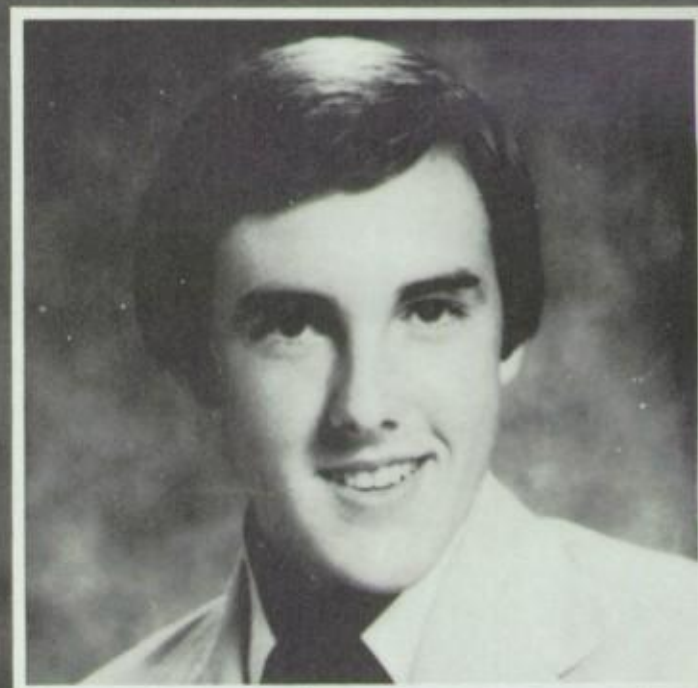

Dave Pople, along with maintaining his 4.0 grade point average, was an active member of the WHS Football and Basketball teams throughout his four years in high school. Dave also was a member of the WHS Volleyball Team and participated on the Varsity Track Team in the high-jumping and pole-vaulting events.

W.H.S. Students Honored at the 1977 Royal Banquet

The 1977 Royal Banquet honored outstanding students of the '76-'77 school year. Each year the Royal Banquet is held under the theme, "Pursuit of Excellence," which well describes the goals of the nominees.

Each department in the school nominates the people who they feel are outstanding students. This is usually a very difficult decision to make because there are often more students qualified than there are allotted nominations. There are a total of 250-300 students nominated each year, according to the number enrolled in each of the 25 department areas. The larger a department, the more students that may be nominated from it. Each department, however, is guaranteed a minimum of six nominations.

In addition to department awards, there are overall recognition categories. These are Service, Student Government, and Outstanding Student. Each nominee to the Royal Banquet received a "Certificate of Excellence" for having been a contender. It's a great honor to even be nominated and be one of the 300 chosen out of the 4,000 students in the school.

The finalists in each area, who receive a medallion which has a lion sculpted on it, are also decided upon by the individual departments. The number of finalists in each category also varies with the size of the department.

The 1977 Leo winners, who were the top students in each field of study, received a wooden trophy. The Leo, which was mounted with a lion. Each department recommended their choice for the Leo, but the final decision was made by a committee which consisted of some of the counselors, a few teachers, and an administrator. This committee looked over the records and classes of each of the finalists, and then voted to select the Leo winner. Along with receiving the Leo, each winner had his/her name inscribed on the Pursuit of Excellence trophy in the main office.

The Valedictorians, who were the students who had kept a 4.0 grade point average throughout all four years of high school, were announced at the Royal Banquet. Each of the Valedictorians, received a Leo.

The Royal Banquet, which included a sitdown dinner, was held in the gym.

Below are listed the finalists in each category. Astericks denote Leo winners.

The 1978 Sealbearers Strove for Academic Excellence

Sealbearers are students who achieve a high level of academic excellence throughout their four years at WHS. To become a Sealbearer students must be members of CSF for at least four semesters during their sophomore, junior and senior years. At least one of these semesters has to be during the student's senior year.

Membership in CSF requires the accumulation of 10 points for 5 academic classes and 12 points for 6 academic classes. These points are received according to the grades which the student earns at each grading period. A's are worth three points and B's are worth one point.

Sealbearers received a special privilege card which allowed them to be excused from classes with the prior permission of their teachers. They also wore gold tassels at graduation and received a special seal on their diploma. Sealbearer status made students eligible to receive special services from a number of colleges and universities.

Cheryl Victor Was Selected as 1977 Teacher of the Year

Teacher of the Year Mrs. Cheryl Victor

Chosen as the 1977 Teacher of the Year was Mrs. Cheryl Victor. An English teacher at WHS for seven years, Mrs. Victor has provided the time and understanding that many students need and are unable to find. It is a common sight to see Mrs. Victor helping students who have problems with anything from schedules and grades to friends and sweethearts. Mrs. Victor is an excellent teacher who makes learning interesting and who teaches her students not only English, but how to cope with and understand people and society.

The selection of the nominees for teacher of the year was made by the student body which voted for their favorite teachers. The final selection of the teacher of the year was made by a committee of students and the principal.

W.H.S. Students Received Many Special Honors

Each year members of the WHS student body receive many honors. Among these are the naming of Boys' and Girls' State representatives, Apple Core Girls, National Merit Scholarships, Academic Decathlon members, and City Government Day participants.

This year WHS Junior Cathy Gentile became the youngest delegate to the National Women's Conference in Houston, Texas, in November. Cathy was chosen out of 5000 applicants to be one of 400 representatives.

Seniors Lorrie Compton and Juliene Halterman were the 1977-78 WHS Apple Core Girl Representatives for South Coast Plaza. They participated in a work experience, fashion, and promotional program which was sponsored by South Coast Plaza.

Jill Andrews, Vince Agor and Jim Burke were chosen as the WHS representatives to Girls' and Boys' State. Girls' and Boys' State are two fictitious states held at the University of Sacramento during the summer.

City Government Days which are held every provided students with an opportunity to experience a day in city government, in any job from Mayor to a paramedic.

Kevin McPartlan and Renee Sowinski were selected as semifinalists in the 23rd annual National Merit Scholarship Program. They were chosen because of their high score on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test and their academic standing.

The members of the Academic Decathlon Team participated in the Orange County Academic Decathlon in November against the other high schools in Orange County.

French Club Learned Customs, Culture

French Club

Giving students the opportunity to speak the French language is only part of the purpose of Westminster High School's French Club. The organization also gives students the opportunity to learn about customs and the culture of the French people. The club introduced its members to a chance to fulfill their desires to correspond and become a part of a foreign country. Members selected pen-pals and wrote to them during the year.

For the first time in the history of the German Club, a Freshman, Elaine Umburger, was selected president. Elaine was also the first female to head the club.

Helping Elaine as officers for the organization were Judy Ottol, the only officer who was not a Freshman, vice president; Dorian Bolick, secretary; John Hiraga, treasurer; and Derek March, ICC representative.

The activities of the 1977-78 German Club included the annual mountain trip, which usually occurs near the end of the first semester when members can relax. The trip took place over the weekend of January 27, 28, and 29.

The club rented a cabin in Big Bear and spent the whole weekend having fun in the snow. "It is really the highlight of the year for the club," said one of the participants of the trip. "It's really funny how people become members one week before the trip."

In April the club took off one Saturday to head up North to the village of Solvang, the Danish capitol of America. Here the club members bought imported merchandise from Western Europe. They also enjoyed eating the delicious food prepared Danish style.

A $100 commission for working concessions at the football game against Fountain Valley and an existing $200 in last year's account helped the club finance these trips.

Latin Club Claimed Successful Year

One of the largest clubs on campus is the Latin Club. It is one of the few clubs on campus which has had no problems recruiting new members. For the past year Tim O'Crowley and Lani Morley served as the Consuls, the club leaders. The scribes for Latin Club were Jensine Mays and Ted Tomasek; ICC representatives were Christine Johnson and Ann Lowham.

This year's club was very busy; activities included a trip to the J. Paul Getty Museum in Malibu on May 12, a Roman Banquet on the Ides of March (March 15), the "Antony and Cleopatra" play in April at Cal State Fullerton, Christmas party, and an end of year party.

To fund these activities the club kept busy selling such things as stationery during October and February, and Helen Grace Easter Eggs in April. Members also worked football game concession stands.

At the end of the year, the Latin Club honored their departing Senior club members. Some of them received scholarships to help pay college expenses after graduation.

New Name Boosted Interest in Spanish Club

At the beginning of the school year, the Pan-American Club reinstated the title of Spanish Club. Under its new old name, the club's enrollment blossomed to 25 members.

Officers for 1977-78 were Brian Bundy, President; Helen Emery, Vice President; Loreen Mills, Secretary; and Carolyn Gilmore, Treasurer. Ms. Linda Erdman, a first year Spanish teacher, accepted the advisor's role.

Some of the activities the club participated in this year included an excursion to Disneyland to celebrate "Festival Mexico," a Mexican dinner, two trips to Olivera Street in East Los Angeles, and visits to some of the 21 missions of California.

Last November, a Mexican dinner — complete with enchiladas, tacos, and frijoles — was held at the home of Donna Dunmore. Each member brought a special dish. No one was allowed to speak in English throughout the entire dinner and the games and songs which followed.

Indian Club Worked for Scholarship Funds

For the past three years, the Indian Club has been very productive providing scholarships for students of American Indian descent.

"The club's main goal this year was to work for scholarship funds," explained Mrs. Bonnie Parsons, Indian Club advisor.

The club accomplished this by holding a pow-wow, a car wash, a poster sales week, candy sales, and fried dough sale.

The club is a branch of the American Indian Education Program. The club worked with the American Indian Program in many areas, including the recruiting of new members to the program. In years of the past, the program gave out a questionnaire asking for interested participants. However, this procedure seemed too costly and a waste of time, so Mrs. Parsons and the Indian Club came up with a better idea this past year. Everyone was given a card asking whether or not they were of Indian ancestry along with their registration material. "In order for that person to complete registration, the card had to be filled out," stated Parsons.

In addition to their recruiting activities, the club also held a cultural workshop where they displayed Indian arts and crafts. Guest speakers were a ritual with the club. Among them were a Navaho weaver, as well as representatives from many tribes.

Every year the club must evaluate the program for officials in Washington. They administer and assess the department's needs. They are also in charge of maintaining the Title IV trailer and maintaining the library Indian display of Indian artifacts.

Tom Black a club member and the WHS Boy of the Month for December, collected clothes for the Wallapi Cocopah reservation.

The club managed to surprise the school's faculty at Easter time by giving them each hand-made moccasins.

June Mountain and Kirkwood by Lake Tahoe were the destinations planned by the ski club whose membership boasted seventy-five skiers this year. President Bob Noble reported that about half the members were able to make the trips when the group traveled by chartered bus to these slopes.

The Ski Club earned money to defray expenses by working concessions at the football games. Mr. Stone, the club advisor and an avid skier, helped maintain the club's enthusiasm.

Movimiento Estudiantil

This year, as in past years, Mecha served as a club for students of Mexican-American heritage to serve their school and community. Through various activities, including a car wash, an enchilada dinner, a candy sale, the organization and presentation of Cinco de Mayo festivities, and food contributions to the church at Thanksgiving, Mecha members expressed not only their heritage, but their cause as well.

Mecha's influence on campus has been clearly seen through their expression in performing such tasks as planning and designing a mural with Media Production last year, an increase in the number of courses which promote awareness of Mexican heritage, and in their involvement with general activities at WHS.

This year, as never before, Mecha took a step forward in Women's Liberation. All officers were female. Their president was Gina Hernandez, her vice president, Rosalie Perez. The positions of secretary and treasurer were held by sisters Susan and Rosaura Reuteria. The sergeant-at-arms was Vickie Ochoa. Their organized club meetings were highly successful and boasted a large participation of members.

Varsity Club has always been two clubs — Boys' Varsity and Girls' Varsity. This year because of the new Title IX law granting equality in education for males and females, Westminster established only one Varsity Club. Some of the activities the club held during the year were barbecues, the sale of programs and cushions, and going to Magic Mountain. The money Varsity Club earned was used to help purchase equipment and uniforms for various Varsity teams. "The Varsity members, especially the school's women, put in a great deal of hard work and deserve recognition," states Mrs. Woodington, club advisor. Officers for the year were the following: Rachel Sande, President; Katie Agondo, Vice President; Jackie Tokoma, Secretary; Jean Danielson, Treasurer; Joan Hurban, Sergeant at Arms; Patty Brenton, Social Affairs; Helga Kraus, Minister of Funds; June Gilbert, Alumni Records; and Kathleen Arent, Historian.

This year the Future Farmers of America Club raised money for club activities primarily through the sale of plants. The club was able to sponsor several barn dances and hayrides; the most outstanding of the barn dances was held in October to celebrate Halloween. There students enjoyed dancing to country music.

During the year FFA members also participated in Christmas caroling and ice skating parties. They helped host the visit of a Nevada FFA chapter which came to Southern California to see other programs, and the WHS Future Farmers used most of the funds they raised to purchase new equipment for the agriculture program. Once of the items which they bought was a livestock trailer. FFA also worked hard to help keep the campus clean and attractive; they weeded the Lion mound several times and helped remove trees which were destroyed during the heavy rains of the past winter.

Future Decided by House of Lords

The destiny of our school affairs rested upon the decisions and the actions of the House of Lords.

Members elected to the House of Lords for 1977-78 were the following: Jeff Snyder, Prime Minister; Dave Sparks, Chancellor; Melissa Douglas, Minister of Records; Theresa Kolbush, Minister of the Exchequer; Greg Haltermann, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Bob Mueller, Minister of Social Affairs; Arzu Alpel, Minister of Publicity; Jeff Farnell, Minister of Clubs/Assemblies; Laurie O'Hara, Minister of Elections; and Eileen Fertig, Minister of Improvements. Class Commissioners included: Tracy Chess and Brian Walker, 1980; Leslie Cye and Lisa Stephens, 1979; Christina Fabian and Jim McShane, 1978; and Liz Allison and Kriss McCallister, 1981. Sponsor Miss Barbara Atwood, is Westminster's Director of Activities.

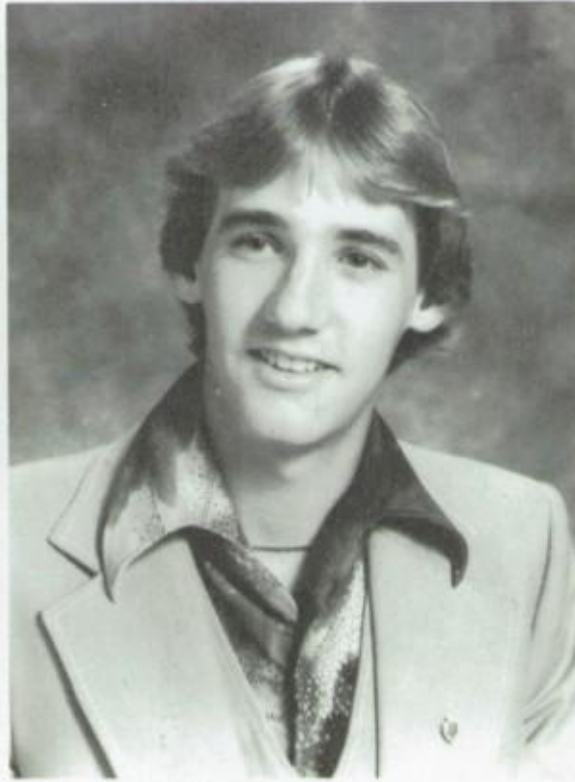

This year the House of Lords set out to fulfill the desires of the Student body, and they did just that by providing the following activities: pep rallies, a Homecoming Show, and a Superior guest star appearance by Burt Reynolds who came to cheer us on to victory.

House of Lords also took on the responsibilities of raising money for the United Crusades. This drive was a big success, for classes were urged to compete against one another in collecting contributions. House of Lords turned another service project into an exciting, enjoyable, school-wide activity.

1) David Sparks gives an orientation to the Freshman Class. 2) House of Lords participates in Christmas door decorations contest. 3) Arlice Emerson directs the activities for the Junior class during the week to raise money for United Crusades campaign. 4) Members of House of Lords enjoy the Cheerio breakfast, but can't believe they "ate the whole thing."

Body Desires for Westminster High

Special Service Departments Suffer Cutback

The special service departments at WHS suffered noticeable decreases in enrollment this year except for the Radio and Television Program.

The Public Relations Staff which, during first semester, was a Journalism I class continued writing publications for local newspapers, including the Westminster Observer, Herald, and The Daily Pilot.

Media Services, under the guidance of a new director, Ken Skolyan, maintained production levels throughout the year, providing the school with a wide range of media services such as printing, specialized photography and various campus beautification projects. Dick DeRusha and a handful of advanced graphic arts students provided the school with their printing services throughout the entire year. The Radio and Television Program continued to flourish. Its apparent popularity kept students interested in learning basic broadcasting techniques and the fundamentals of production.

Hopefully next year, more student participation will increase these necessary programs at WHS.

Covering campus events such as Fifties Week, Homecoming, and football, the Publications Staff kept busy informing the students through the newspaper, Scroll, and the magazine, Harvest. Through the careful guidance of advisor Sherilyn Marston and Editor-in-Chief Vivian Allard, students combined reporting, writing talents, layout design, photography, and art to create WHS publications.

To subsidize a depleted budget, the staff launched a mid-year advertising campaign enabling them to publish issues approximately once every three weeks.

"Although the staff lost many seniors last year, new writers made up with enthusiasm what was lost in experience," commented editor Vivian Allard.

Citadel Staff Members "Found Themselves"

The 1978 Citadel staff, under the direction of Ms. Rice, Ms. Laine, and editor, Laurie Richardson, strived to produce a new image in the yearbook. A sense of maturity through working together and taking on new responsibilities was developed by staff members. Many hours of time were devoted to the teaching and aiding of the staff to accomplish the necessary results of creating an interesting annual. New layout techniques were taught, and informative stories were written to highlight photos. Staff photographers and copy writers supported section editors with their valued talents. Section editors and their co-workers found it not only necessary to work with the staff, but with teachers and administrators as well.

A spirit of friendship helped the yearbook staff and advisors to work together to create a book which related the year's highlights, the 1978 Citadel.

New Title I Club Motivates Students

This year a new club was started on the WHS campus. Members of this club were students who were capable of making good grades, but who had been underachieving in their classes. This club was called Title I, Student Advisory.

The goals of the Student Advisory Club were to conquer the basic problems of the past and to have more communication between the students and teachers. If the club can solve these problems, it will feel it has helped solve an important school issue. Club members planned events for Title I students, and smoothed out student problems, mainly those of the Title I students.

The club held a candy sale to raise enough money for a trip to Disneyland and for a camping trip. They also planned and sponsored a Christmas party.

The advisors of this club are Mr. Ron Hall and Dr. Ruth Bachlor. They have worked with club president, Mary Chambers, and the members to achieve student-directed changes for the improvement of the Title I program.

"Barcada is a very social club," states Mrs. Tanner, the advisor to the group. The majority of the members are Polynesian and Filipino, although the club is open to all students on the WHS campus. Their activities this year have included a Pot Luck dinner, a Christmas party (complete with Hula Dancing), a beach party, and cultural dinners. A number of the members also participated in the annual Foxy Frolics show.

"Eventually I would like to see the club members become more aware of their cultural heritage," continues Mrs. Tanner. "The club should be more of a learning experience."

In Filipino Barcada means a group of people who "hang-out" together. The officers for 1977-78 were Leilani Balan, president; Vince Agor, vice president; Arleen Soriano, secretary; and Jasmine Ecat, treasurer.

LIONS' LEAGUE

Because of the new Title IX law establishing educational equality for boys and girls, Girls' League changed its name to Lions' League and invited boys to join them in their service endeavors. To earn money for their charity projects, Lions' League sponsored the get-acquainted Cheerio breakfast and dance. They also sponsored the Sweetheart Dance. Additionally, Lions' League sold football ribbons, Homecoming grams with corsages, raffle tickets for dinners at local restaurants, and held a fashion show just before the prom presenting the latest in formals and tuxedo fashions.

ROYAL TEPS

Hope House, a home for young ex-alcoholics and ex-drug addicts from 17 to 22 years of age, received the benefit of the TEPS organization's efforts when TEPS generously gave them Halloween and Easter parties. The parties were funded by money earned from their candy sale and newspaper drive. In addition, TEPS made several needy families very happy over each of the year's holidays when they brought them food from a school-wide canned food drive. To top off their activities, TEPS kept the Lions' Mound, shrubbery that spells "Lions" near the library, in first-rate condition for the Clean-Campus Contest.

CSF

California Scholarship Federation is an organization for potential college students trying to prepare themselves for continuing their studies after high school. CSF advisors were very enthusiastic about the club's members. Mrs. Kiefer and Mrs. Broussard, both English teachers, stressed that the club members had learned how to take responsibility for their own educational futures.

During the year, members learned where and how to apply for scholarships; they were also coached on which classes to take. Many were encouraged to enroll in the course College Survival; this class is intended to review the basics of English and other subjects needed to survive in college.

Not only were CSF members "A" students concerned about their education, but they also structured some activities for pure enjoyment. This year, CSF members again scheduled a trip to Disneyland, several cultural excursions, and club parties.

MGM

The special program for Mentally Gifted Minors provides counseling, advisement, and many high-powered courses in the basics area. These students are encouraged to accept additional study responsibilities, and to do more independent research in order to prepare them for college after graduation. Mr. Emery Fillmore directs the MGM program at Westminster High School.

IFS Planned Exchange With West Germany

TRAVEL CLUB

Travel Club's first year on the WHS campus was a very active one. The club members took a trip to Big Bear in January to ski, toboggan and generally enjoy the great snows California received this winter. To raise money for their trip, Travel Club held a drawing in November for a Thanksgiving turkey.

Mr. Seitzinger, a devoted traveler himself, is the club's advisor. The officers are Liz Togonon, President; Angie McFarland, Vice President; Val Barbatti, Secretary; Donna Harris, Treasurer; Robbi Metzler, ICC Representative.

IFS

There were no foreign-exchange students on Westminster's campus this year, nor were any Westminster students exchanged. But there were plans being prepared for a Westminster student to go to West Germany during the summer, according to Karl Doty, club President. IFS has only one other officer, Mike Grimm ICC Rep. Mr. Button is the clubs advisor.

IFS members kept busy this year planning social get-togethers including two trips to the beach and one weekend trip to Big Bear. Selling food at sports events was the means they used to earn money for these trips.

A large part of student spirit and motivation at athletic events, pep rallies, and other school-related activities was stimulated through the WHS pepster unit.

Varsity Pepsters, including Yell Leaders, Song and Flag Girls, and the Lion Mascot, enjoyed a term of office that ran from their election in February to the following February. This change from the former September to June term was initiated by the House of Lords in 1976, and has brought increased enthusiasm to spring athletic events. Pep rallies and major athletic events were sparked with chants led by Yell Leaders, dance routines performed by the Song Girls, precision and jazz twirling by the Flag Girls, and, of course, the lovable antics of the Lion Mascot.

Junior Varsity and Soph/Frosh Yell Leaders promoted and supported school spirit.

Led to "high places" by Ken Woesner and John Lewis were the 1977-78 Lion Marching Band and Pageantry Corps. Their astounding field record began with bright, new uniforms on October 19, at the Southland Band Competition. Here the Marching Band took first place and proceeded to take their first Sweepstakes Award at their second competition held in West Covina. The Pageantry Corps, also performing with excellence, took first place.

At the Fifth Annual Western State Open Championship, the band again took the Sweepstakes Award as well as the Music Award and Marching Award. Two days later, the band and pageantry performed at the Savanna Field Tournament. In keeping with their record, the band walked away with another first place victory and the Music Award.

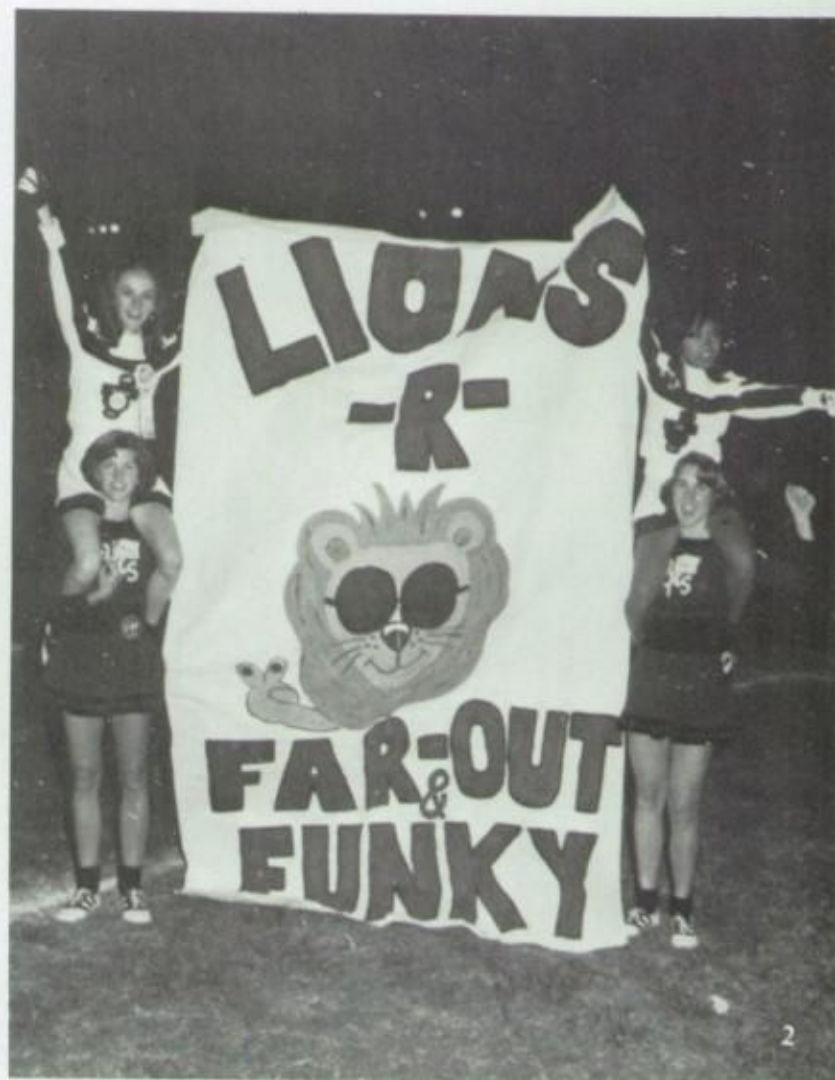

On November 1, the band sponsored the First Annual Westminster Show Tournament in the WHS school stadium. As host, the band did not perform competitively, but other local schools presented their field shows.

Chosen in April of last year, the 1977-78 Lionette Drill Team began their term with two-hour practices each day during summer school and the latter part of August. Their hours of work paid off when the Lionettes gave an expert performance at the first football game of the year against Anaheim.

Rigorous night rehearsals intermingled with football games, parades, and competitions throughout the year.

Hosting the Founder's Day Parade on October 6th, the drill team proudly marched with the band and pageantry unit.

They continued to perform alongside the band in three competitions, the first being the La Palma Competition, held on October 19, where they took second place. Two days later in the West Covina Tourney, the Lionettes shared in the Sweepstake Award with the band.

Although not competing in the First Annual Westminster Tournament, the Lionette Drill Team gave an outstanding performance.

Ms. Rosemary Stevens, advisor to both the Globewest Players and the Thespians, explained that the Globewest Players is a club open to any student on the WHS campus, while Thespians is a national association. "It takes a great deal of hard work and dedication to become a member of the National Thespian Society," emphasized Ms. Stevens. To become a member, one must participate in at least two shows, putting in at least 200 hours of work acting and doing crew work. Thespians is a lifetime organization; after putting in 500 hours of work, one becomes an honor Thespian. All of the Thespians at WHS are also members of Globewest Players.

Some of the activities these groups participated in this year included a pizza sale, a talent showcase, and working concessions at football games and wrestling matches. The highpoint of the year was a trip to New York during Christmas vacation. While in New York, the club stayed at the Hotel Taft and saw four plays including "Annie," the biggest hit on Broadway this year.

a Year of Excellent Performances

Ken Woesner and John Lewis have made WHS noted for its fine Music Department.

In addition to WHS's prize-winning Marching Band, the instrumental music department has three other excellent bands.

The Symphonic Band is made up of the school's advanced musicians and is under the direction of Ken Woesner. The Concert Band, an intermediate music program for band members, is conducted by John Lewis. Mr. Lewis is also responsible for keeping jazz alive at Westminster. The Jazz Ensemble, which has been performing for the last decade, consists of 19 of the school's strongest musicians.

Each of the bands, performed at a variety of school and community functions throughout the year. The Symphonic and Concert Bands played at the Spring Concert, at the Royal Banquet, and at a variety of music festivals. At these festivals both the Symphonic and Concert Bands consistently earned superior ratings.

To prepare for their performances the Jazz ensemble practiced outside of school at least one night each week. In addition to the various school and city functions, they also collaborated with the choral department in giving the annual pops concert in the Spring.

JAZZ ENSEMBLE: Saxophones — E. Justen, M. Bozarth, P. Thelander, K. Staley, J. Welch. Trombones — G. Pate, T. Tengan, C. Peterson, P. Morris. Trumpets — B. Noble, M. Pace, B. Gunther, D. Baker. Rhythm — J. Bobrow, Tracy Yee, D. Scroggins, W. Bobrow.

Golden West College Festival

This year Joseph Kral, a music graduate from Duquesne University, replaced Mr. Sutherland, former director of the WHS Music Program. Under Kral's direction, the choir gave three concerts this year: one a Christmas Concert at the First Presbyterian Church of Westminster; another, a Spring Concert at the same church; and the third, a Pop's Concert in the school gymnasium. In addition to these concerts, the performing arts groups also attended three festivals held at Goldenwest College.

A new music project was developed for incoming students this year called Freshman Corral. Twenty of the best freshman singers performed with the Choraleers and also gave some of their own concerts.

Choraleers, a ten-member group of guys and girls which has won many awards in the past, elected not to participate in competitive programs this year, but rather to perform in various organizations.

Performances this year included presentations for a country club, service groups, schools, restaurants, and a festival at Oceanside. At each performance a medley of Broadway hits was sung.

PHYSICAL EFFORT

Gridders Won Big Over Anaheim,

1977 was an up and down year for the Lion Varsity Football team. The Lions were 5-4 overall, and their 2-3 league mark left them in fourth place in the always-tough Sunset League.

One year-long highlight was the play of Junior Eddie Remele. Remele started the season with fireworks; running a kickoff back for 80-yards and a touchdown in the Lions 29-7 victory over the Anaheim Colonists.

Seniors Dave Pople and Ron Crouch shared the quarterback duties during the regular season until a knee injury suffered by Crouch allowed Pople to take over full time.

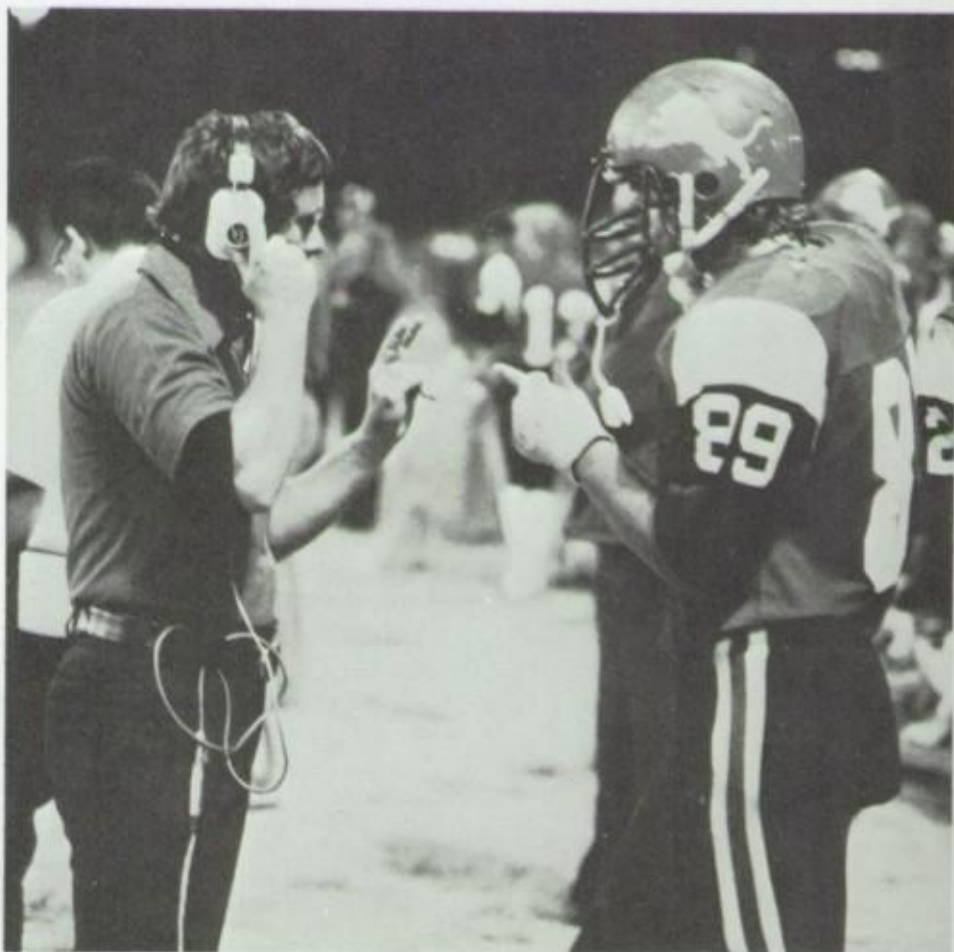

The two threw to a talented crop of receivers led by Senior Dave Jacinto. Jacinto's 24 catches for 211 yards led the team.

Mitch Siemens caught 11 passes for 126 yards, and Clyde Gamboa was the other cog in the Lion pass offense, catching seven passes for 81 yards.

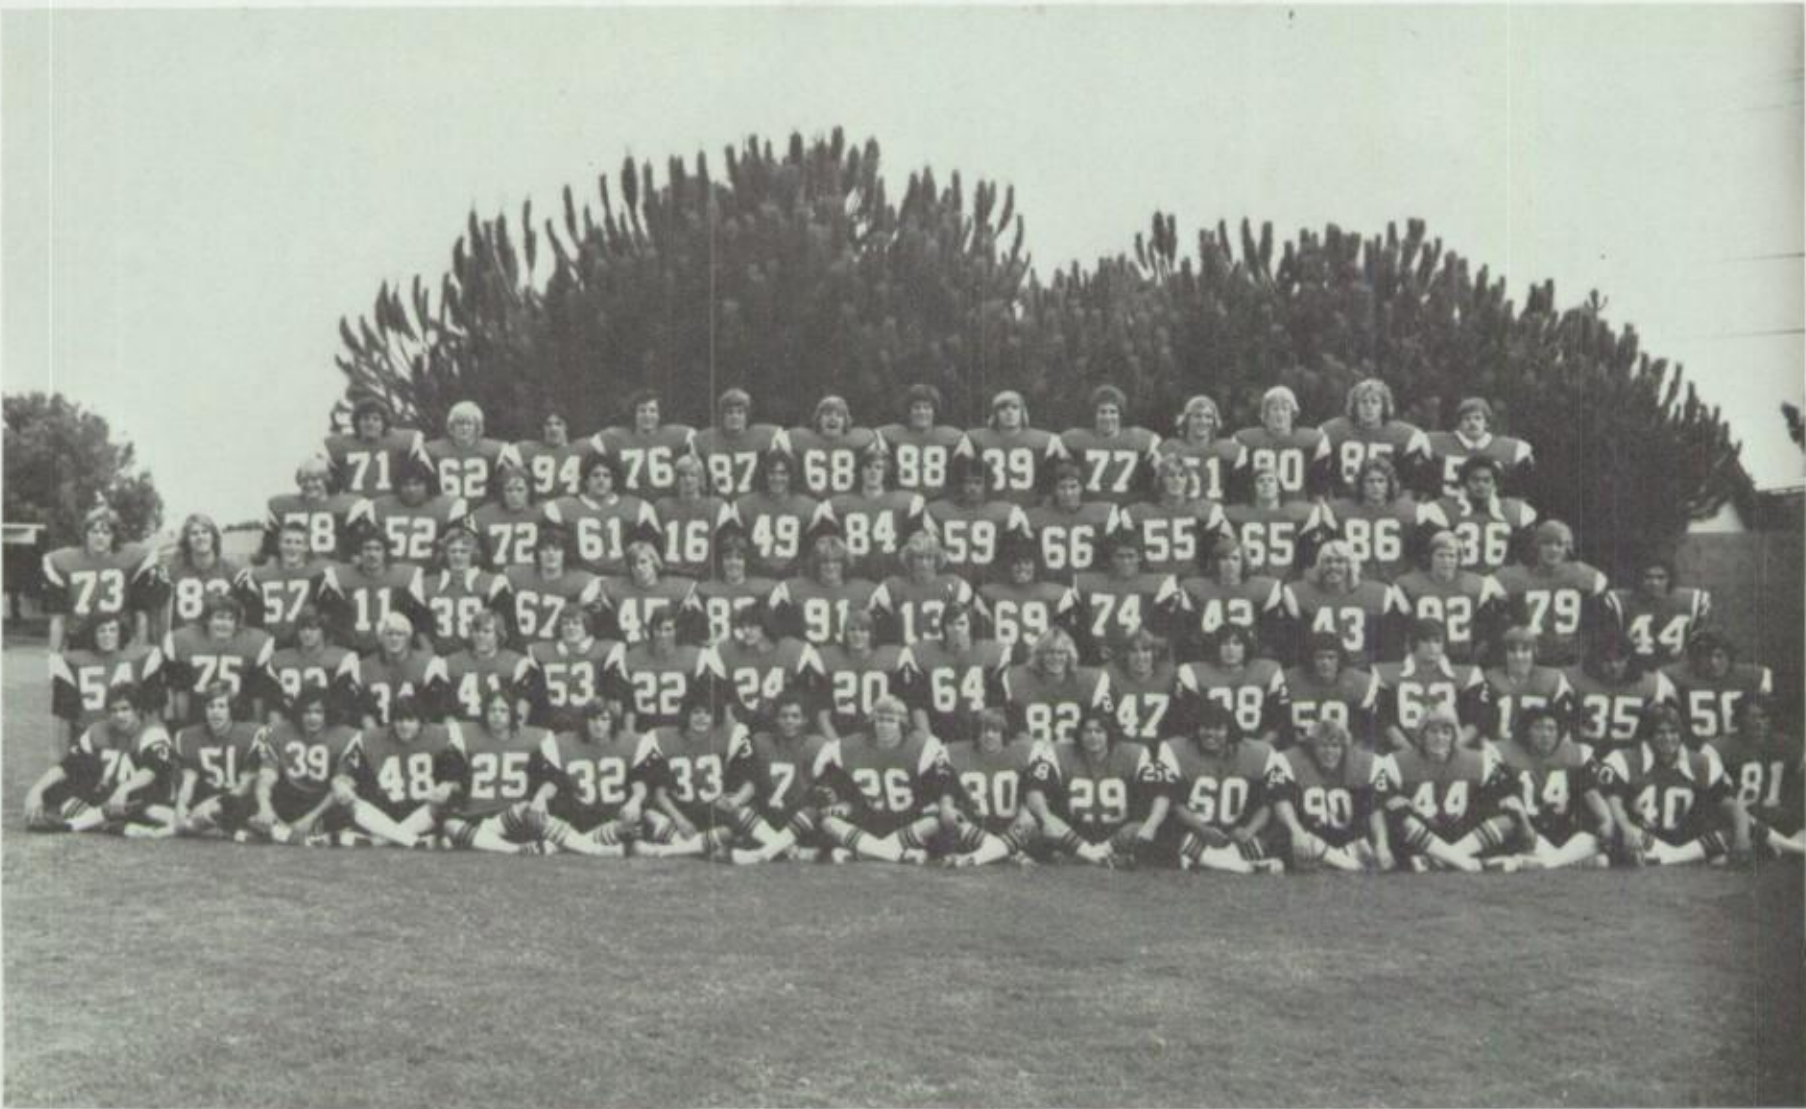

Siemens came away with all the individual honors. He was named to the All-County Team as a defensive-end, by Orange County journalists. An example of his outstanding play was evident in the Lakewood game: Mitch returned a fumble and a pass interception, both for touchdowns.

Pp. 104-105, 1) John Bell puts the pressure on Lakewood quarterback Tom Tereschuk enroute to the Lions' 15-0 victory over the Lancers. 2) Paul Errington kicks another extra-point to climax a Lion scoring drive. 3) Sean Williamson and Coach Howard Isom discuss defensive strategy set up by the coaches high above the stadium. 4) John Begin, #24, Sam Tricoli, #40, and Rob Parchinski, #71, lead the Lion defense off the field following a defensive stand that left the Anaheim Colonists short of the goal line.

Enjoyed Banner Year

For at least half of the players on the football field on Friday, November 21, that game will always be memorable.

The occasion was Homecoming for the Westminster Lion Varsity Football team. The 33-0 win probably best exemplified the Lions' playing up to their potential, as a team. Individually, it was a banner night for Junior Eddie Remele. The first-year tailback rambled for 234 yards and four touchdowns on 29 carries.

Westminster's defense swarmed through the Oiler Line, forcing Huntington quarterback Marco Pagnanelli to throw several times before his receivers were open.

The Lions scored the first four times they got their hands on the ball. Remele gained 52 of the 58-yard total on the first drive. The final play was a screen pass from quarterback Dave Pople to Remele that went for 23-yards and the score.

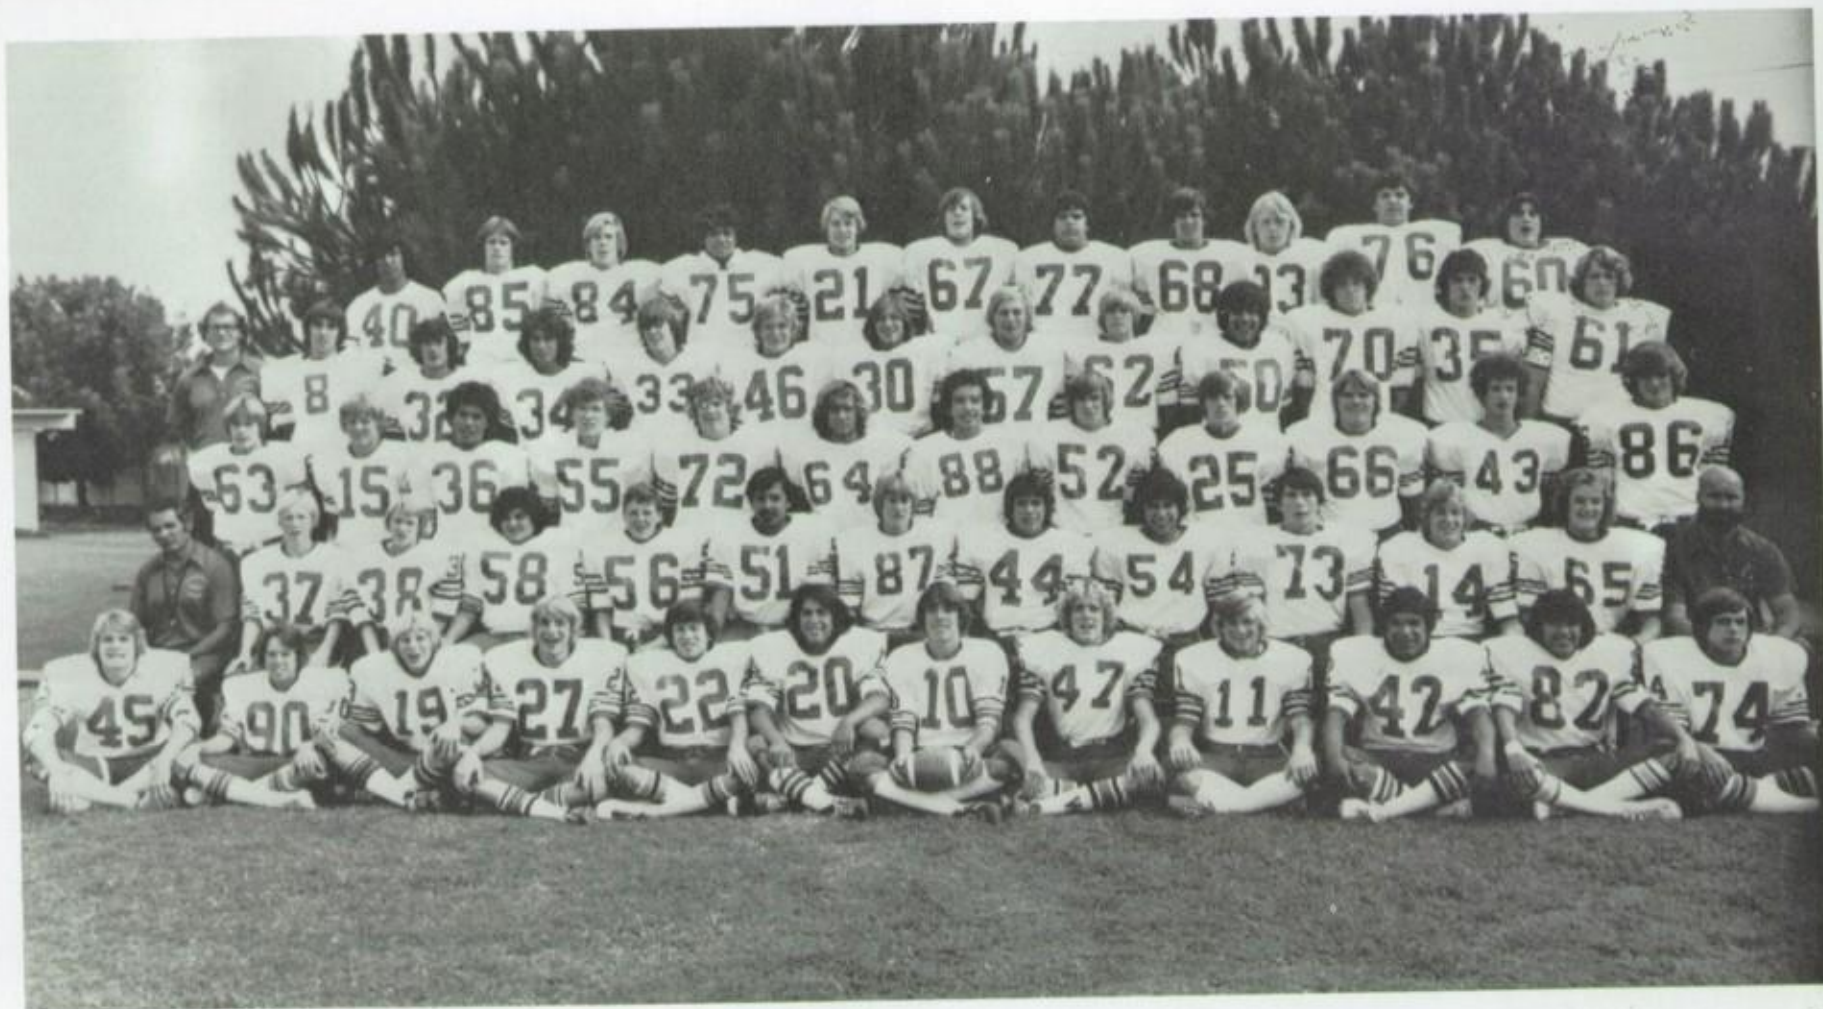

With the score 20-0, the Lion defense got into the scoring act. Defensive end Charlie McNeil blocked an Oiler punt and Sean Williamson returned it to the Huntington Beach 20. Six plays later, Remele punched into the end zone to make the score 26-0.

By the end of the game, the Lions had racked up 33 points, while allowing Huntington Beach none.

Football action is hot and heavy: for instance, Mitch Siemens fiercely drags an opponent to the ground and Clyde Gamboa slides down the field oblivious to pain. WHS offense is elated after a score. Crouch on the run while the trainer helps Dave Jacinto.

Toward Joining the Varsity Team

The Westminster High School Sophomore Football Team finished the 1977 season with a 5-3-1 record. Unfortunately, the three losses came in Sunset League competition.

Tim Langley led the team in scoring; Langley racked up 21 points on three touchdowns and as many extra points. Just behind Langley was Art Tristan who scored 18 points on three touchdowns. Brian Gerardi, Terry Grass, Aaron Williamson, and Scott Henning followed the leaders with two touchdowns each.

Gerardi and Henning shared the quarterbacking duties with Gerardi coming out statistically superior. He threw for 675 yards as compared to Henning's 405.

Both men threw to a group of receivers led by Terry Grass, Art Tristan, and Dan Mueller.

When the ball wasn't in the air, it was in safe hands on the ground. Langley led all rushers with 820 yards. Aaron Williamson was the second leading rusher with 760. Behind those two leaders were Shaun Keating with 450 yards, Frank Vertti with 485 yards, and Junior Rodriguez who carried 350 yards.

1) Shawn Keating scrambles out of the hold of an opponent as he turns upfield for another big gain. 2) Keating leads a swarm of Lions as they gang-tackle an opponent. 3) Tim Langley puts a fake on an opponent as he returns a crucial punt.

Westminster played each district team — Huntington Beach, Edison, and Fountain Valley — three times. Ocean View and Warren were the other opponents. Bob Oliver was the defensive mainstay, being named Defensive Player of the Game twice. Jim Keating coached the District team with help from Chuck Carter and Rick Rosen.

Harriers Took Third in

Westminster's 3-2 Varsity Cross Country record came mostly on the legs of Juniors Chris Bueker and Kevin Dalrymple. Bueker's best time came when he ran the two-mile course at Wilson in 15:13. His best league time came in the final meet with Fountain Valley. Dalrymple also made his best showing at Wilson with a 15:59. League times of 16:01 in the Newport and Huntington Beach meets were his best league showings.

The Lions finished the season rated sixth in CIF. Despite that, the Lion harriers were ineligible for the CIF Preliminaries because two other teams in the Sunset League finished ahead of them.

1977 was the first year that the WHS long-distance men were under the direction of new head coach Ralph Martinez. Martinez stepped into the job following the retirement of Jack Hedges, who had directed the team for seventeen years.

With Perfect 5-0 Mark

The four-man Lion Junior Varsity Cross Country team finished first in the Sunset League with a perfect 5-0 mark.

Seniors Scott Clarkson and Steve Gilmore led the Lion Team which finished no lower than third place in any of the four invitational meets they ran in. Clarkson's best time came in the meet with Fountain Valley when he completed the course in 19:05. Gilmore's 18:22 in that same race assured the Lions' victory.

Juniors Ron June and Barry Saylor comprised the rest of the JV squad. June's 16:48 time, his personal best for the year, came at the Fountain Valley meet. Saylor recorded a 17:12 mark in the same race for this year's best.

1977 was a rebuilding year for the Westminster Water Polo team. Eight of the team's twelve lettermen will return for the '78 campaign.

With just four seniors on the team, the Lions suffered a bleak Varsity Water Polo season. Junior goalie Steve Weeks was elected to an honorary post-season team. Weeks prevented 62 opponent goals; and, in the process, made second team All-Sunset League.

Junior Cliff Crozier led all scorers for the Lions with 19 goals. Crozier scored on just under half of his shooting attempts. His .463 percentage was tops among the Lion Varsity.

Senior forward Roger Bacon had the most assists (7) and most shots on goal (61). He was also second in goals, scoring 16 for WHS.

In his first year as Lions' head coach, Brent Goodwin had to contend with teaching the team his training system. Goodwin was the third Varsity Water Polo coach in four years. He feels the experience gained in competitive play this year will show in next year's team strength and season record.

in Anticipation of Next Year

Despite a prolific scoring attack, the Lion Frosh/Soph Water Polo team won just one league game during the course of the 1977 season.

Randy Oats and Paul Schwartz scored eighteen goals each; two other Lions scored more than ten goals. Oats found the goal with 18 of his 35 shots for a .514 scoring average. Schwartz took seven more shots (42) and ended up with a .429 average.

Jim Pace scored 14 times and attempted 35 shots for a .400 average. The other Lion to score more than ten times was Lance Kouchi. Kouchi made 14 of his 26 shots for a .426 average.

Goalie Randy Gates was named to the All-Sunset League Soph/Frosh team. Gates stopped 21 shots and allowed just 38 goals. There were four Lions named to the second team in the All-Sunset League. In addition to Schwartz and Kouchi, Freshmen Jeff Endigal and Scott Hanson made the squad. Endigal scored five goals while Hanson scored eight.

Brent Goodwin also coached the Soph/Frosh team in addition to his duties as Varsity Coach.

Lion Basketball Season

Senior guard Ray Foster led the Lion basketball team in what turned out to be another dismal season. Westminster failed to win a single league game for the second year in a row. There were, however a couple of close games.

The season opener against Newport Harbor was indicative of what the rest of the season would be like. Westminster rallied from a six point deficit in the end of the third quarter, and went on to take a five point lead before the Tars staged a rally of their win.

Junior Larry Parker fouled a Newport player in the backcourt to send him to the freethrow line with the score 58-57 in the Lion's favor. He missed both freethrows, but Jon Sweek picked up the rebound and dropped it in for the 59-57 Tar victory.

Mental mistakes at crucial times cost the Lions the game.

Foster, Mitch Siemens, and Andy Bealer were the mainstays of the Lion offensive attack. Bealer injured his ankle midway through the league season and was lost for the rest of the year.

In the rematch of the Newport game, until this time in the Lions' gym, Westminster led throughout the game until the Tars took control in the fourth quarter and pulled away for the 67-59 win.

Ray Foster was named second team All-Sunset League in post season honors.

Junior Varsity Basketball Team Watched

The Lion JV Basketball team fared no better than their Varsity counter-parts. Westminster finished 0-10 in league action.

Westminster's big problem was the lack of any single outstanding player. Sophomore Dave Tipton came the closest to filling the bill. Tipton came up from last year's Frosh team and stepped right into the Lion's starting line-up.

In every game, the Lions hung close, but a lapse here or cold shooting spell there often proved to be the difference.

The experience gained this year should be reflected in next year's varsity team.

Develop Under Coach Lindquist's Direction

The year was an exciting one, for members of the Freshman Basketball Team enjoyed a season of some success. There was much to learn about playing the game in Sunset League competition that seemed different from past play. Coach Dave Lindquist spent many hours helping the team to develop new skills and to learn game tactics. The team's play reflected this new insight into the sport.

Freshman Joe Thelander and Dave Harris gave particular support to the young team and are expected to be mainstays of the Sophomore team during '78-'79.

Lions Captured 1977

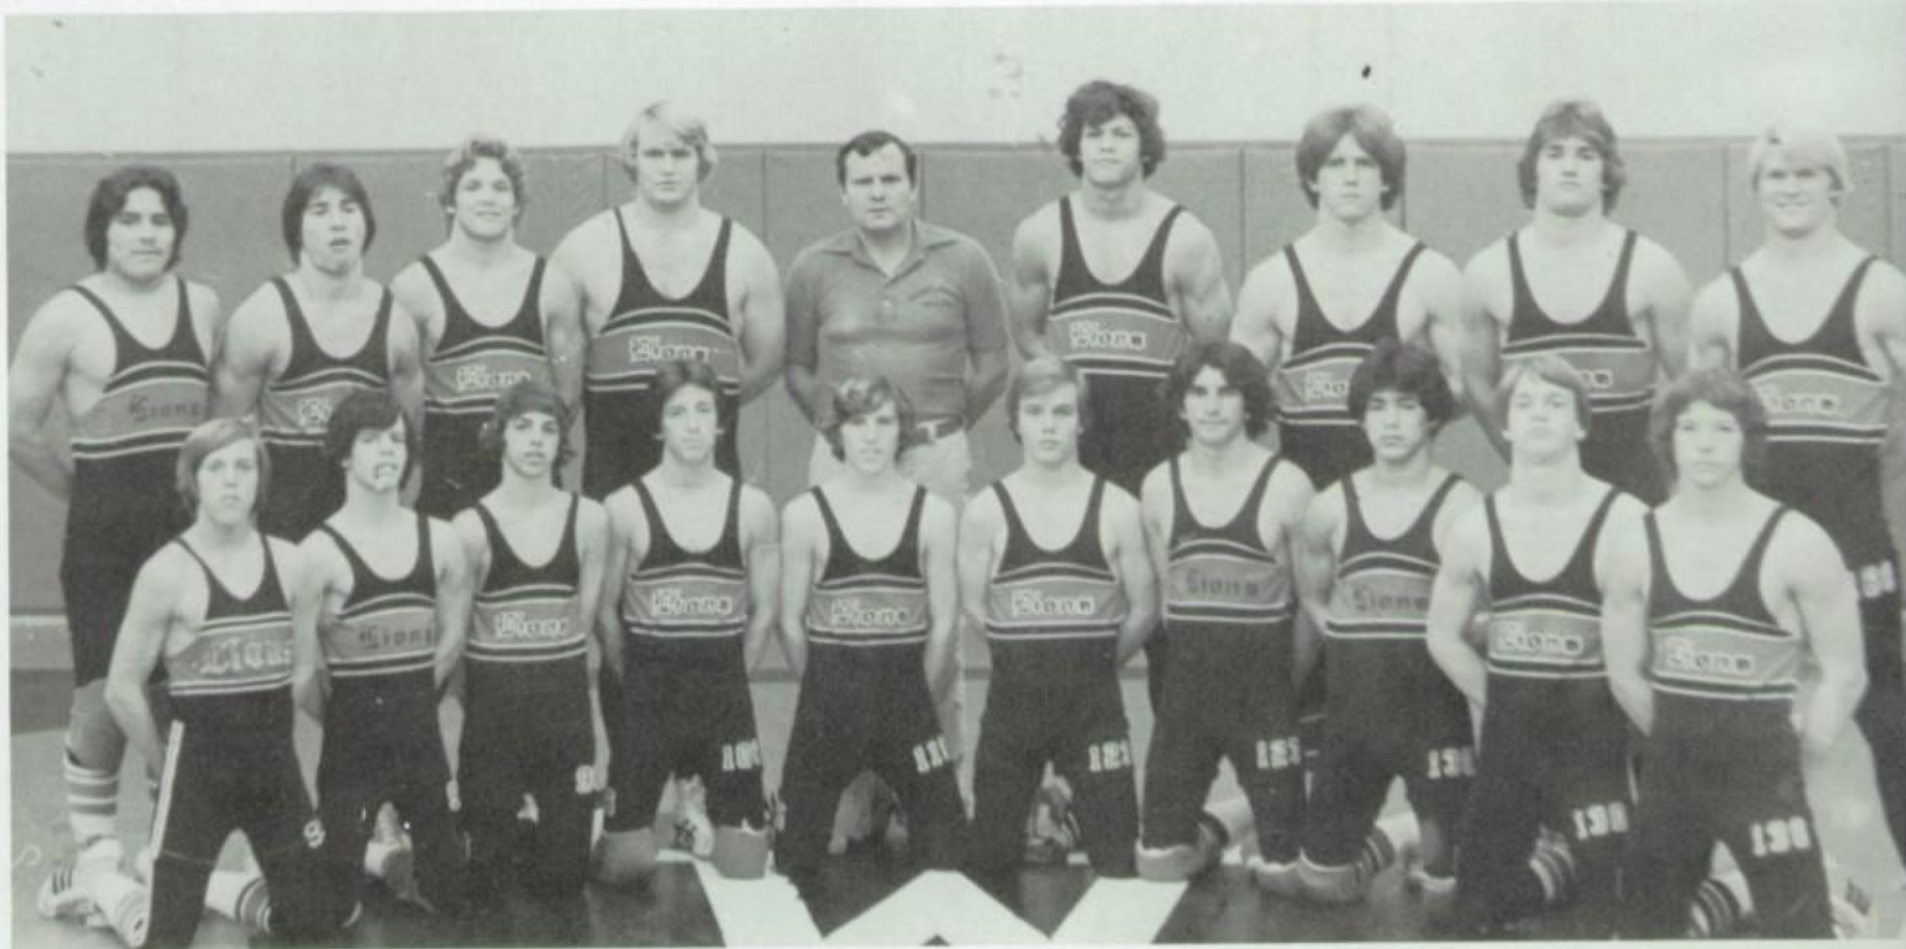

Under the direction of Coach Bob Cossarek, the 1978 edition of the Lion Wrestling Team won the Sunset League wrestling title.

Westminster was 5-0 in league competition. The Lions were tough in every weight class except at 98 pounds, for men wrestled in this class; Jim Mancini made his successful debut in the 98 pound class at the final meet with Fountain Valley. He proceeded to win by a pin.

Mancini's win started the Lions on their way to what would become their title-clenching victory. Westminster entered the match assured of at least a three-way tie for the championship. If the Lions had lost to Fountain Valley and if Edison had won their match, all three teams would hold a 4-1 record.

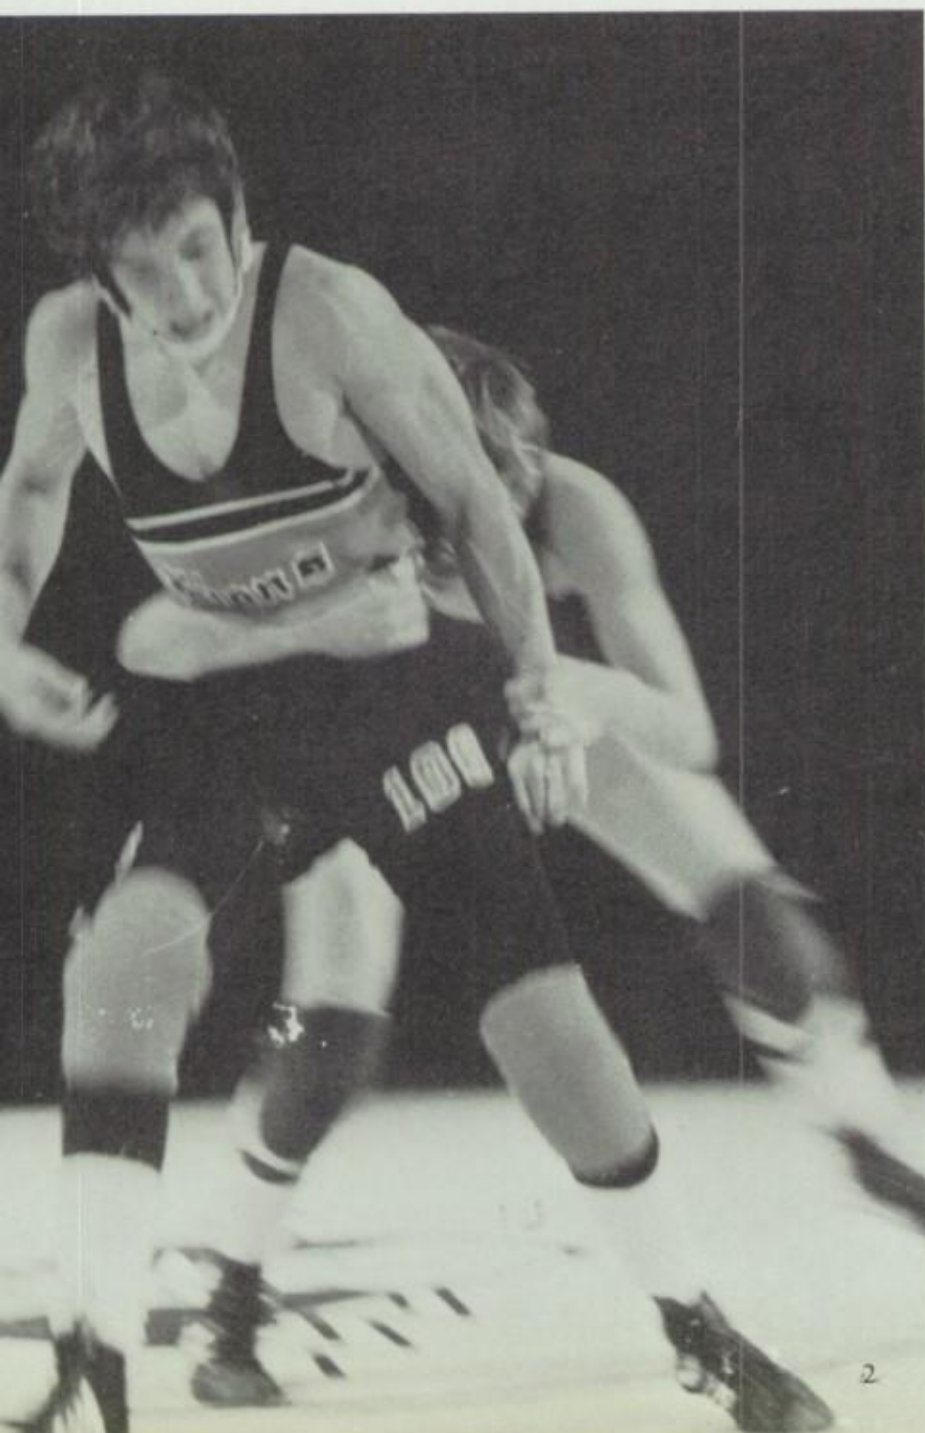

Jay Lara and Sophomore Wally Clouse won their matches to build Westminster's momentum toward the league title. Jerry Clark, Dave Jacinto, and Gary Schultz were also instrumental in the Lion's league championship.

P. 130, 1) A masked Dave Jacinto glances quickly at the clock to see how much time is left in his match with a 178 pound opponent from Edison High School; the match ended in a 4-4 draw.

of the Wrestling Team

They were the heart of the Lion wrestling team: Scott Brock, Brian Brinkman, Ferdi Luna, Ron Camire, and Mike Pickett were the cogs around which the Wrestling team was built.

Brock, in addition to his position as Senior Class President, was a smooth, methodical wrestler who was looked upon as a leader by his teammates. His only two league losses came at the hands of a CIF finalist and State champion the year before. Brock never lost his head in a match, and always worked his opponent, probing for weaknesses.

Brinkman was a four-year varsity letterman who finished 4-1 in the league season. His only loss came at the hand of a former Georgia State Champion. His trademark was being the last one out of the locker room after every match. As a Sophomore, Brinkman was a CIF Finalist.

Ferdi Luna was the only Lion wrestler to finish the season undefeated. Luna had a 17-0 mark prior to League finals.

Camire finished the league season undefeated and entered league finals as one of the top seeds. When he was on the mat, Camire attacked his opponent in a cold fury, and never let up. Ron had a smooth style, changing from move to move with the grace of a cat.

Pickett had as stellar a year as Brock, Brinkman, Camire and Luna. Mike was usually a sure win. His size combined with speed and agility made it hard for his opponents to react when he went for a pin.

18-1 Overall Mark Ensured

The Lion Junior Varsity wrestlers took another league championship when they bested the Fountain Valley Barons 45-24.

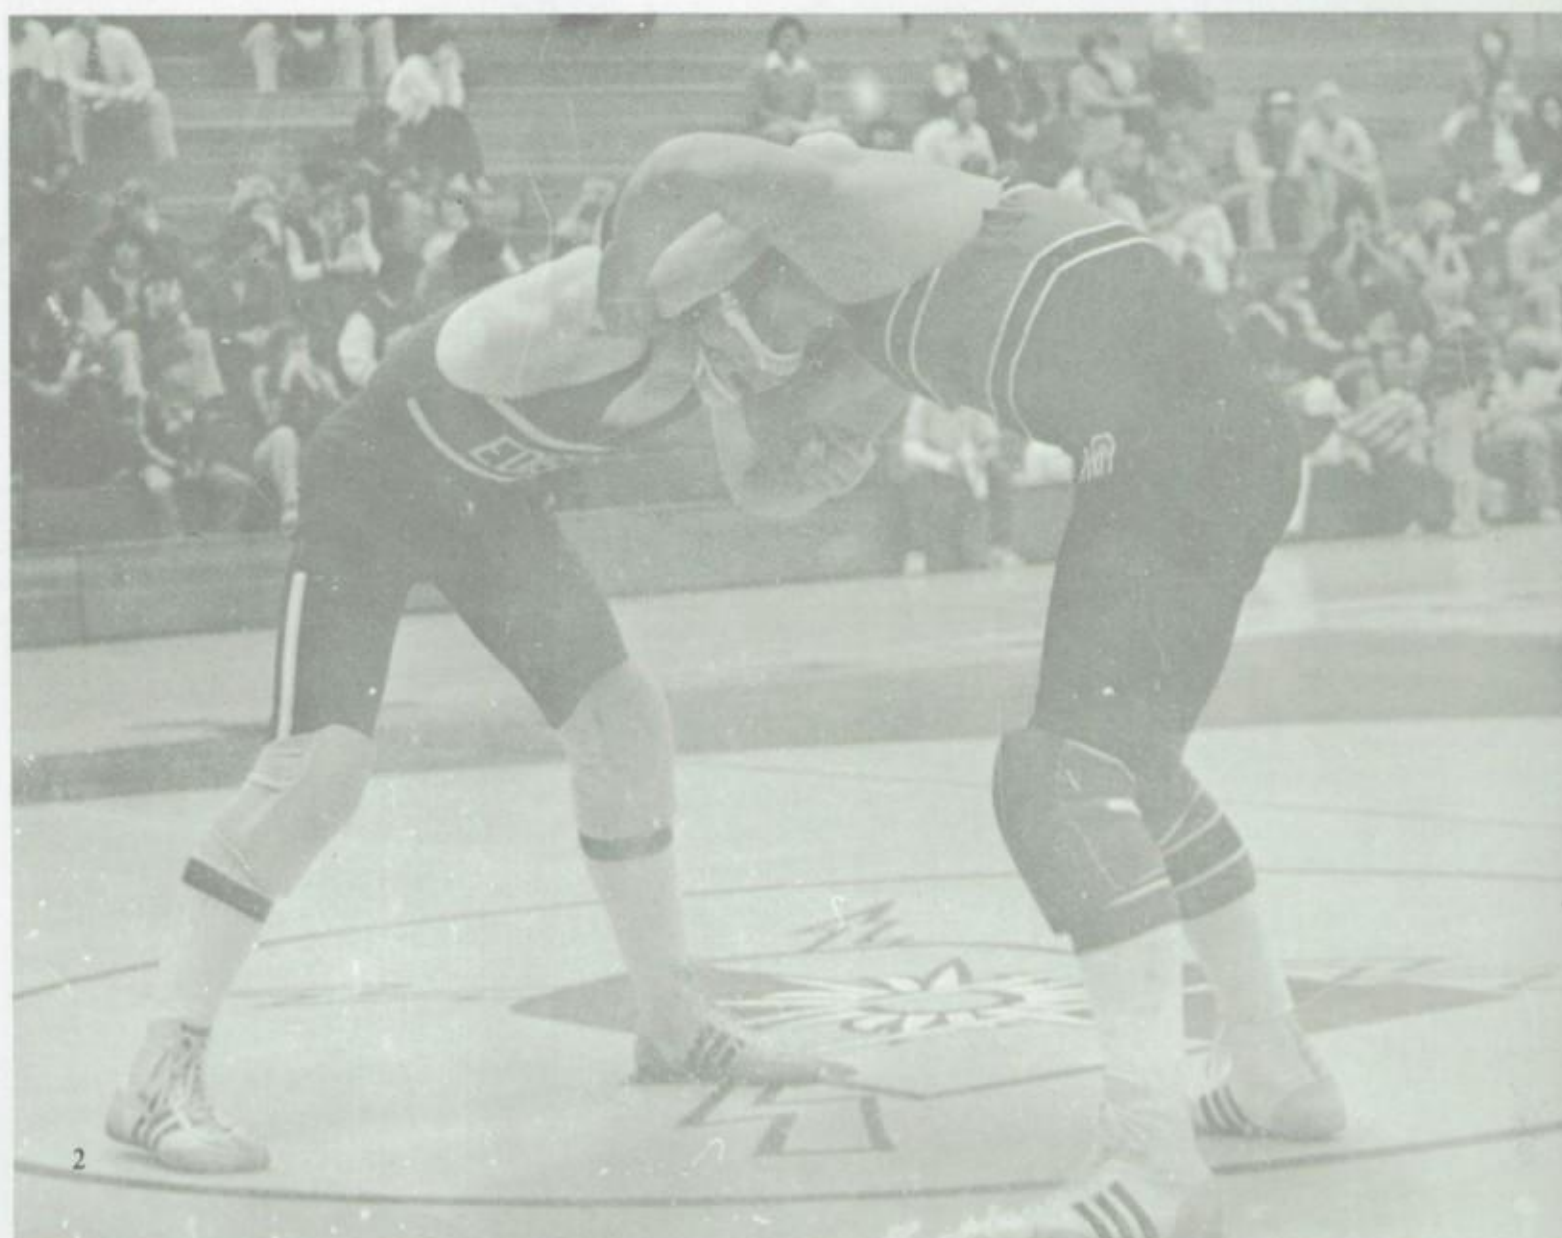

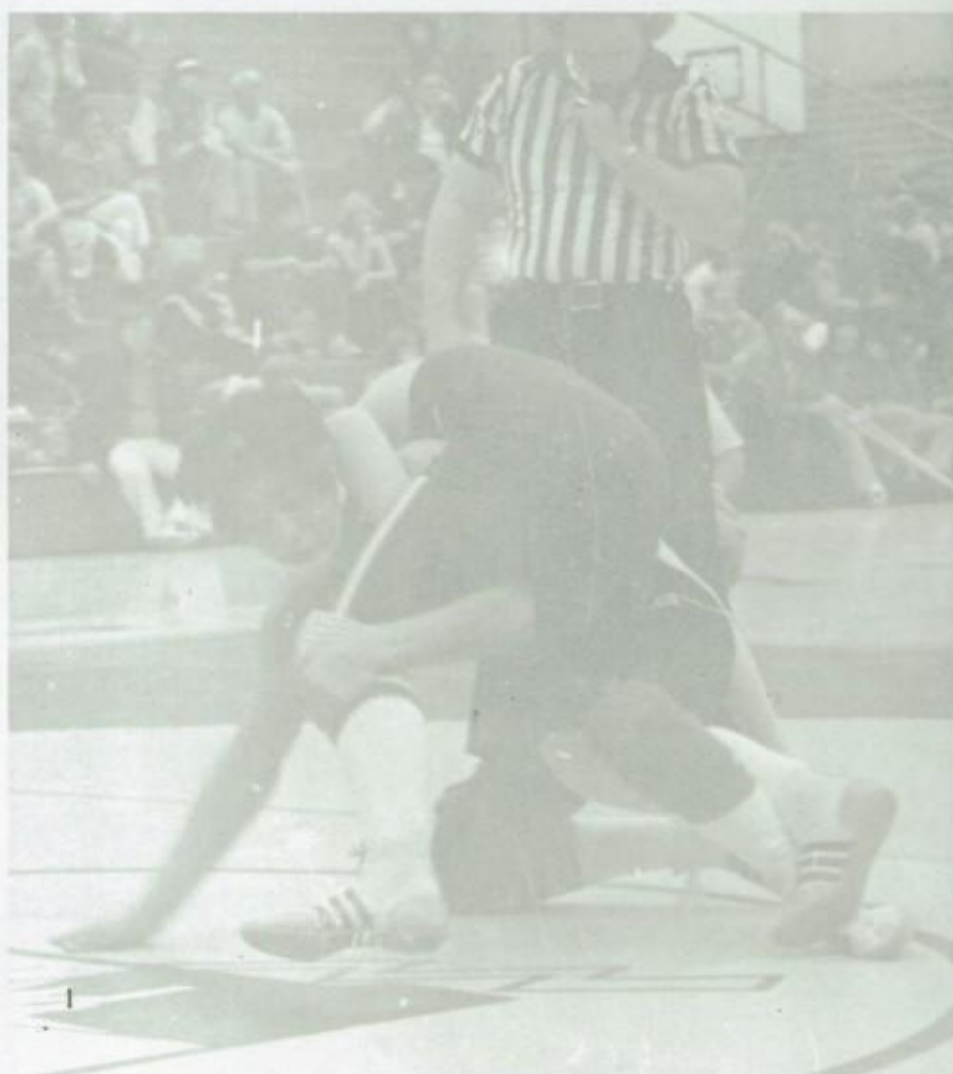

Westminster once again dominated the Sunset League competition in going undefeated in league actions. The Lion JV team lost only three league matches in their history.

Coach Steve Salicio guided a team that included Ron Camire and Earnie Chaves, two outstanding high school wrestlers.

Westminster's closest league match was a 43-23 thrashing administered to the Newport Harbor Sailors. On the other end of the spectrum, a 60 point victory over the Edison Chargers was Westminster's most lopsided win.

Lopsided score were the trademark of the '78 JV's. Even their lone loss to the Mission Viejo team wasn't close. Westminster lost by a 21-point margin, 21-42.

P. 134-135. 1) Earnie Chavez has his hands full with his Edison opponent. Chavez ultimately won the match in the Lions' victory over the Chargers. 2) Heavyweight Dan Ordaz stalemates his competition enroute to a win for Westminster. Randy Morales turns his victim over on his back. Morales pinned the man.

Gave Them Second Place Finish

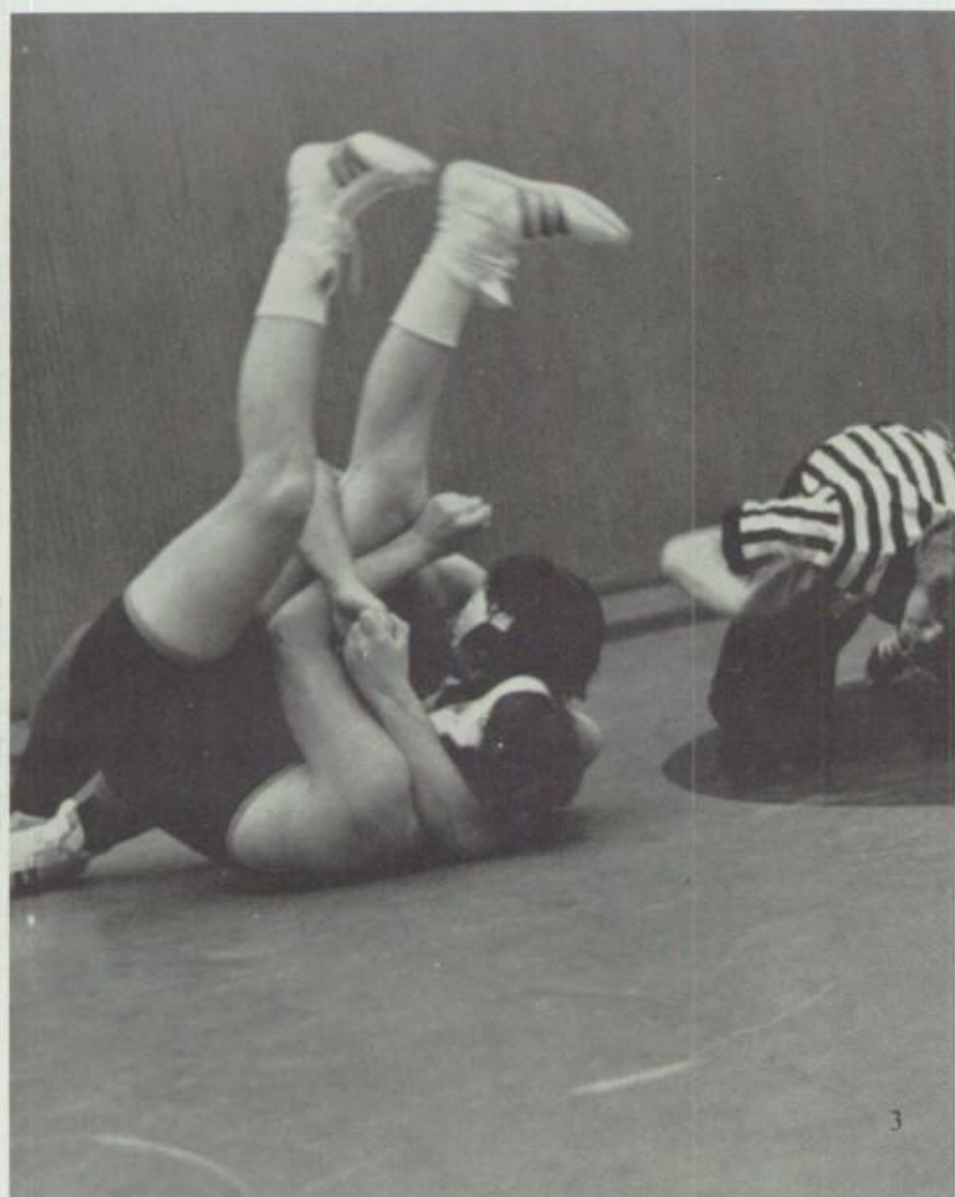

A season opening loss to the Newport Harbor Sailors was the only thing that kept the Westminster Lion Soph-Frosh team from gaining a league title in 1978.

The Lion's 7-3 mark included only the one league loss. The rest of the league competition was a breeze for Westminster. Fountain Valley provided the stiffest test in the final league match. Westminster won 39-19 to clinch their second place finish.

Coach Lew Boyles directed the squad in which the wrestlers often changed from week to week. Boyles returned to the mats after a nine-year absence.

Sunset League Play-Offs

The accent was on youth as this year's Lion Varsity Soccer Team rolled to a 4-4-1 record in Sunset League competition and narrowly missed a berth in the CIF playoffs.

A 2-2 tie with Fountain Valley in the last game of the season kept the Lions from the playoffs.

All but two members of this year's team will return next year. Sam Tricoli, the school's first four-year letterman in soccer, was named to the second team All-Sunset League.

Captain Steve Burpo, Glenn Angenent, and Paul Errington led the Lions in scoring.

After going undefeated in the pre-season, the Lion JV squad had a disastrous league campaign. Westminster managed to win just two games in league action. They also tied three games while losing five.

The Lions tied or beat every league team except the Huntington Beach Oilers.

To Their Predecessors' Success

For the past nine years, Coach Leon Crawford has been directing and teaching the techniques of gymnastics to WHS' Boys' Varsity Team.

Crawford's coaching has produced seven finalists in the NCAA gymnastic finals. Last year his team placed fourth in CIF and second to Fountain Valley in the Sunset League.

This year's Varsity team was 24 members strong. Spotlighted in this year's highlights were Dionne Martinez, Art Morotas, Larry Abolini, Vic Esquivel, Norman St. Jean, Bob Togonon, Mike Padilla, and Mike Yasumatsu. The last three gymnasts participated with injuries: Padilla and Togonon had shoulder problems, while Yasumatsu had a bad back.

In gymnastics there are six events featured at every meet: floor exercises, Pommel horse, rings, vaulting or long horse, parallel bars and high bar or horizontal bar. In addition to these, one member from each team has to perform in all six events; this performance then becomes an unofficial seventh event. Bob Togonon was this year's all-round man for WHS.

Besides league action, this year's team also performed in both the Westminster CIF Preview and El Rancho Invitationals.

Varsity Squad Identified With Asian

At the end of the '77 season, this year's senior gymnasts approached Coach Leon Crawford with the idea of dressing up as Japanese Gymnasts.

Because Crawford and Norman St. Jean were the only "Honkies" returning this year, it was felt that the minority, in this case the majority, should be represented.

Although the Chinese invented gymnastics, the Japanese have become the masters who dominated the past four Olympics.

According to Crawford, to be a good gymnast, one must be muscular, have excellent coordination, good bearing, faith in the coach and the spotter, and not be too big.

For these reasons, as well as hard training and placing emphasis on gymnastics by the Japanese government, the Japanese have become premiere performers in international gymnastics events. This, of course, was the reason the WHS Varsity Gymnastics team wished to dress in Japanese costumes for their yearbook picture.

Traditions Set by Past Teams

Bill Searles, who was once himself a Junior College State Gymnastics champion, completed his second year coaching during the past year.

Like the Varsity squad, the JV squad finished second in Sunset League last year; but it was Marina that played the villain and captured the league crown. There is no CIF competition on the JV level.

Each school in the league holds a dual meet in JV competition. These were usually held on Saturdays. The competing teams were allowed four participants in each event.

Outstanding performances were given by many team members, including the following: Jeff Bradford, Ray Mucillo, John Gentile, Rick Cabios, Shaun Keating, John Limb, and Greg Morates.

Since no gymnastic program exists on the junior high level, Searles finds himself teaching a lot of the basics to the freshmen on his team. "The first stage is to get the freshmen to know how to tumble," says Searles. "If they can get tumbling, the rest of the teaching should be easier."

Extra Effort During Season

The swim team was a young team this year. Junior Cliff Crozier and Freshman Randy Gates served as the mainstays of the varsity team, and sophomores Jim Pace and Paul Schwartz carried the JV team.

Some swimmers worked out all year while others swam only during the season. But all members of the team exerted an extra effort in competition. Every point helped move the team closer to a winning season. "Even fifth place gets a team point," emphasized Coach Brent Goodwin.

Behind the front four swimmers, WHS had a shortage of team members. "We have no great depth, but we improved as we emphasized the team philosophy of trying," said Coach Goodwin.

Aggressiveness Both at Bat and on the Field

A group of talented seniors formed the nucleus of this year's Varsity Baseball Team. Under the leadership of such returning lettermen as Steel Morris, Clyde Gamboa, Art Moreno, Bob Wadsworth, Doak Krause, Mark Richards, and Junior Eddie Remele, the Lion's looked forward to an outstanding Sunset League season.

In pre-season wins of 10-5 over Corona Del Mar, and 8-0 over perennially-tough Lakewood, the Lion offense demonstrated its potential. It was in the Lakewood game that Morris popped the first homerun of the season.

Westminster's pitching staff was comprised almost entirely of seniors. Wadsworth, Moreno, Morris, and Eric Gaylord were the starters, while Junior Andy Hunn provided relief when needed.

It is said that in order to win in baseball, a team must be strong in the middle. The Lions were. Anchoring the middle was the catching force of Krause, Bill Coopman, and Junior Fred Betz. Moreno usually covered short, but when on the mound, Wendell Anderson filled that spot.

Gamboa and Richards were the mainstays in the outfield which included Scott Cantino, Gaylord, Ron Crouch, and Alfredo Rodriguez.

Coaches Rick Hayes, Monty Bolinger, and Tim Demase oversaw a team which, position-by-position was stronger than it's counterpart of a year before. Although they were young, the Lion's youth was talented.

First base duties were shared by Morris and Niel Brown, while Dave Gutierrez held down the third base position.

Offensively, leadoff man Clyde Gamboa and number two hitter Remele had to get on base. Once there, the big guns of Morris, Richards, Moreno, and Gutierrez could bring them home.

Both on the bases and at the bat, this year's Lion team needed to be aggressive in order to score runs.

School Records During '78 Season

The WHS Varsity Track Team set off a year of high hopes by winning the very first meet of the season. Under the capable direction of track Coaches Kurrle and Martinez, the Varsity Track Team accomplished much.

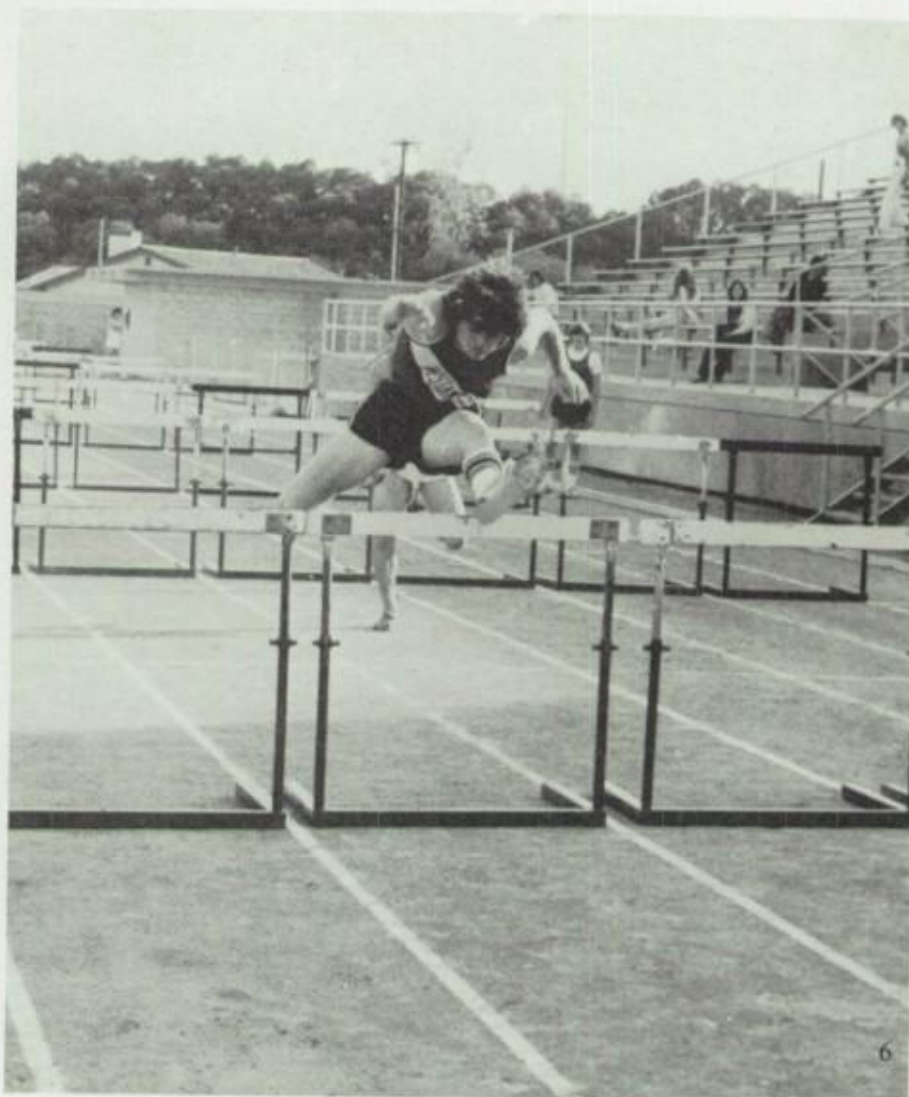

Several team members set new records during the '78 program. Aaron Williamson, a talented hurdler for the Lions' team, broke the 120 high hurdles record. Later, Aaron also set a new school record in the 330 low hurdles. Another noted team member, Larry Parker, completed an outstanding season in both the 100 yard dash and in the high jump events.

Practice sessions were held every day on the WHS track; however, the particularly rainy '78 season cut into the intended daily workouts. Nevertheless, the Lion Track Team maintained a successful program which included participation in the 100, 220, 440, 880, mile, and two mile events, as well as in the 120 high hurdles, the 330 low hurdles, pole vault, high jump, shot put, discus, long jump and triple jump.

Westminster High's three Volleyball teams began the 1978 spring season with determination to make a successful stand against the strong competition of other Sunset League schools. The expected difficult games were played against Huntington Beach High, Newport Harbor High, and Marina High; in each match the Lions proved they were worthy opponents.

The Varsity Volleyball Team was strengthened by the talents of four returning senior members: Jeff Dodd, Dave Pople, Mitch Siemens, and Larry Strickland.

Golf, another of the spring sports enjoyed by WHS students, began practice every afternoon in March. The team met at the Seaclyff Country Club Golf Course where Coach Gibbons instructed them in the fine points of putting and in how to develop a strong drive. This year Camille Friend joined the Golf Team becoming the first girl to participate in this sport at WHS as a member of the team. She and the rest of her teammates presented a tough challenge to other hopeful schools. WHS did well in the competitive events it entered.

Many Sports During 77-78 School Year

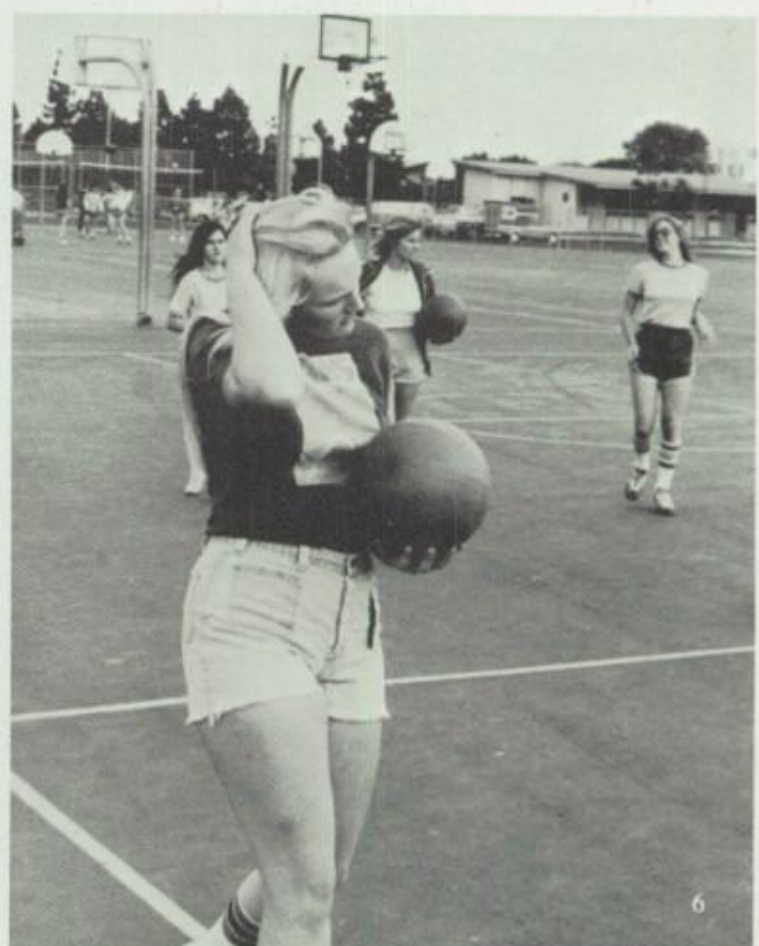

WHS Advanced Team Sports program, a branch of Girls Athletics, offers students not on CIF teams an opportunity to participate in competitive team sports. The Advanced Team Sports program follows that of CIF: first quarter is devoted to volleyball; second, to field hockey; third, to basketball; and fourth, to baseball.

The 50 girls per class met every fifth period to practice. Play-offs were held between grade level teams; the winners then played against another league school's team. The winning intra-mural teams competed with only three other schools in the Sunset League because competition rotates yearly among the six schools that make up the Sunset League.

Advanced Team Sports stresses participation. Membership can lead to involvement in CIF sports.

Varsity Volleyball Trained With New Coach

Varsity Volleyball

The Girls' Volleyball Team took third place in Sunset League this year behind the number one ranked Newport Sailors and the Huntington Beach Oilers.

In the next to the last game of the season, the Lions defeated Huntington Beach 15-12 and 17-15, thanks to a phenomenal performance by Senior Veronica Vella who scored 20 of WHS's 32 points. Veronica highlighted the match with seven straight points.

The Varsity Volleyball Team's offense showed consistent improvement throughout the season. "A lot of people were putting balls away for us," noted Coach Dave Lindquist. "We should place in our league next year."

JV Volleyball

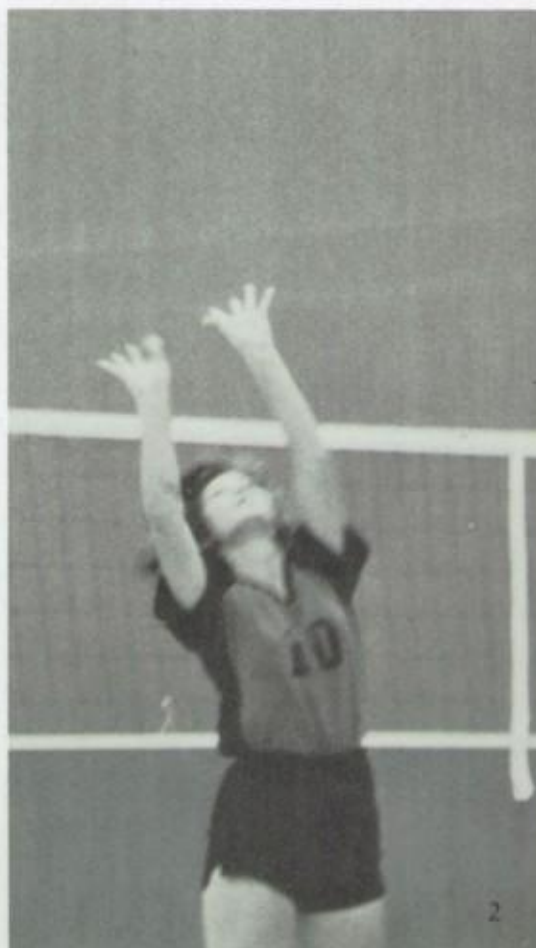

Although 10 of the 14 players on the JV Volleyball team were rookies, they achieved a very acceptable season with a 4-6 win/loss record. "The team was somewhat inconsistent, often taking splits when they should have beaten their opponents both times; but this is par for rookie teams. I'm very pleased with the way they have grown as players," Coach Karen Swemba reported. Deana Douglas and Deanne Ondics were named Most Valuable Players on the JV team.

Cross Country Competition

For the first time in its history, WHS had a Girls' Cross Country Team.

Requests by female tracksters encouraged the Athletic Department to set up a girls' cross country program in line with title IX directives.

"Another reason for beginning the cross country program was that track was in the spring, and the girls wanted a fall program to keep them in shape," commented girls' cross country coach Barbara Baker.

Although the team finished without a win in Sunset League action, they did place 6th out of 32 teams at the Orange County Cross Country Invitionals held at Cal State Irvine. Members of the team believe this standing shows what they will be able to achieve in the 1978 season.

On the first WHS girls' harrier team there were seven varsity members as well as seven JV members. Kristy Wilson and Jean Danielson were cited for their exceptional performances throughout the entire season.

Strong Defense Led Varsity Field Hockey

This year's Varsity and Junior Varsity Field Hockey teams had an outstanding season. Through great team effort, Varsity finished the season placing first in the Sunset League with a record of 8 wins, 1 tie, and 1 loss. They entered the CIF play-offs and advanced to the quarter finals.

Junior Varsity finished the season placing second with a record of 6 wins, 4 ties, and 0 losses. They were a team that worked together as one; and with that effort everyone on the team was made responsible for scoring a goal, offense or defense.

Hard Work and Long Practices Helped

After a one-year absence due to a back injury, Girls' Varsity Basketball Coach Debby Woodington returned to a situation similar to the one she had left — building a competitive team.

"Handling is the thing we have to work on," states Ms. Woodington.

Boys' Varsity Basketball coach John Borchert aided the girls' team. "He let us use his toss-back device," Woodington noted. "It really helped us in our passing and rebounding."

Woodington's attempt at rebuilding was dealt a severe blow this year. Field hockey and softball over-lapped with basketball, so the students who previously played in all three events had to choose just one.

"It was an error in scheduling," said Woodington. "But our administration has corrected it for next year. Next year looks very promising."

Track Team Ran, Jumped, and "Put"

The WHS Girls' Track Team looked forward to a successful and challenging '78 season. Although losing their first practice meet to Foothill by only six points, the team continued to remain optimistic about their upcoming league competition. The Lion's toughest competition came from Edison and Newport, but through the dedication of the girls and guidance of the coaches, the team proved to be a tough Sunset League competitor.

Four-year head coach Barbara Baker, her husband, and two student trainers directed the conditioning and development of the athletes and strengthened areas once considered weak. Two such areas, sprinting and distance running, showed marginal improvement; this was partially contributed to the enthusiasm of many new freshmen involved with the program. Field event's ability showed improvement over past years, and middle distance events remained fairly strong.

Through a Year of Challenging Competition

Olympic Hopeful . . . Arlise Emerson

Although only seriously competing since the beginning of 1977, track enthusiast Arlise Emerson is on the go as a possible 80's Olympic contender.

Arlise's interest in running developed in 8th grade and increased when she joined the WHS Girls' Track Team three years ago. The following year she became a member of the Patriots, the Southern Pacific AAU team. In the 1977 Junior Olympics she placed third in the 400 meter run. At the Sunkist Indoor Track and Field Competition, held in Florida last summer, Arlise set the national record in the 500 yard run. The previous spring she had set the state record for the 440 yard run in the CIF State Championships.

The spring of '78 found Arlise in preparation for competition which could have qualified her for the 80's Olympics and a five-country tour of Europe that summer.

Aside from her rigorous training schedule and meets, Arlise maintained an extremely active member of WHS's student body. Presiding as class president for three years, she also held a position in the House of Lords, kept her grades high, and somehow managed a part-time job.

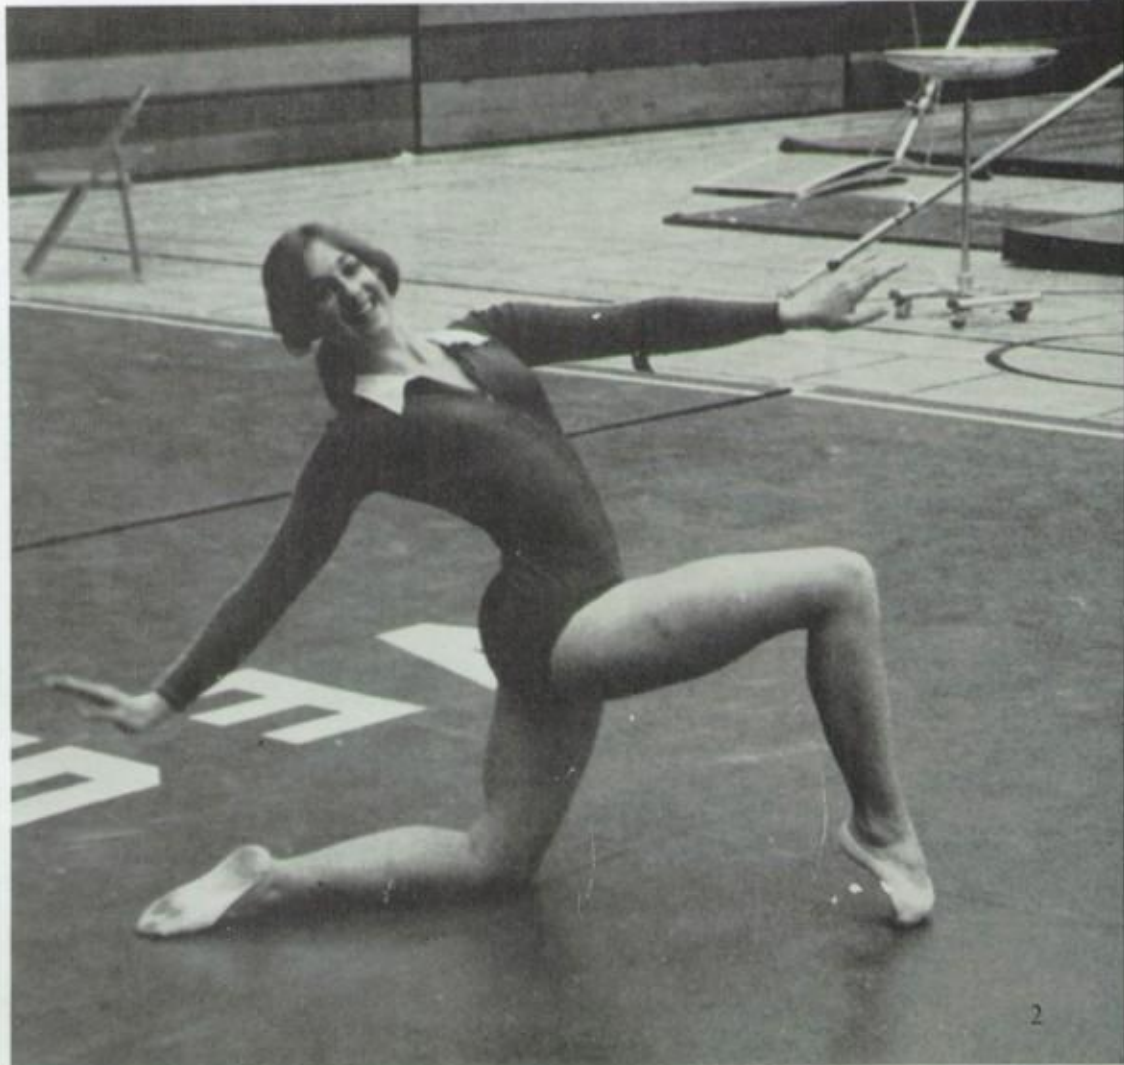

Her personal goals are optimistic and challenging. Serious thought has been given to the upcoming Olympics and the desire to attend college upon graduating next year. Ask who Arlise idolizes and she will answer without hesitation, "Wilma Rudolph." And for good reason, she and Arlise may have a lot in common in a few years.

to Form a Superb Team Effort

Girls' Gymnastics had six returning lettermen on this year's team and was led by three-time CIF qualifier, Carla Obert. Carol Dragesku and Sherleen Gout, new to the team this year, also added strength to the WHS team. Coach Liz Holey felt that her gymnasts were strong in every area except on the parallel bars; therefore that was the area on which they concentrated practice efforts.

The girls' relied on total team work as they have always done. The only real obstacle according to Coach Holey is "attitude." "The competition in the past has been so stiff that players sometimes felt defeated before they began," said Coach Holey. "But now that we're getting stronger, that's not as much of a problem as it was."

to Participate in 1978 Season

Although Badminton was a sport at WHS when the school first opened in 1959, it has only been a Sunset League sanctioned sport for four years.

Under three year coach Doris Pitcher, last year's team returned with 17 hold-overs.

So that the team would be prepared for league competition, Coach Pitcher often held practices several hours each day to allow the team to practice their strokes and game strategy.

Returning players from last year were Kim Allen, Val Barbati, Sandy Compronets, Nancy Cox, Eileen Fertig, Karen Francis, Jackie Harding, Karen Hubl, Angie McFarlane, Linda Macera, Robbi Metzler, Marie Neuschwander, Cindy Ross, Toni Tester, Elizabeth Togonon, Linda Tornello, and Lisa Williams. These players brought expertise and spirit to the '78 team and helped promote a successful badminton season.

Active Season in Water World

The Girls' Swim Team began practice for their 1978 season at the beginning of the new semester; tryouts for both the Varsity and the Junior Varsity Teams were accomplished during the month of January so that the new team could begin two-hour practice sessions in February. Team members met every day at the pool during sixth and seventh periods, rain or shine.

Returning to the Varsity Swim Team this year were Seniors Katie Agondo, and Jackie DeComa and Sophomore Joan Hurban, all of whom brought previously developed skills and determination to succeed to the '78 team. Freshman Andrea Crozier added much strength to the overall abilities of the team as a whole.

Coach Sherry Baie directed the swim team in its Sunset League practice and competition. She also inspired the girls to put extra effort into the Swimathon held in early March to raise funds for the team itself.

Strong Softball Team for '78

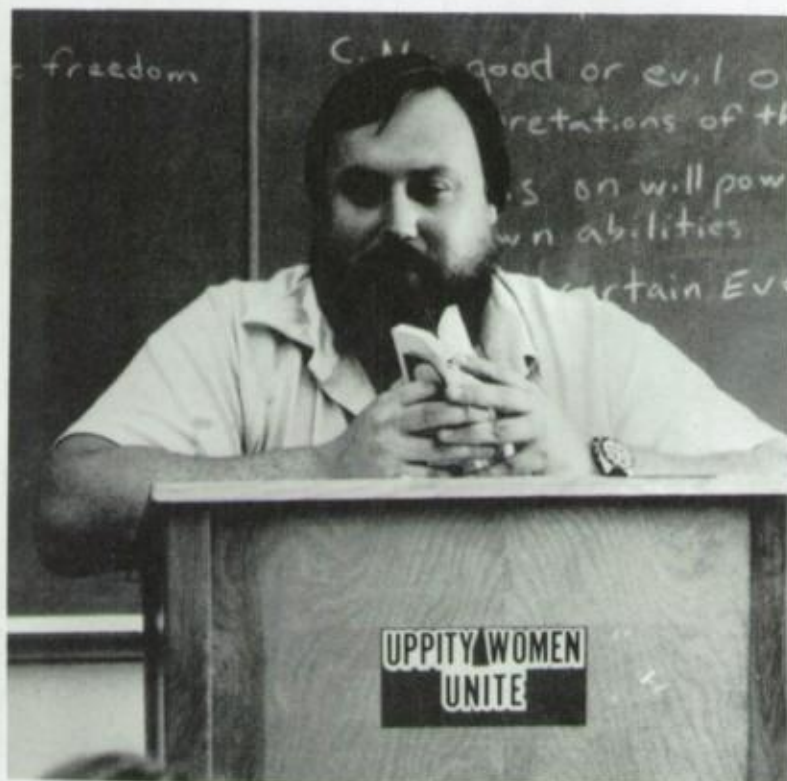

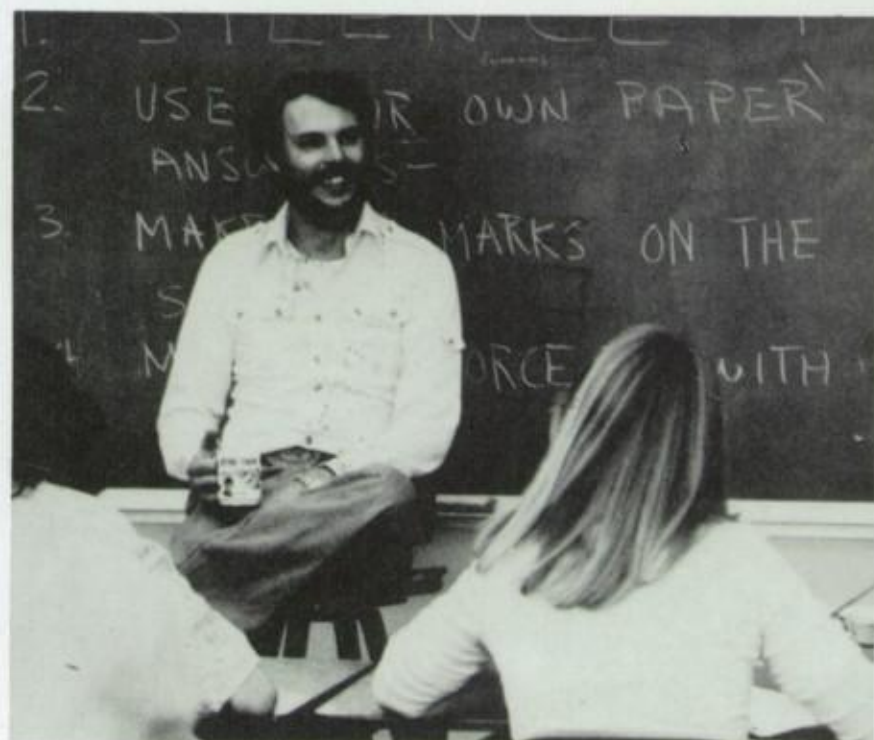

Girls' Varsity Softball has only been at Westminster High School for the last four years, but during that time Coach Penny Smith's softball squads have gone to C.I.F. more than once. Last year the team advanced all the way to the quarter finals before they finished the season.

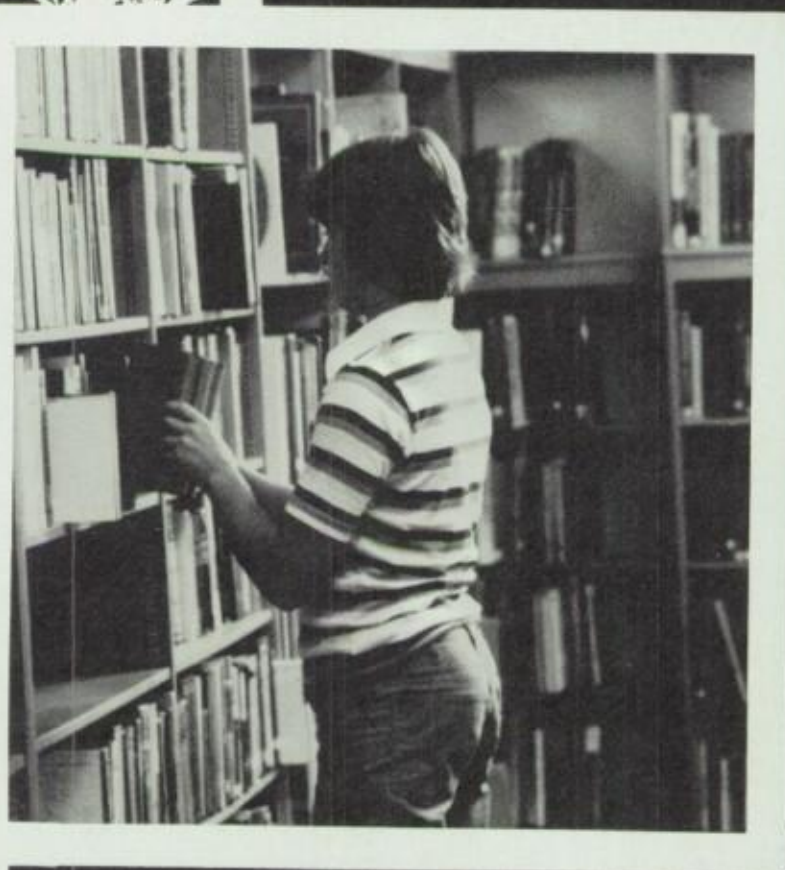

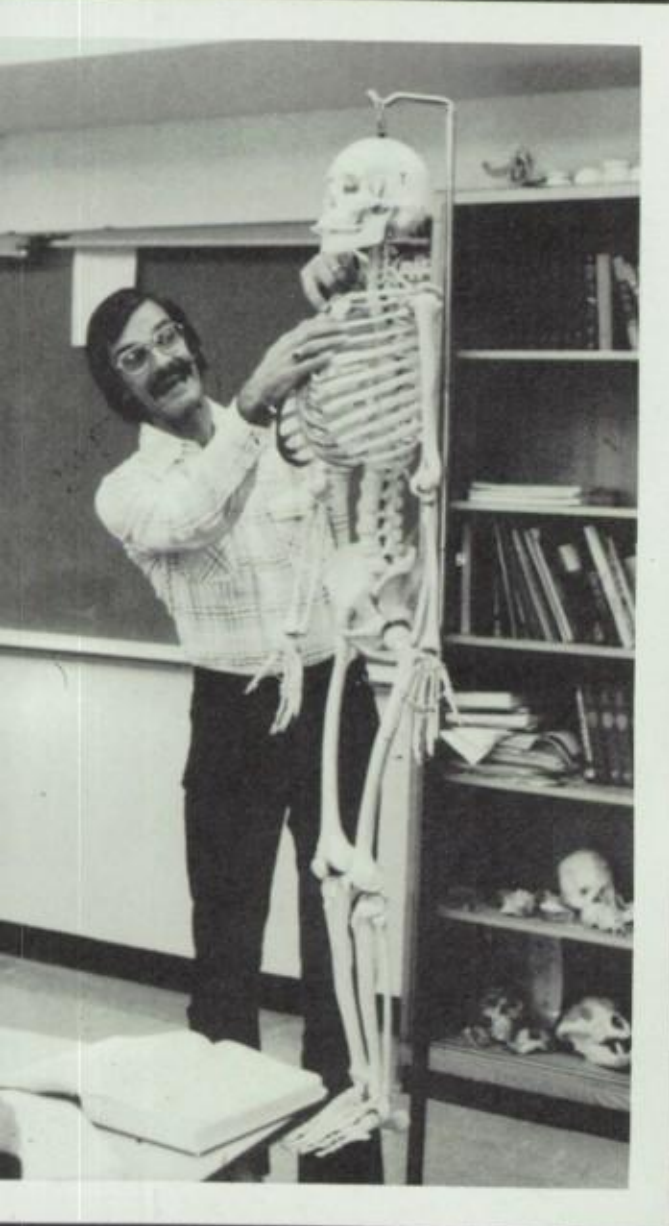

This year the 1978 team proved to be stronger and more experienced than previous groups; one obvious reason was that fourteen members of the team returned from the 1977 team. Also, the squads concentrated on improving skills and team strategies in practice sessions; the outstanding area of team strength was the pitching staff.

Varsity Softball Team members of more than one year's experience led the team to a successful season. These members were Mary Benno, Rosemary Bristen, Jerri Brock, Robin Chausse, Carole Fritsch, Cheryl Fritsch, Diane Fry, Cheryl Moyle, Tammy Pierce, Janet Quick, Patricia Rodriguez, Renee Stoltz, Veronica Vella, and Terri Williams.

LEARNING

Seniors Filled Year With Many Activities and

The Senior officers — Scott Brock, President; Chris Blum, Vice President; Dawn Toyama, Treasurer; Leslie Miller, Secretary; Jeff Puckett, ICC Representative — planned and organized this year's activities. Advisors Ken Skolyan and Richard Douglas put in many hours of their spare time to help the students with school activities. The time that was spent organizing these activities made it a truly inspiring year.

The year began for the Seniors with the Senior Luau. The luau has become quite a tradition at Westminster with the exotic Polynesian dishes, dancing, and live Polynesian entertainment.

Homecoming came next — with competition between the classes to decorate Buckingham Square. The Seniors' efforts paid off with a second place award.

The end of the football season also brought preparation for graduation with the selection of graduation announcements and plans for Baccalaureate and the Senior breakfast.

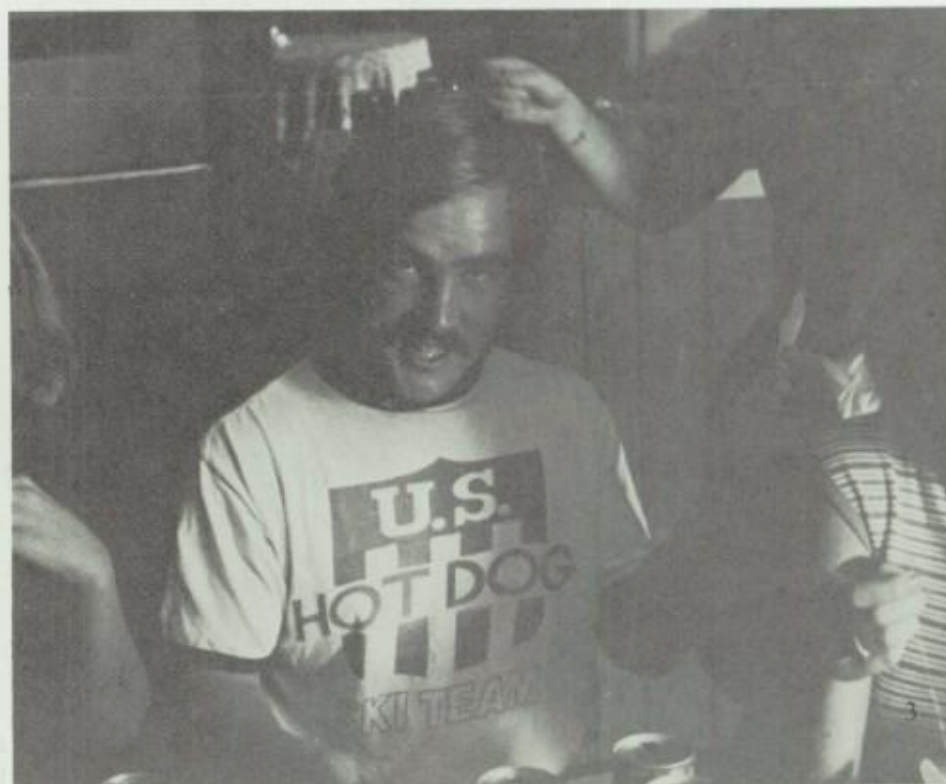

The next activity for the Seniors was the selling of Valentine grams with the Juniors. The grams were a great success as they always are and helped the class earn money for the activities they sponsored.

This year Seniors were invited to help prepare their yearbook, the 1978 Citadel. A contest was held and Seniors wrote essays on the many notable events that took place during the past year. Ten essay selections were made by the Citadel staff; each essay covers a different topic. The yearbook staff received many fine entries; unfortunately only ten could be used.

1) The Senior class with secretary, Leslie Miller discuss the plans for the Homecoming decorations. 2) Dawn Toyama, treasurer, listens intently as everyone else seems to have some other ideas about the Senior Luau. 3) Advisor, Mr. Ken Skolyan weighs the ideas of the Seniors different ways to earn money.

Senior Favorites is one of many traditions at Westminster High. Each year the Senior class chooses the eighteen people who they feel stand out in the crowd. These few people seemed to make the biggest impression on their class during the four years of high school. They range from the shyest to the biggest flirt. You didn't have to be well known to become one of the Senior favorites. Just be yourself and who knows.

Senior Commentary On Energy

by David Dunlap —

The energy situation in the world today is a very interesting, yet perplexing problem. The world's major source of energy is a fossil fuel that will eventually run dry. The problems facing us are those of conservation, developing new energy sources, and dealing with the small, as yet underdeveloped, countries that control the greatest portions of the dwindling reserve.

Energy conservation is something that we have all heard, read, and talked about. The great energy crisis that began a few years back started everyone thinking about ways to conserve. Public transit systems — including new bus routes, subway systems, and car pools — were developed. When one walked into a public structure or even into a friend's house, a noticeable temperature drop was felt. By way of radio, television, and newspapers, people were reminded to reduce the miles they drove or the amount of food that they cooked. The public generally responded in a positive and thoughtful manner, easing the immediate pinch. Conservation is still very important, and will continue to be in the future.

Another way in which people have responded is by developing new types of energy. Electricity was used more and more; but it, too, required great amounts of oil to run turbines and generators. Solar power is probably the most popular new power source. People are beginning to heat their homes in this way, along with many businesses and public buildings. There are many other possibilities: nuclear power, deriving energy from tidal action, and even harnessing the heat from the center of the earth have all been considered. The energy crisis must be dealt with. It will not go away, and we can not postpone the inevitable running out of oil for very much longer. We must develop new sources of energy that will fill all of our requirements; but, until then, we must conserve the sources being used presently, and learn to deal cooperatively with the nations that do regulate the world's flow of oil.

On Sex Roles

by Patty Slomski —

Fifteen years ago, had any woman attempted to use sex discrimination as a basis for obtaining equality with men, or had she even publicly verbalized equal rights for men and women, she would have been labeled a radical and ostracized from her hometown. Now, however, influenced by the Women's Liberation Movement, the roles of men and women have changed drastically, especially in the areas of professions and sports. Even how one designates the roles of the sexes has been revised.

Back in the early sixties, there were women working in the areas of construction, law, and fire prevention, as well as men employed in nursing and secretarial positions. However, they were probably given the additional title of "freak." A few years back we began to realize that women were being professionally oppressed by men; this resulted in more than just job freedom for women. Men received liberation from their traditional roles of "breadwinner." Nowadays, a woman's salary is a vital source of income in many households.

One area of sex discrimination that has received action is that of athletics. Title IX states that girls good enough to make a boys' team, regarding any sport, are, by law, able to participate. As a result it is now possible to see girls on tennis, volleyball, and water polo teams primarily consisting of boys.

This brings to mind the question of how to denote a particular member on a team, or the title of certain positions. The first baseman is now the first baseperson. Job titles are no longer discriminatory. One is not a chairman but a chairperson.

With all these changes, male and female roles have seemed to merge into one gender. This leaves us to ponder how long it will take before roles will be so interchanged that men and women will only be different physically.

Patty Slomski is a student in Mr. Boyles Advanced Placement English class. She plans to attend Loyola Marymount.

Senior Commentary On King Tut

by Jasmine Ecat —

It isn't Beatle-mania, but Tut-mania. Tut-mania has captured the interest of millions. The King Tut cultural exhibit came to the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. The exhibition was shown from February to June to approximately one and a half million Southern Californians. Tickets were sold out in only four days. There were incidents of ticket-scalping, but King Tut would have appreciated it, nonetheless.

The Tut craze has made an impact on our cultural interests. The ancient Egyptian civilization, as we know, was one of the first real complex civilizations dating centuries ago. Ancient Egyptian architecture, hieroglyphic inscription, and culture including the mummies, the pyramids, the Sphinx, and the stories told about the pharaohs have fascinated millions. One is fortunate to witness and observe priceless authentic treasures from the tomb of King Tut-ankh-amun.

Today there are women who wear the "Cleopatra Cut" — straight bangs and shoulder length hair. Both cheap and expensive replicas of the beautiful ancient Egyptian jewelries are worn. Much splendor is captured even in the gold copies of the authentic necklaces and bracelets worn in ancient Egypt. Such items show the influence of Tut-mania.

Jasmine Ecat is a student in Mrs. Broussard's College Composition class. She plans to attend UCI.

On Movies

by Jeff Snyder —

The interests of movie fans in 1977-78 stemmed from the violence and sex-filled movies and branched toward the sci-fi plot. Paced by the phenomenal popularity of the science-fiction movie Star Wars, the entertainment industry enjoyed a boom year in 1977 and promised more sci-fi in 1978.

The 20th Century Fox futuristic fairy tale Star Wars about the rescue of a captive princess soared to box-office success, swiftly overtaking the previous champion, Jaws. At the same time, the movie's sound track topped the list of best-selling pop singles.

Columbia Pictures was the first to leap on the science fiction bandwagon with its release in November 1977 of the big budget $18 million Close Encounters of the Third Kind, directed by Steve Spielberg, whose previous major achievement was Jaws. Walt Disney Productions plans to begin showing its $10 million Space Station One at Christmas time 1978.

In the past, movie makers could depend on violence and sex in order to make money. Examples of this are The Godfather part I and II, which were both Academy Award winners, The French Connection, another Academy Award winner, and a variety of Clint Eastwood movies including, Magnum Force and Dirty Harry. In the year 1977, movie fans proved to motion picture writers that the society is not completely violence oriented.

Jeff Snyder is a student of Mr. Poff's Advanced Placement English class. He plans to attend USC.

Senior Commentary

On Fashion, Fads

by Chuck Green —

The media's effect on the residents of Orange County and Westminster High School are both enormous and clearly evident in the dress of Westminster High's students. One needs only to spend a day at Westminster High School to realize that this statement is not only true, but an understatement at that.

Television is the first and foremost example of media influence. Colorful T-shirts are adorned with pictures of stars from television shows including "Starsky and Hutch," the various actors from "Welcome Back, Kotter," "Charlie's Angels," and stars from numerous other popular programs. Music also gets in on the packaging of clothing. Nearly every rock group's name or picture can be found on the T-shirts of students here, almost giving rise to the belief that the major intention of the student is to become a rock groupie. This packaging of clothes and the resulting packaging of people has even gone so far as to directly include the mascot of this school. "The Lions are the greatest," "Lions do it better," and "The Lions are Number One" are the various sayings that can be found stalking around the campus.

The influence of this form of advertising can even be felt inside the classroom. Vinnie Barbarino's "What?" Horshack's "Ooh, ooh, ooh," and "The Fonz's "Aaay!" can often be heard as answers to teacher's questions in various classrooms at certain times.

It is obvious that the media influences everyone in many different ways, and whether it be good or bad, it lends a little more variety and pleasure to everyone who sees and experiences it. "And dat's da name of dat tune."

Chuck Green is a student in Mr. Poff's Advanced Placement English Class. He is undecided upon where he will attend college.

On Education

by Terri Blaich

In recent years there has been increasing federal direction of public education. One facet of this has been the placing of handicapped students in regular classes. In cases such as this, as in most controversial subjects, there are advantages and disadvantages to acting on such a proposal.

Personal opinion lends belief to the fact that the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages. Handicapped students are, unfortunately, separate from other students already because of their handicaps. Placing them in special classes merely makes their differences more pronounced. When given the opportunities to engage in regular classes, the handicapped student learns to associate with others better. He is given a sense of belonging and can feel more like "one of the crowd." Besides this being an advantage to the handicapped person, the students also benefit. They gain an understanding of those less fortunate and learn to accept them as being no different than anyone else. A handicap should not affect the quality of education; and in a special class, the finer points of learning may be surpassed for knowledge in overcoming the handicap itself. A physical disability does not affect the mental capacity to learn.

Critics of the measures to place handicapped students in the regular classroom claim that a handicapped student may need more attention than the rest, and that the other students may resent any favors he receives and shun him.

However at WHS there are several students who are handicapped to some degree, and they have been able to adapt and are generally accepted as any other student. This is just one vein of proof that the handicapped student is capable of attending regular classes. There may always be some activities in which he cannot participate; but to be unable to make friends and receive the same educational standards as others is a much greater sadness.

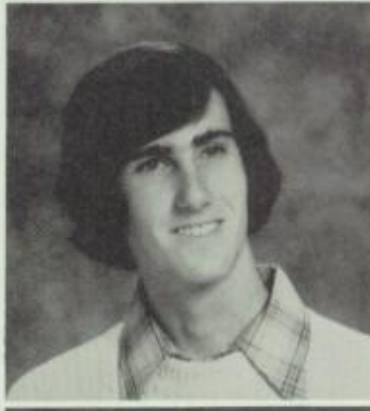

Terri Blaich is a student in Mr. Boyles Advanced Placement English class. She is undecided where she will attend college.

On Those We Miss

by Rosemary Orday —

In our era, we were fortunate to have had artistic talents such as Elvis, Groucho, and Bing. Now that they have left us, they leave cherished memories and, while life continues, people realize their importance more each day.

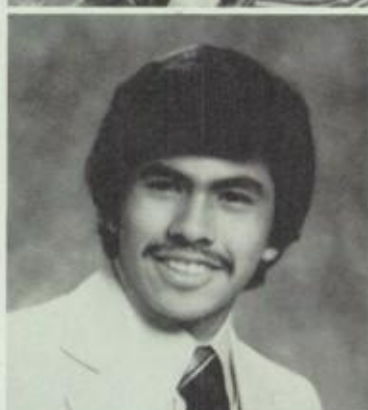

These great artistic talents have left the world a legacy of immeasurable happiness. They donated their time and money to entertain the world because it was a gift from them to the world. They made life easier by making people laugh, smile or just plain enjoy themselves. Because of their great contribution to the world, they were known as great humanitarians whom many people respected. They were not only known as great entertainers, but as great people that only came around once in a lifetime.

Life may seem empty without them, but their names and memories will live on. Not only has our generation benefitted, but future generations will benefit from the talents of these famous people.

Rosemary Orday is a student in Mrs. Broussard's College Composition class. She is undecided about which college she will attend.

On Weather

by Ken Lackey

California, the garden spot of the world with its mountains, deserts, valleys, and plateaus, was the unexpected dry spot of the United States in the past two years.

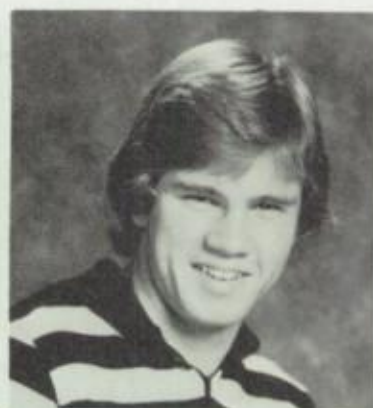

Since Southern California had been a dry desert since man first entered the areas, the people there had been prepared because they had always had to pump in water. Northern California, on the other hand, had been destined to never run short of water because of the heavy rains and deep snow pack they had had in the past. But in the past two years California's nightmares had become realities: the snow pack at seven thousand feet was down to only one foot in 1977.

In Marin County, California's hardest hit county, water rationing was started first. The residents were only allowed to use a certain amount of water and only at certain times. At that point voluntary water rationing was introduced all over the state, which at first almost crippled the state.

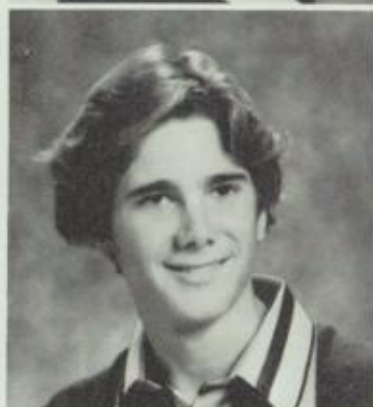

In late 1977, the first storm came in and was no cause for rejoicing, merely moistening the ground a little. More and more storms started pouring in, but state officials kept to their posts saying, "The drought is not over." Then, as the new year turned, two more storms capped off the rash of storms and the drought was declared over. All restrictions were lifted from Marin County and the rest of the state soon followed suit.

Experts say this may just be another year in the middle of an extended drought; but, for California's sake, it is hoped they're wrong.

Ken Lackey is a student in Mrs. Broussard's College Composition class. He is undecided about which college he will attend.

Senior Commentary

On the Media

by Melinda McGrew —

So much has happened so fast this year that everyone owes the media another close review of its movies, television shows, and records.

Perhaps the most promoted industry is movies. Some of the highlights of the year include Close Encounters of the Third Kind, a science fiction movie about UFO's; Goodbye Girl, a dancer past her prime and an actor get together; "Saturday Night Fever," a disco-theme movie and what happens after the dance is over; Oh, God, a look at God wearing clothes, played by George Burns; and the longest-running, biggest money maker Star Wars, from a galaxy far away with robots and star ships.

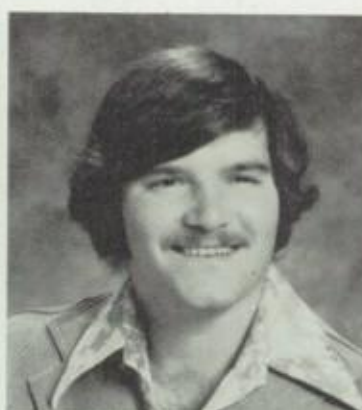

As for music, the record industry made over $500 million dollars during the holiday season alone. Leading albums were Rumors, the classic of Fleetwood Mac; Born Late, by Shaun Cassidy for the bubblegum set; Footloose and Fancy Free by Rod Stewart featuring some of his best song writing; Down Two, Then Left, Boz Skaggs' follow-up album to Silk Degrees; News of the World; Queen's latest rocker; Linda Ronstadt's Simple Dreams. A different kind of album — comedy — was very popular this year, Steve Martin's Let's Get Small.

Hit singles that were really big and received a lot of airplay were Steve Miller's "Swingtown," Debbie Boone's "You Light Up My Life," Fleetwood Mac's "You Can Go Your Own Way," and Queen's "We Will Rock You/We are the Champions."

The most popular of television shows during the past year were "Mash," an all time favorite; "Maude"; "Three's Company," a new sit-com; "Rhoda"; "All in the Family"; "Happy Days"; "Eight is Enough"; "One Day at a Time"; "Family"; "Starsky and Hutch;" and "Carol Burnett."

Early afternoon still found some seniors glued to the screen watching the "soaps." The all time favorites still seemed to be "All My Children," then there's "Ryan's Hope," "One Life to Live," "General Hospital," and "As the World Turns."

Melinda McGrew is a student in Mrs. Broussard's College Composition class. She plans to attend Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

Senior Commentary On Being a Senior

by Kelly Koppe —

Our Senior year was not what we had imagined it would be when we were freshmen. The anticipated freedom was not as absolute as we had hoped. Our responsibilities had compiled rather than diminished. The life which we had expected to be carefree, even reckless, was overwhelmingly full of restrictions.

As freshmen, we held an idealistic view of our last year in high school. We naively and somewhat selfishly assumed that anything we desired would be ours for the taking: admittance into the "elite society" of seniors, a luxurious car to further our status, and surely classes would be considerably easier to pass! In our dreams, we innocently believed that our "steady" would become our life-long mate, romantically living happily ever after. Those who were college bound took for granted that their chosen school would naturally accept their applications. In other words, we thought like the children we still were: shallowly and never in depth.

Three years later, as seniors, we learned through painful experience that reality is far different from our fantasies. We couldn't afford that car we wanted: gas, its price steadily increasing, and the insurance cost too much without obtaining a part-time job. Thus, we sacrificed a large portion of our social life and our study hours for a symbol. We learned however, that nothing was free.

The period beginning in our freshman year and lasting through our senior year was a time of growing and maturing. We began to question the morals and ethics of our elders and tentatively start to form and develop our own. It was a confusing time of contradictory beliefs; it was a time of terrible insecurity in ourselves — wanting to hold back the clock and remain in high school just a little longer.

Kelly Koppe is a student in Mr. Poff's Advanced Placement English class. She plans to attend Long Beach State University.

Juniors Set New Record in Spirit

"Spirited, responsible, and wonderfully involved in campus life," are the descriptive terms used by Ms. Kathy Iverson, Junior Class advisor, to characterize the members of the Class of '79. Juniors participated in all campus activities and offered spirited leadership in academic as well as social school functions.

During the Homecoming Class Competition, the Junior Class outdid all other entries with their interpretation of "The Queen's Jubilee." Class artists created a three-dimensional double-decker bus, a tribute to Big Ben, and a life-size portrait of Queen Elizabeth, flanked by pictures of previous Homecoming Queens. The display captured the essence of Westminster's Homecoming celebrations and earned the Juniors top place honors.

Throughout the year members of the Class of '79 undertook a variety of money-making activities to pay for their class banquet, which honored outstanding classmates, and for the Junior-Senior Prom. Besides selling candy, Christmas grams, flowers, Snoopies, and lions, the class joined the Seniors in a February Valentine sale.

Officers for the year were Arlise Emerson, president; Lori Price, vice president; Mandie Newhouse, secretary; Lori Heise, treasurer; Susan McGlinchey, representative; and Leslie Cye and Lisa Stephens, Commissioners to the House of Lords. These class leaders worked many long, hard hours planning activities and making arrangements for class functions. These leaders also incorporated a format for assisting class members as they began to make career and educational plans.

P. 239. 1) Officers, presented clockwise, are Arlise Emerson, Lori Price, Mandie Newhouse, and Susan McGlinchey. This smiling foursome devote much time and energy to Junior Class activities.

Sophomores Found New Interests

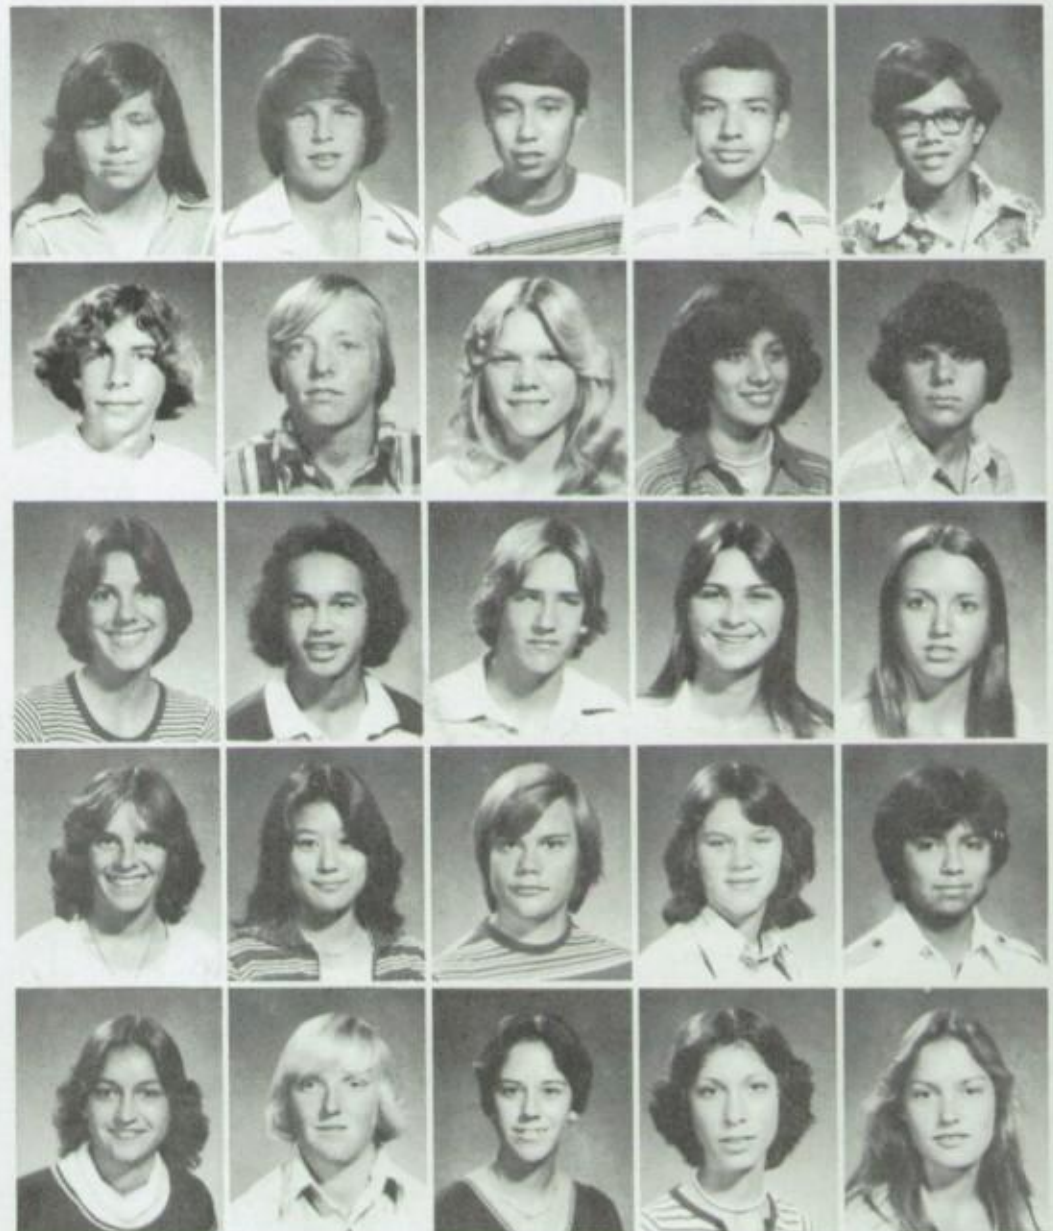

Effort and enthusiasm marked the contributions of the Class of '80 to the school program this year. The class continued to discuss serious concerns at their regular meetings: the Sophomores presented suggestions for improving the food sold in the school cafeteria and assisted Westminster High's campaign to retain the Clean Campus trophy.

In early November the class sponsored the annual costume dance, the Peasants' Prom. Members of the class worked many hours in arranging the location, the decorations, and the prizes for the event. Advisor, Ms. Cheryl Hillis, and Sophomore Class officers Abel Ceballos, president; Jerri Brock, vice-president; June Togonon, secretary; Terri Sianez, treasurer; Tracy Chess and Brian Walker, commissioners to the House of Lords; and Kathy Morton, representative, directed the planning for the Peasants' Prom with the same spirit they maintained throughout the year.

Also in the fall, the Class of '80 put on a sock hop following the Fountain Valley game. Students who had purchased Super Leo cards attended free — which helped to encourage student support of the activities program, one of the sophomores' goals.

Throughout the year, the class continued to attend school events and to participate in school decisions and functions. In January the class undertook a candy sale; later, class pins and t-shirts were sold. The sophomores planned a dance marathon for the end of the school year. In all respects, in their participation and in their excellence, the Sophomore Class discovered themselves as they contributed to campus life at Westminster High School.

Class of '81 Arrived Prepared for

They arrived on campus at Westminster High School a bit confused, a bit scared; but they soon learned their way around and how to get involved in Lion activities. The Class of '81 participated in Homecoming decoration competition, in sponsoring sock hops, in money-raising sales, and in school government. In early Fall the Freshman Class put on the annual Cheerio Dance to welcome all students back to school.

Freshmen participated in several new study programs on campus. They helped initiate a new teacher-advisor program in which various staff members explained graduation requirements, school offerings, and where students should seek further counseling; extended homeroom periods provided extra time for teacher-advisors to work with the Freshmen.

Students elected officers who were able to provide leadership for class activities: Shannon Frederick served as president, Kim Frederick as vice president. The secretary was Lisa Halterman; the treasurer was Julie Morales. Gail Testa was class representative; Lizz Allison and Kris McCallister were Commissioners to the House of Lords.

P. 274, 1) Shannon Frederick, Kim Frederick, Julie Morales, Lisa Halterman, and Gail Testa, hard-working Freshman officers. smile for a Citadel photographer.

Rollins Selected to Replace Kolanoski

Every year brings changes in the activities and functioning of a school. 1977-78 was no different for Westminster High School, the "home of champions and scholars."

In October, Vice Principal in charge of Curriculum, Mr. William B. Rollins, was selected to serve as principal. Mr. Rollins, who had worked at WHS for four years, was formerly an Assistant Principal at HBHS, and, prior to that, Vice Principal at Compton Senior High School. Mr. Rollins, pleased with his appointment, stated that he looked forward to the challenges of his new position and that he intended to keep all avenues for discussion open between himself, the student body, and the staffs of WHS.

A celebration for both Mr. Rollins and out-going principal, Mr. Thomas Kolanoski, was presented by certificated and classified staff members. Both men shared another Lion Victory — cake — this time in honor of themselves. Kolanoski, like Rollins, had received a promotion; he now works in the school district offices as Director of Curriculum.

1) A hectic schedule still leaves Mr. Rollins time to chat with a student and members of the staff. 2) Mr. Thomas Kolanoski, former WHS principal, is now Director of Curriculum at the District Office. 3) Mr. Rollins offers a friendly handshake to Mr. Kolanoski as he prepares to take over as principal at WHS.

As Principal of "Home of Scholars and Champions"

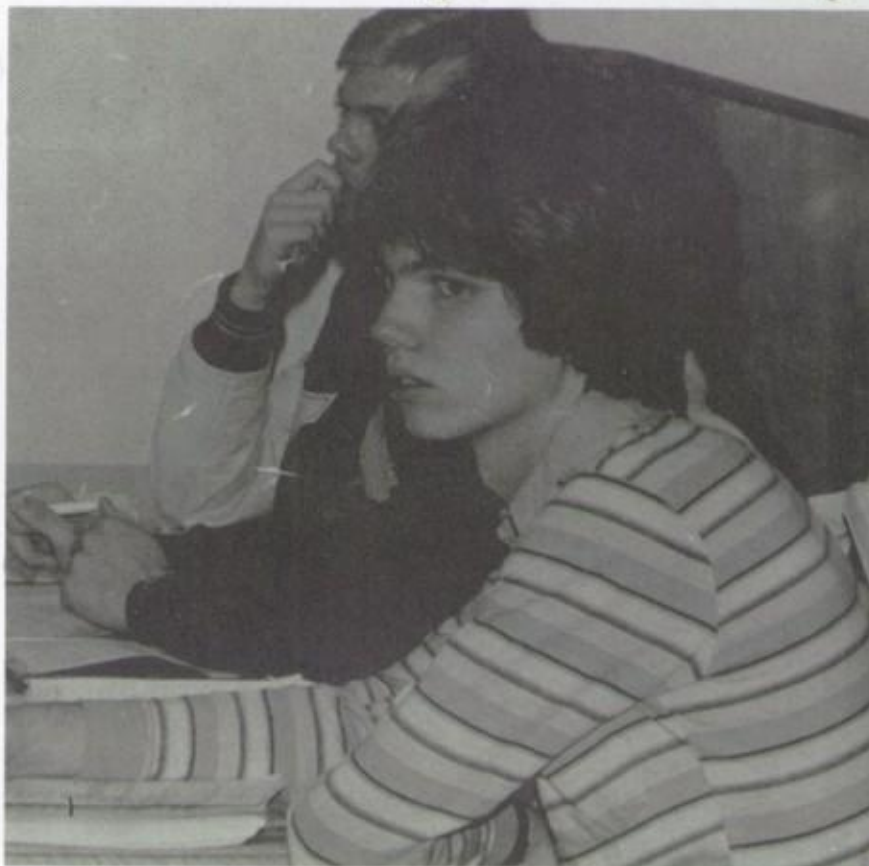

1) Mr. Rollins takes a short break from his paper work in a rare moment when his phone is not ringing. 2) Mr. William Rollins, new principal at WHS. 3) A history student finds it interesting to talk to Mr. Rollins. 4) The WHS teaching and classified staffs joined to wish both Rollins and Kolanoski success in their respective new positions. A "lion" cake helped everyone celebrate the promotions.

Trustees and Students Worked Cooperatively

The Huntington Beach Union High School District Board of Trustees met every second and fourth Tuesday this past year, usually at the District Education Office. They occasionally held sessions at the various schools within the district.

Presently there are five trustees in the district. Each year the trustees are appointed to a specific job. This year Don Mac Allister served as president; Zita I. Wessa was appointed Vice-President. Acting as Clerk was Doris Allen. John K. Hundley was the Alternate Clerk, and Helen E. Dittes was a member. Deanna Mitchell was a student member.

Greg Halterman, Minister of Foreign Affairs at WHS, attended every school board meeting and reported anything which concerned the school to the House of Lords, so that action could be taken when necessary. Greg reported such things as graduation announcements and P.E. exemptions for seniors. The second part of Greg's responsibilities was to report news from the Lion campus to the board.

P. 296. 1) Greg Halterman, student liaison to the HBUHSD Board of Trustees, ponders an issue being debated by members of the Board. 2) Members of the board listen attentively to a member of the community. 3) Teachers, students and community attend Board of Education meetings to keep informed and to offer their views on issues under consideration. 4) Superintendent, Abbott clarifies a school district policy for the Board.

Assistant Principals Shared Campus Responsibilities

Mr. William Baca

Dr. Halbert Christensen

Mr. Heraldo Gubernick

Mr. Leo Iverson

As Assistant Principal in charge of Educational Services, Mrs. Michele Lawrence was responsible for the various duties related to the teachers on campus. These duties included hiring teachers, deciding which classes each teacher would instruct, and the number of students per teacher. In addition to her responsibilities to the full-time teachers, the AP in charge of Educational Services employs substitute teachers, aides, and tutors. Although personnel in itself is a full-time task, Mrs. Lawrence also planned curriculum, and kept courses in compliance with new state and federal laws affecting education.

Mrs. Lawrence came to WHS in October from Norwalk/La Mirada School District, where she served as assistant Principal in charge of Pupil Personnel Services for over two years.

Mr. Leo Iverson, AP in charge of Business and Community Services, saw to it that the school buses ran on time and that students received passes to ride on them, that school rooms were kept comfortable and clean, and that the school grounds were maintained in proper condition.

The duties of the Asst. Principal for Pupil Personnel Services were competently handled by Dr. Hal Christensen. His tasks included scheduling classes for 4000 students, supervising student registration twice each year, and directing all the counseling activities for WHS students. This year, the new Teacher Advisor program added one more task to Dr. Christensen's duties.

Mr. William Baca, Asst. Principal in charge of Student and Community Services, handled student discipline problems on the WHS campus in this manner, "I always called everyone involved together — students and parents — and counseled them until the problem was resolved. Because of this method of supervision our problems were kept to a minimum."

Baca emphasized that student behaviour was not his only responsibility. "I also served as overseer of student activities, and was in charge of athletics, security on campus, the parking lots, and teacher evaluations."

Mr. Hal Gubernick, AP in charge of the Title VII program, managed the establishment of goals, scheduling of classes, and the application for federal funds for Title VII. Mr. Gubernick also helped select teachers, tutors, and aides to work in the bi-lingual, bi-cultural program offered at WHS.

1) The new assistant principal, Mrs. Lawrence, talked over some important business on the phone, while offering a pretty smile to the photographer. 2) Mr. Baca discussed some of the problems on campus with Mr. Carpenter.

Counselors Were Available Year Round

Like many teachers, counselors were available year round for personal guidance. A student could ask for counseling help at almost anytime during school hours, as long as an appointment had been requested first.

The counselors also helped students select the classes that would enable them to earn enough credits to graduate and, in addition, to be accepted by the college, junior college, or training school which he or she will want to enter after high school.

The busiest time of the year for the counselors was registration when they made changes in students' programs and time schedules. Counselors not only helped students with school problems, but also helped them with family and other problems that occurred in their daily lives.

The counselors at WHS this year were Mr. Ken McCluskey and Ms. Rosemarie Whitworth who were in charge of some Freshman and some Sophomores; Ms. Judy Martasin who was in charge of the rest of the Sophomores; Mr. Arnold Alvarez and Ms. Jeannine Lucas who were each in charge of half of the Juniors; Mrs. Dorothy Crutcher and Miss Bertha Tostado who were each in charge of one quarter of the Juniors and half of the Seniors, and Dr. Ruth Bachlor and Mr. Emery Fillmore who were in charge of the Title I students.

Mr. Arnold Alvarez

Dr. Ruth M. Bachlor

Mr. Bill Blankinship

Mrs. Dorothy Crutcher

Mr. Emery Fillmore

Ms. Judy Martasin

Mr. Ken McCluskey

Ms. Bertha Tostado

1) Mrs. Martasin works busily on student programs for the benefit of her students. 2) A hectic work schedule still leaves Mr. Alvarez time for a friendly chat.

Clerical Staff

Clerical Staff Was Indispensable Throughout the Year

Behind every great principal is a great secretary, and Jean Cohen, secretary to Mr. Rollins, received the award to prove this statement. Mrs. Cohen was given Orange County's Secretary of the Year Award for 1977. Pat Carroway, Ms. Lawrence's secretary, retired this year after twelve years of service. Mrs. Carroway, who summed up her career at WHS in one word, "Great," will be decidedly missed.

Marlys Grodt, Community Resources Aide for the school, acted as the "principal's right hand" into the community. Mrs. Grodt kept the community informed of the school's activities, and she kept the school informed of the community's needs and wishes. This year Ms. Grodt developed a line of regular communication with the parents of WHS students through a regular printed newsletter.

1) Front Row — Addie Collier, Margaret Frey, Jeannette Masson, Mary Carpenter. Back Row — Margaret Cudmore, Evelyn Orper, Truce Kuyper, Jean VonSprecken, Kathy Madue, Bea Nickerson. 2) Bea Nickerson checks students files for a counselor. 3) Pat Carroway and Jean Cohen check a budget item. 4) Pictures of school activities were selected by Ms. Marlys Grodt, WHS Community Resources Aid, to accompany articles sent to local newspapers.

Agriculture Classes Taught Saleable Skills

"In the Agriculture Department, we try to expose young people to saleable skills, leadership, and cooperation," states Mr. Ramos, the coordinator of the Agriculture Department. "We make an effort to recognize the individual on a continual daily basis which helps the students understand others, himself, and the person he learns from."

This year the Parks/Recreation Development class, which teaches students how to develop and maintain park areas, was improved with the purchase of land cut equipment. The animal science program expanded to 43 hog projects, as well as the study of chickens, bees, and cattle. The FFA donated a full-blooded Arab gelding and a quarterhorse filly to the program. They were sold to pay for a new livestock trailer.

More students took agriculture classes than ever before, and parents cooperated in the student-teacher-parent relationship.

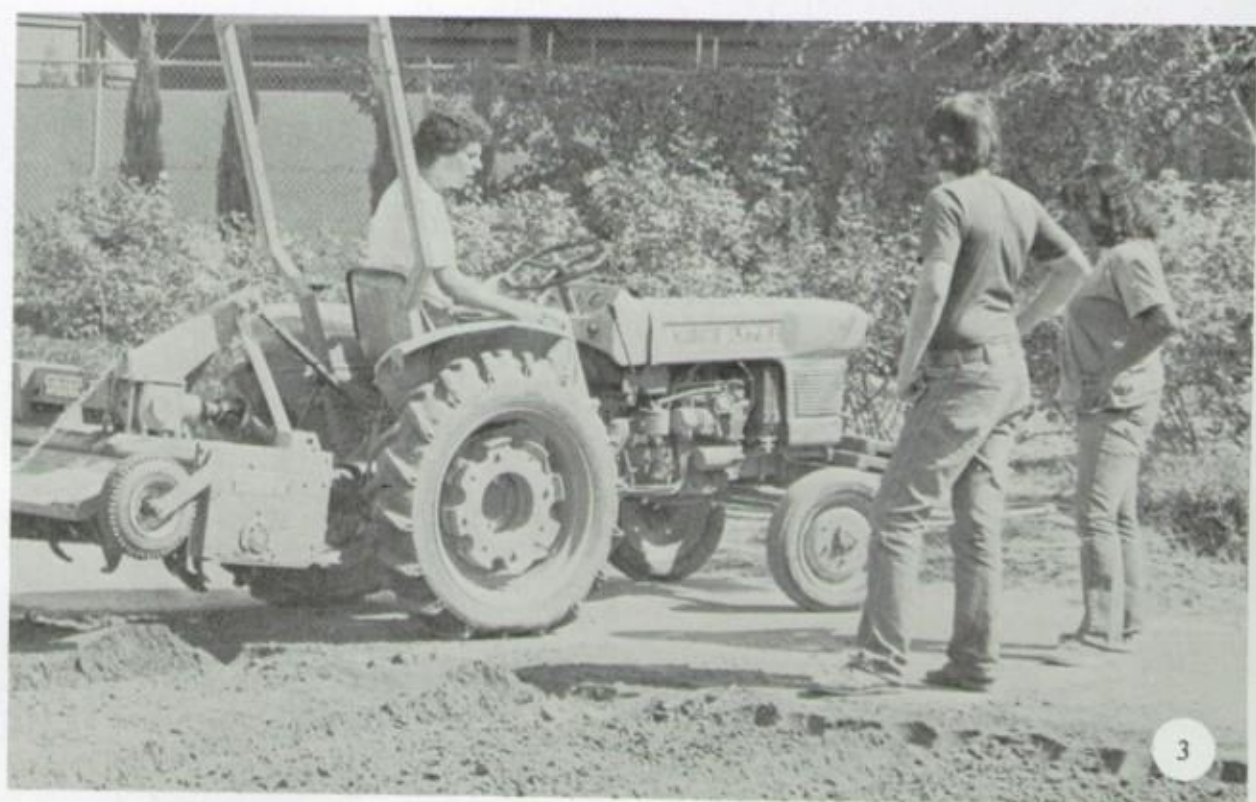

The year's special activities started when the FFA sponsored a barn dance, and pumpkin sale. These activities proved the Halloween spirit of the Agriculture Department.

Westminster's FFA branch placed 4th out of 49 schools in the Annual Judging Field Day. In this contest, agriculture students estimated acreage, and identified different types of plants and herbs. Ribbons and points were awarded to the best judges.

There were many sales this year. The most profitable of them all was the Christmas wreath sale. "Just before Christmas, the Hayride Trailer went through the community of Westminster canting Christmas caroling agriculture students," said Mr. Ramos.

Mr. Charles Ramos

1) Mr. Dardenelle places an order for fertilizer. 2) Mr. Ramos instructs students as the proper way to "plant" wood in railroad ties. 3) Agricultural students direct tractor driver while he tills the soil for future cultivation.

Art Classes Exhibited Works At Several Shows

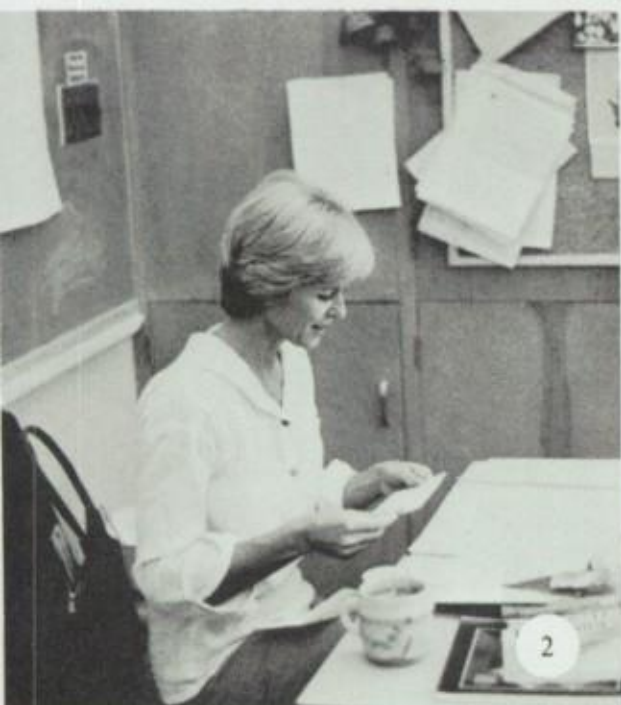

"Art serves many purposes at Westminster High. The main goals are to enrich the participants with an understanding of art, an appreciation of different media, and a comprehension of their own potential. Few students take art as just an elective. Most of our excelling students major in the area of their talent," concluded Mr. Jack Agcaoili, Art Department coordinator.

During the year the Art Department had two very succesful shows. The largest was held at Cypress College over the Christmas holidays; a smaller exhibit was held during spring vacation at the Laguna Museum of Art.

Teachers in the Art Department again revised the curriculum to accommodate changes in student interests; the result was that more students were turned on to the variety of classes offered. Some students managed to take as many as three art classes at once. In addition enrollment rose in the Independent Studies class, a special program which provided advanced students a self directed course in drawing, painting, or ceramics.

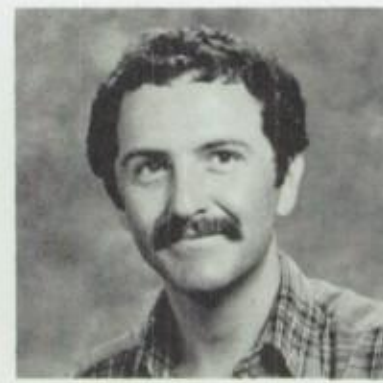

"Art is the subject in which students learn to, understand themselves as well as others," Mr. Agcaoili concluded.

Ms. Danna Beutler

Ms. Carlene Edwards

Mr. Donald Tiscareno

1, 2) Department coordinator Mr. Agcaoili and Mrs. Beutler look over lesson plans for the day. 3) Art becomes a joy for some WHS students.

Crossculture Goals Developed

The overall goal in the Title VII program is the production of citizens who will be equally fluent and productive in more than one language and in more than one culture. Students are provided instruction in two languages, one of which is English, to allow a student to learn in the language that feels most comfortable or the language which is more frequently used in the home.

The department not only develops proper English skills but encourages pride in the students' native language, history, and culture of students in and out of the program.

The program is open to any student who desires to receive instruction in Spanish and English for the purpose of becoming bilingual (speaking two languages) and bicultural (functional in two cultures). Students take only 2 or 3 bilingual classes so that they may also have the experience of classes which are outside the program.

Students are encouraged to see themselves as a product of history. They are guided in developing skills in decision-making which will affect their future roles as citizens.

Mr. Joe Espinosa

Mr. Paul Kollar

Mr. Rene Moreno

Ms. Judy Shelton

1) Title VII Manager, Mr. Gubernick, types up a project report. 2) Students in Mr. Kollar's class work busily in spite of the camera.

Business Courses Opened Door to The Future

"Nearly 100% of all four-year business grads get jobs somewhere in the business field," states Ms. Virginia Moore, department coordinator. With this promise of almost guaranteed employment, Westminster High School's Business Department again attracted a number of students who continued through the four-year course.

New courses in the department included Data Processing, which was offered after a year's absence, and an individualized typing program. Participating students in this unique typing class received assignments from teachers and other staff members who had work to be typed. The program gave typing students practice, and it provided assistance for others as well.

Many other courses offered by the Business Department are also popular for the background and training they provide.

Writing Skills Emphasized by

For the second year in a row the WHS English Department placed strong emphasis on teaching writing skills at ninth, tenth, and eleventh grade levels. This fall a new ESEA, Title IV-C program funded a ninth-grade writing lab and the department again provided a tenth grade lab for composition improvement. "In the future students will have to pass competency tests in order to graduate," reported Joe Giordano, department coordinator. "To achieve high writing competency scores for our students, the English Department must require regular and frequent writing experiences in all classes-and that's just what we're doing."

Besides offering composition classes at all grade levels, the English Department provided an Introduction to Literature course for freshmen, American Literature for juniors and opportunities to take a variety of elective classes including Drama, Women in Literature, Journalism, Sports in Literature, Reading for Enjoyment, the Short Story, Newspaper, and Yearbook. One hope of the department, according to Mr. Giordano, is that in the future more elective classes will again be offered. "The English teachers here believe students' needs for developing language fluency are awakened when the student is able to read and study in areas of current interest to him or her."

New French Class Expanded Curriculum

Sprechen Sie Deutsch? Parlez-vous francais? Habla Español? Loqueris Latine? These were the questions the foreign language students asked each other all year.

Students found a new conversational French class added to the four "powerhouse" four-year language courses: German, Latin, Spanish, and French. The courses were rounded out by the spirited continuation of five language clubs.

The number of students who took foreign language was augmented by several students who have studied more than one language. "Last year's Royal Banquet winner had 10½ years of accumulated language study," commented Mrs. Barbara Dorman, who has been department coordinator since the school opened in 1959. "We have several students again this year who have earned six to ten years of language credits."

This year the department offered a new class named "Facts, Fads, and Frauds." It was a combination of a Social Studies and a Business Consumer class. The class taught students how to avoid being "ripped off" by the seller, a fact which made the class very popular.

Many students at Westminster who took Home Economics classes were inspired to continue with these studies at the college level. Ms. Hysen believes that Home Economics is a field many students enjoy because "There are always different things coming up all the time. It's never the same subject matter, and the classes are activity oriented."

Industrial Arts Classes Provided Practical

Industrial Arts is not really an art class. "It's a combination of the educational and the vocational teaching of industrialism," claims Ken Payzant, department coordinator for Industrial Arts. "The Industrial Arts Department provides opportunity for the student to explore various occupations in order to receive the necessary vocational skills to enter trade or industry."

Industrial Arts classes offered at WHS were taught by instructors in the department who made an effort to train all students to excel in the field of machinery. "Industrial Arts classes are not confining; the students get to do something they like," states Mr. Payzant.

The results of such courses are very positive. Many ex-students who are WHS graduates work in local machine shops and in the field of graphic arts.

New Teaching Methods Used by Math Department

WHS' Math Department made a drastic change this year by eliminating the Basic Algebra textbooks in most classes. "We found students related better to algebraic concepts if we introduced them through games, work sheets, and multi-media materials," said Mr. Neal Landrum, department coordinator.

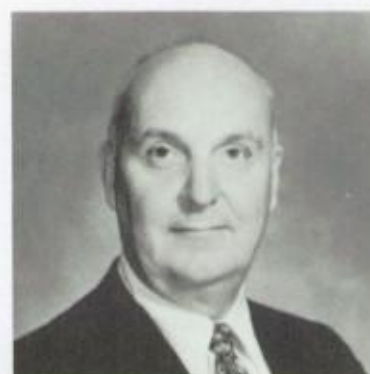

Students were offered a variety of math classes. Beginners selected either Basic Algebra or Algebra I depending on their previous math experience. Upon completion of one of these two "beginner" courses, math students were encouraged to take either Geometry or to take a second level of Basic Algebra. The students who have mastered these math courses were permitted to enroll in the highly advanced classes of Math Analysis and Calculus.

Performing Arts Was Outstanding in All Areas

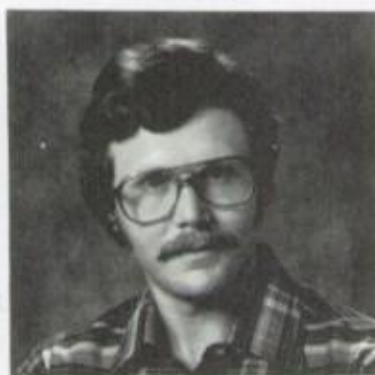

The Performing Arts Department was very busy this year. In the area of instrumental music, Mr. Lewis and Mr. Woesner arranged music and field patterns for the band, pageantry, and drill team. The combination of these three performing groups was most successful. The Marching Band brought home the most awards in their history, including two music awards, one band sweepstakes, and a marching/manuevering award.

The Pageantry Corps also placed several times. Most importantly, they took a first place in the West Covina Field Show. The award helped the unit win the overall sweepstakes which topped their year off. They also performed at Disneyland and in the Huntington Park Lane Parade which was televised.

With the addition of Mr. Joe Kral, vocal music director, the Choraleers and other groups had a busy year also. The Choraleers performed at many schools and, during December, presented a Christmas concert at a near-by church. Some of the other popular singing groups at WHS were Concert Choir, Glee 1, and Glee 2, and the Lancer Choir.

In class, students learned scales, pronunciation, and other special techniques to make sound perfect. They sing many types of songs ranging from contemporary to rock.

Together, both sections of the Performing Arts Department had a very successful year and, at the same time, gave people much enjoyment as they performed.

Ms. Janice Laine

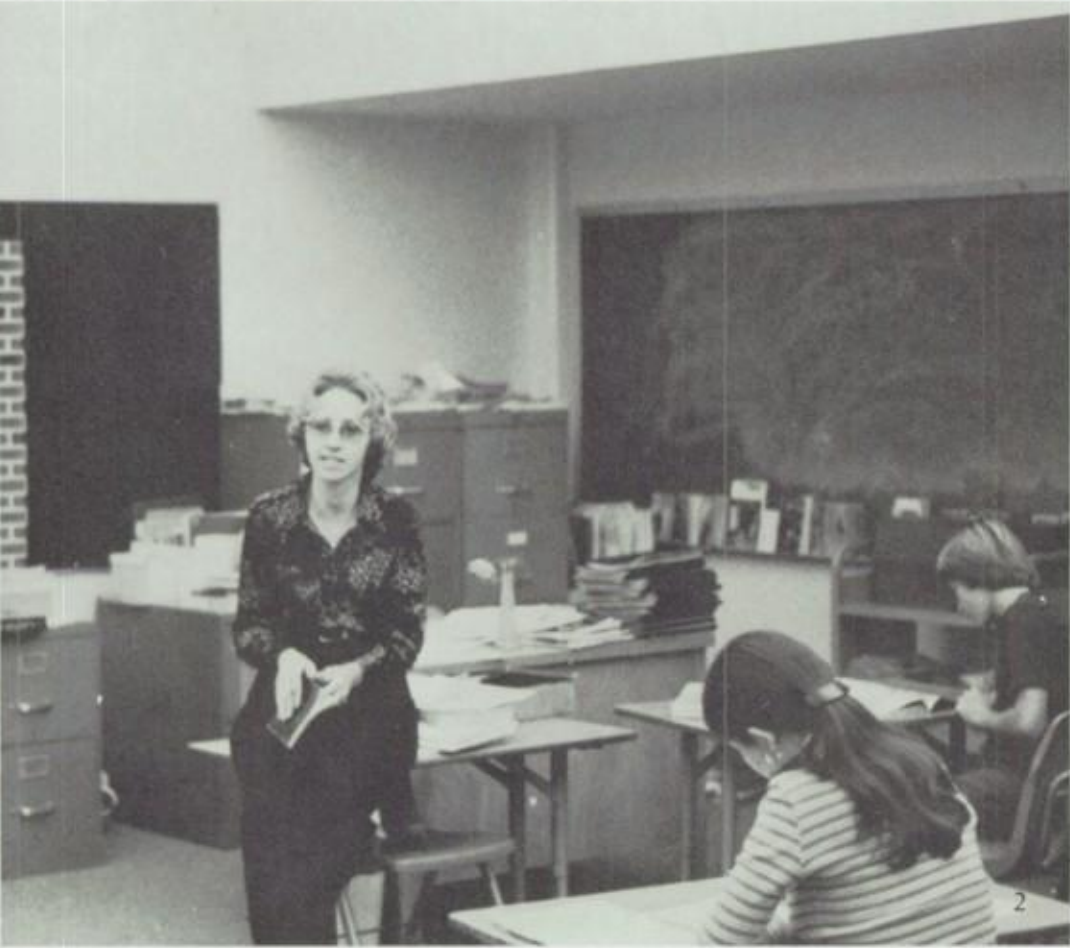

Ms. Pat Segars

What do "Kojak," "Rockford," and "Nancy Drew" have in common? All are scripts from television shows which were used by Ms. Jan Laine in the new "Reading and Media" class. The new class was designed for its high interest content to help students sharpen their vocabulary and comprehension skills.

Also new in the Reading Department was a shift in emphasis. The department focused on improving skills that were mandated by the new State Proficiency Tests. The Reading Department worked everyday survival reading skills into its curriculum so that students would be sure to pass the tests now required by the HBUHSD for graduation.

The reading classes were taught primarily through individualized instruction, but students also worked in small groups and in total group activities. The Reading Department stresses that in reading classes students work with material from all subjects. "Ours is a total program. Not only do we help students improve their reading skills, but we also help them in all facets of their lives," said Ms. Segars, department coordinator.

Co-Ed Classes: A Challenge

After a year of experience with a totally co-educational physical education program, many of the coaches and students at Westminster had opinions to express about the new program. "Co-ed physical education is in a state of reform," says PE coordinator Don Davis. "The mixing of boys and girls in some sports is good at times; at other times it's awkward."

Davis was talking about the physical education program now in full swing at Westminster High, which was instituted to comply with Title IX regulations on public education.

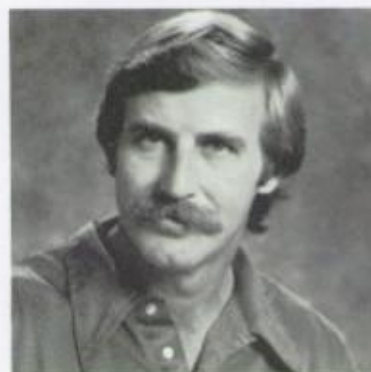

Liz Holey, another WHS PE teacher who totally supported the idea of mixed classes, stated that at times it was indeed difficult to challenge girls and boys at their own skills levels in combined classes. She cited the high jump as an example of the problem. "When the bar was at the right height for boys, it was too high for the girls. The girls ended up sitting on the sidelines. However, Ms. Holey felt the concept of the program had more positive factors than negative ones.

for Both Student and Teachers

Mr. Howard Isom

Mr. David Kurrle

Mr. Frank Munoz

Mr. Fred Marquez

Other teachers echoed Holey's feelings about keeping the class challenging. Doris Pitcher, on the whole, enjoyed the co-ed program. She felt that students should be allowed to select the classes they wanted, not be forced into a co-ed class.

As a group, the Lion Coaches all expressed a dislike for the size of the classes. Last year, the teacher-student ratio was 35-1. This year, with the shift in coaching-teaching responsibilities, the ratio ballooned to 55-1. In classes where limited facilities are available, for instance, tennis courts, and badminton, this increased class size meant that some students had to wait for an opportunity to play.

Students, like their teachers, found positive and negative aspects in the new program. Many Sophomores, used to separate PE classes for girls and boys, were upset to find mixed courses at the high school level. Some girls, in all grade levels, did not want to take courses traditionally considered "boys' sports." Still other students felt the new program exposed them to more opportunities.

- 1) Coach Penny Smith looked over her lengthy roster in preparation for her next class. 2) Coach Carol Eseman took a short break from her coaching chores between tennis sets. 3) Students carefully followed Coach Don Davis' directions for a new volleyball strategy.

Sports Prepared Athletes for the Future

"Athletics is a way of life in our society. Sports prepare young athletes with a state of mind that helps them adapt to new environments. An attitude of aggressiveness can help one to succeed in business and industry," states Bill Boswell, Westminster High's Athletics' Director and Head Football Coach.

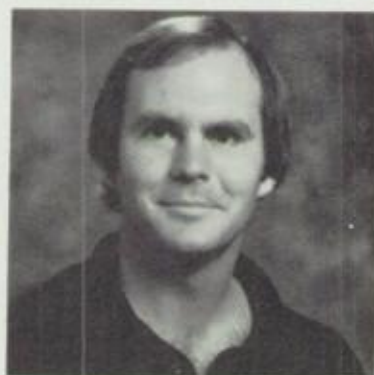

Coach Boswell and other members of the WHS coaching squad, have received many thank-you letters from students they have worked with in the past. These letters stress that the mental and physical discipline they received in sports has paid off greatly. "High school sports provides a release for those who participate. It teaches skills, fitness, diet, and activities that carry over into other areas of life."

Westminster produced many fine athletes this year through the coaching of men and women who believed that they must "... produce an environment for the athlete in which that person is treated as an individual, not just a body on the field."

All WHS coaches teach academic classes in addition to their coaching responsibilities.

Coach Cossarek helps one of the wrestlers with his technique. 2) A smile on Mr. Borchert's face meant his team was winning. 3) Anticipation was present when Coach Boswell discussed a play with one of the football players. The Science Department Offered a Wide Variety of

The Science Department at Westminster High School offered a wide variety of classes as preparation for future employment. Besides the regular science classes found in most schools, WHS's electives included Ecological Biology, Health Careers, Laboratory Techniques, Marine Biology, Nature Studies, Computer Science, and Consumer Science.

With all these choices, students needed only to decide to take college preparatory courses or those geared toward teaching everyday life skills. Many of these new courses allow students to try out different fields in which they believe they are interested. After a semester in a Health Careers class or a Marine Biology class, students may choose whether they want to continue in this area after they graduate.

The Consumer Service course teaches students how to cope with everyday science problems and emphasizes important facts that future consumers should know, including the wise use of energy, conservation techniques, and the contents of food products.

Program Incorporated Basic Skills to

The Social Science Department assisted the English Department during the year: it began its own program to improve student writing and reading skills. Additionally, the department concentrated on presenting a well-rounded social studies program to the students.

"Instead of just giving the proficiency skills, we're teaching this method on three levels — in Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior history classes. The Hart Bill requires us to teach so that students pass the proficiency exam and receive a diploma," commented Mr. Sam Stovall, department coordinator.

"Basically, our educational methods haven't changed much. The only exception is the use of television and videotapes, with emphasis now on simulation," stated Mrs. Evie Meacham, coordinator. "Simulation allows students to learn Social Studies through history games and enactments of situations in which social-science understanding comes into play."

New Rights for Students Attained

It was an extremely busy year for the Special Education Department as members began implementation of the new laws protecting the rights of the handicapped. California's Master Plan and P.L. 94-142, which has been called the Magna Carta for the handicapped of ages 3-21, gives all handicapped students the right to a free public school education.

Al Stevens, school psychologist, stated, "We've been inundated with paperwork; but it's worth it. Handicapped students who couldn't afford special private schools can now receive the education to which they're entitled."

Besides handling paper work, specialists were busy going into the community finding all handicapped students who were eligible for the program. Next year the Special Education Department will be much more involved helping regular teachers adjust their programs to integrate handicapped students into regular classes.

Rigid Attendance Required to Pass Traffic and Safety

Traffic and Safety has always been a popular class, so getting enrolled in it involved a long wait this year. Entrance depended on those very important factors: age and grade. Once in the class, the student had to learn driving rules and regulations and, mainly, to handle cars safely.

Some of the teaching instruments used in the class were the ever-popular simulator, movies, lectures in preparation for the next time the students drove, and the training car.

The class was not an easy one to pass. Every absence was very important in this class; no one was permitted to miss one day of driving or one day using the simulator. Also, if the student failed to make up an absence, he or she could not pass the class. This meant he would have to wait until next September to take it again.

The coordinator of Traffic and Safety is Mr. Ron Porter, who has the difficult job of controlling enrollment in the class. The teachers of Traffic and Safety classes have a tough job also: not only do they risk their lives driving with students, but they even have to do it at 6:30 in the morning!

This year students in Traffic and Safety classes had to learn to drive at least three different cars. They were, as the class requires, taught to drive both stick and automatic shift cars. However, when several of the driving cars were replaced, the class got to practice on even more vehicles.

Title I

Title I Worked as "A School Within a School"

"Title I is a program designed for students who are able, but are having trouble with such subjects as reading, English, math, and social studies. Students in the program are selected because they need a little extra help to be successful in their studies," concluded Mr. Ron Hall, Title I coordinator.

The program participants were recommended for Title I usually by a counselor or teacher, but a few have signed themselves up. Also, parents have requested some students be enrolled in the program.

Title I is very much a school within a school. "We even have our own constitution," Hall acknowledged. "We also elect our own student body officers."

With assistance from the Parent Advisor Commission, the Title I students and faculty took several field trips this past year, including trips to the beach, the mountains, and local recreation parks. Also on this year's Title I agenda were pot luck dinners, and the annual Awards Festival.

Title I is the largest special program on campus with over 400 students currently enrolled. The number of students has increased yearly since the program first began in 1967. The staff has grown to 43 members, including two department counselors, Mr. Emery Fillmore and Dr. Ruth Bachlor.

1) Ms. Friedrich helps a student make up a spelling test she has missed. 2) Mrs. June Martin, Community Liaison, Dr. Ruth Bachlor, counselor, and Ron Hall, Title I Project Manager, stand outside the Title I trailer. 3) Students soon learn work skills helping Title I secretary Mrs. Charlene Sorell. 4) Tutoring assistant Chuck Bachlor works with a student in the program.

Indian Program Made Students Aware of Heritage

The American Indian Program at WHS helped make Westminster students of Indian descent aware of their heritage. The program, which has just completed its fourth year in the district, acquaints students with the cultural, social, and academic contributions of various Indian groups. It provides students with counseling, when needed, with opportunities to learn some of the crafts, skills, and achievements of various Indians, and it builds a unifying, positive self-awareness. A wide selection of college scholarships were offered to American Indian students involved in the Title IV program.

Mrs. Bonnie Parsons, coordinator of the program, is hopeful that it will continue to expand. "The first year was an experiment. The program is assessed every year, by federal and community evaluators to determine whether it should continue."

Title IV gets district funds based on the number of students who are verified as persons of American Indian descent. To be verified, all a student had to do was have his parents sign a card saying he is part American Indian. Presently, there are 135 verified American Indian students at WHS.

1) Title IV Project Manager, Mrs. Bonnie Parsons puts finishing touches on her report of the last Parent Advisory Committee meeting. 2) Mrs. Shirley Murch, Community Liaison, and a student tutor prepare a lesson for several project members. 3,4) Spring dinner and shows bring families together in the WHS gym.

Atwood and Waldman Provided Specialized Services

Activities Director

For over a decade (since 1966) Ms. Barbara Atwood has spent countless hours each day planning events and activities for WHS. Ms. Atwood first began working at WHS in 1961, teaching typing in the Business Department. In addition, she accepted a number of extra-curricular duties. "I was doing almost what I do now, except I wasn't Activities Director then," commented Ms. Atwood.

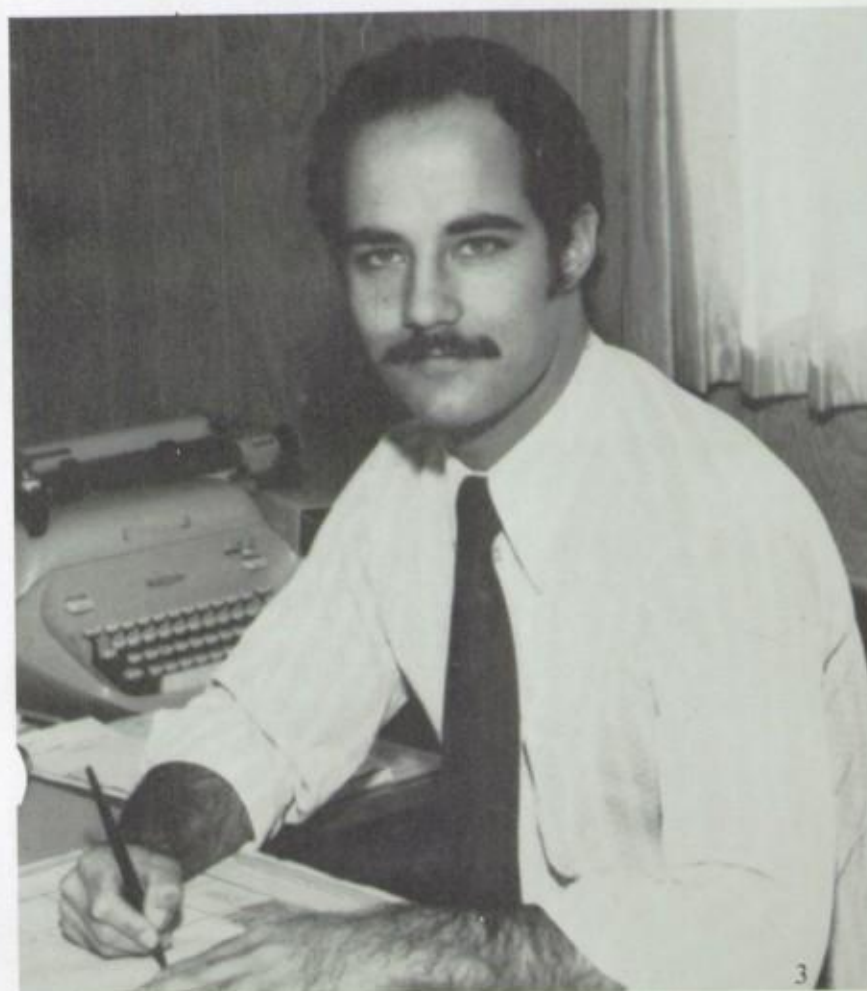

Ms. Atwood's job as Activities Director is somewhat that of a jack-of-all-trades. Besides coordinating activities, she also works with the House of Lords, and with the administration and faculty, serving on various committees.

Business Services Assistant

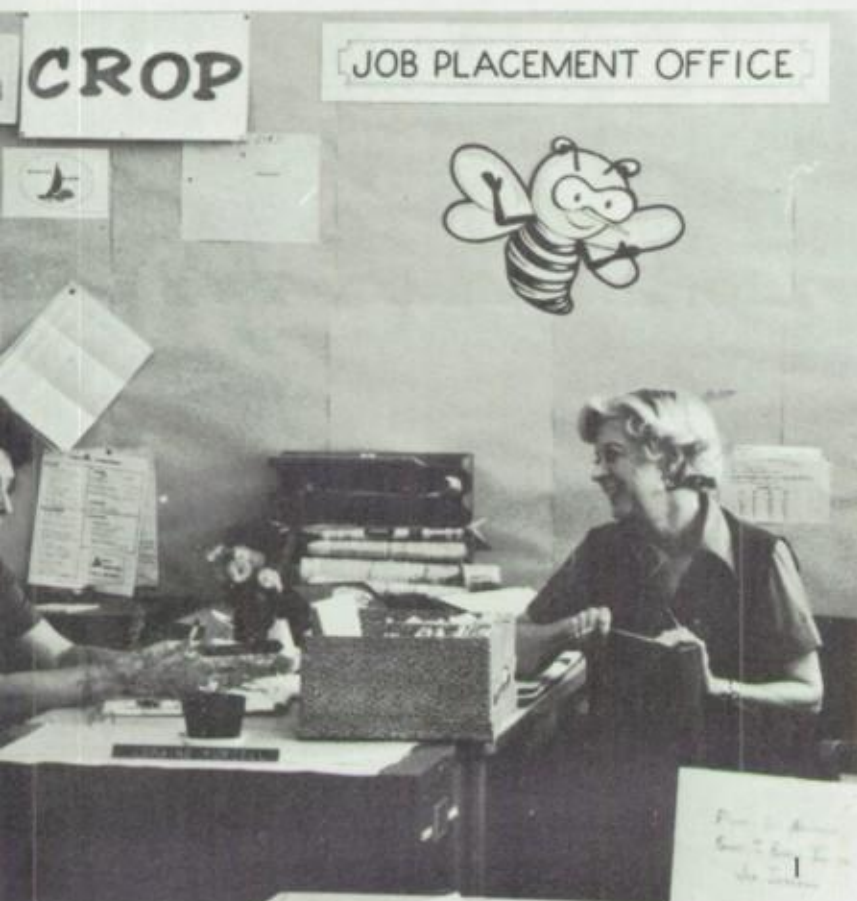

Dave Waldman accepted the position of Business Assistant when Bob Grantz left in December to take a new assignment in Madera County. Waldman came to WHS with 10 years' experience as a cost accountant. His education includes a teaching credential from Cal State Northridge. "The thought of still being a teacher dangles in my mind," admits Waldman. However, Waldman is quite satisfied with his new position, "I find the people here very congenial. It's a hectic job, but the variety makes it worthwhile."

1) A discussion of upcoming events is supervised by Ms. Atwood. 2) Ms. Atwood shows her amusement at the photographer's antics to get her to smile. 3) "I enjoy the variety of tasks in my new job," stated Dave Waldman, new business assistant.

On-the-Job Training Earned Credits for Students

The main program of the Vocational Education Department is the CROP agenda, or Coastline Regional Occupational Program. Through this program students were given opportunities to work at vocations for high school credit. Among the jobs available to eligible work experience students were automotive services, clerical, and computer technology, cosmetology, financial occupations, dental aide positions, restaurant services, health and grocery store jobs.

"The new program developed this year was the Manpower Program through which 30 to 90 students were placed in paid positions at sites throughout the community. To qualify for this federally funded program students must be 16 years of age and must have a work permit," said Mrs. Anji Clemens, coordinator for the work experience and vocational programs.

Ms. Anji Clemens

1) Busily at work in the job placement office, Ms. Purcell can still find time for a laugh or two. 2) Students in Vocational Education take a look at what job opportunities are open and of interest to them. 3) Carefully advising her students is an enjoyable service for Ms. Clemens to provide.

Danny - We're keeping our fingers crossed for your graduation. Good luck always Mr. Personality

Nurse and Librarians Served All

Aiding the ill and injured, Nurse Kathy Schwabl coordinated WHS's emergency care services. According to Schwabl, the main cause of injuries at Westminster High was sports, the second cause was accidents in Industrial Arts and Home Economics classes. For every person who entered the nurse's office, both accident and follow-up reports had to be prepared, documented, and filed.

The Health Office gave screening tests for eye and ear problems for the Reading Department, Special Education Department, and the Traffic and Safety Department. Tests for tuberculosis were given to all staff members, including student employees. Nurse Schwabl says one of her most important responsibilities was counseling students who feared they might have serious health problems, including pregnancy and venereal disease. As the WHS nurse, Ms. Schwabl was prepared for every emergency, physical and psychological.

The Library Staff had a hectic year highlighted by a Book Fair which enabled students to buy bestsellers of all kinds, instead of having to check them out. At the fair a wide range of books from drama to biographies were sold at very reasonable prices. The Book Fair was only one addition to the many services that the Library has to offer, including assistance in locating pleasure reading and reference material, cataloging records, films and other visual instructional materials, and receiving all new books and magazines purchased by the school.

1) Nurse Kathy Schwabl is performing one of her routine services: examining ears. 2) Mrs. Jean Cavanaugh, Head Librarian, shows a student how to locate the book he wants. 3) Mrs. Barbara Murphy runs the film projector for a student. 4) Besides putting books on the shelf, Mrs. Ethel Feld has a considerable amount of desk work to do.

Hard-Working Service Crews Kept School Happy

The cafeteria staff had a very busy year — as usual — but managed to do a terrific job anyway. Headed by Mrs. Vivian Hall, the cafeteria workers managed to prepare interesting, tasty meals and saw that the food was always in good supply for each lunch period.

The maintenance crew did a fantastic job keeping the WHS campus clean. Both the day and night crews not only picked up trash, sometimes dropped by careless students, but kept classrooms cleaned, floors waxed, boards washed, and lights and windows replaced.

CONFIDENCE IS THE FEELING

YOU'LL HAVE WITH YOUR NEWFOUND KNOWLEDGE ABOUT YOUR HAIR. YOU'LL NEVER AGAIN BE PLAGUED WITH TERMINAL FRIZZIES. NOW YOU'LL KNOW HOW TO CLEANSE, TREAT, AND GROOM YOUR HAIR LIKE A PROFESSIONAL. NATURAL CONCEPT OF HAIR DESIGNING FOR MEN, WOMEN, AND CHILDREN.

Coach Boswell Announced His Retirement

120-65-5. Those are Bill Boswell's final numbers, but they do not begin to tell the story of the man who has been the Lions' only head football coach since Westminster High School opened. Coach Boswell announced his retirement after his nineteenth season on the Lions' football field.

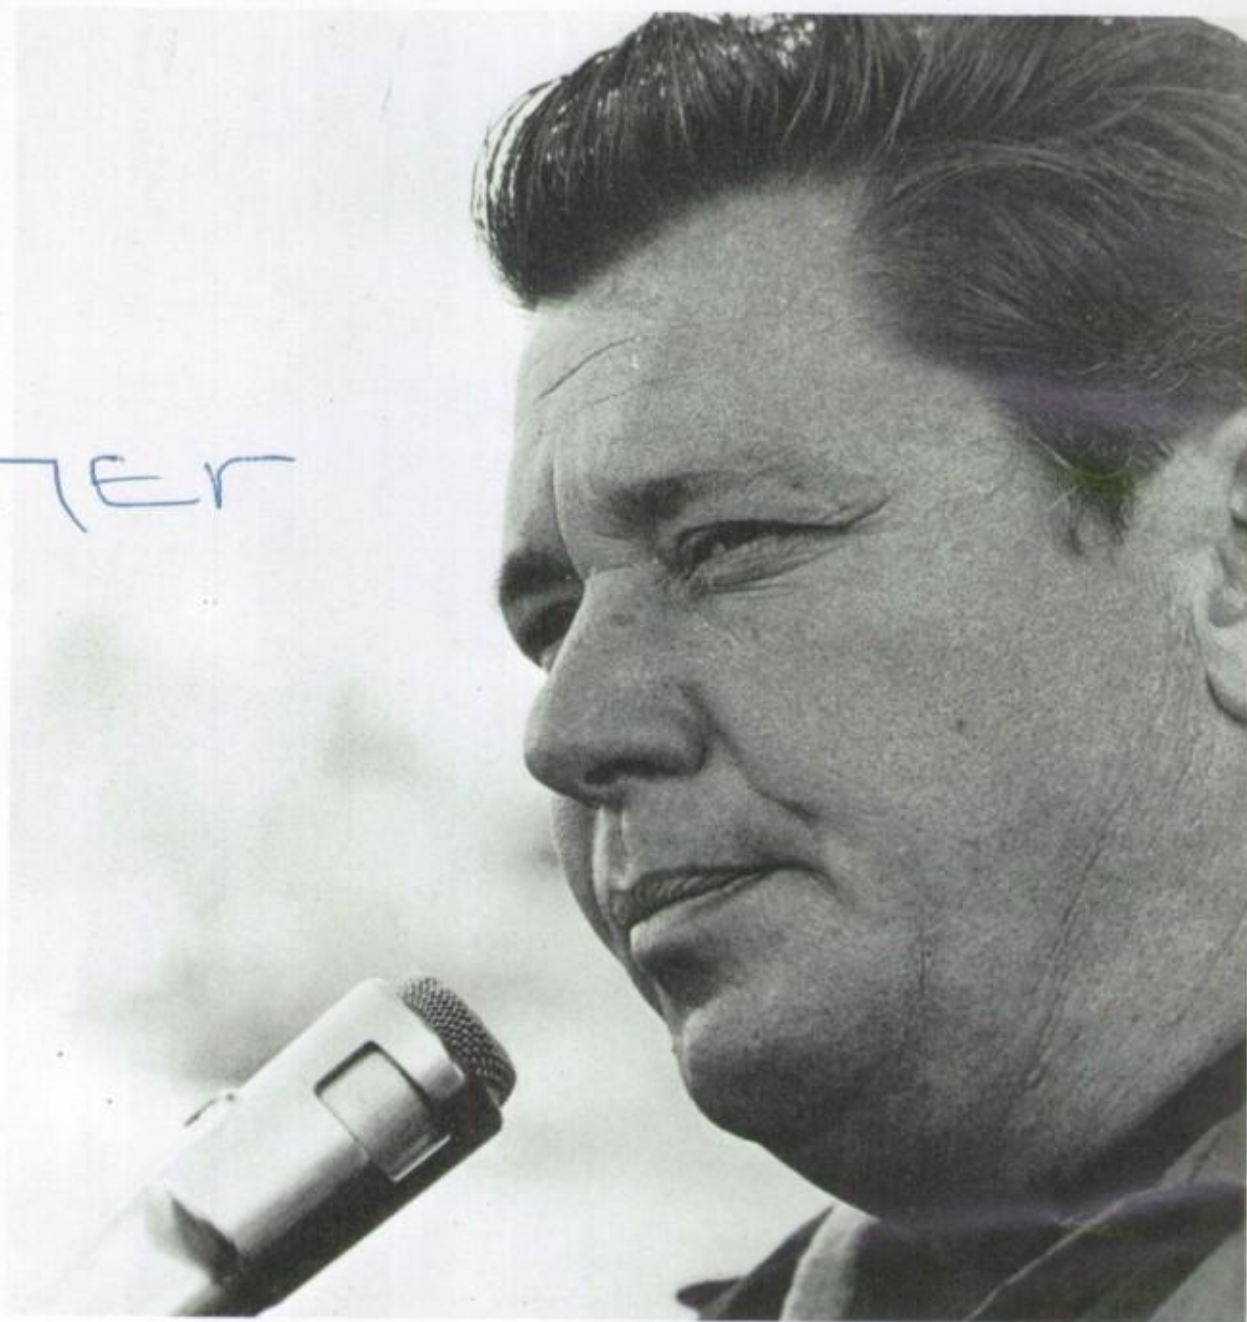

Although he will retain his post as Athletic Director, the man who cared as much for his players off the field as he did on it, will still be missed.

It would be easy to talk about Boswell's football record, but there is more to the man than that. His success on the field was probably due as much to his interaction with players as to his coaching ability.

That Boswell is loved was shown by the crowd of 300 people who attended his retirement dinner on the 29th of April at the South Coast Plaza Hotel. Included in that group were many former players, administrators, and friends.

In a sense, Boswell is not leaving the football field, he is merely broadening his horizons, and will be using his talents in all sports instead of limiting himself to football.

about this years prom + getting lost almost in S.F. I hope all the pictures we took came out good. It was a day (night) I'll never forget in my heart. I hope we'll have many, many more good times together. And much more thoughts and memories to share with,
together.

I hope in the future we can become more as one + try to be more understanding, not so jealous + build up a trust in one another.
I also hope we will no let material objects or people come between us. I am hoping and praying too, that I can become more close to your family and your family become close to me someday. Also that our parents could meet and get along well with one another ^{this} would make me happy.
